J. Bonner Ritchie is Professor Emeritus of International Organizational Behavior at the Marriott School of Management, Brigham Young University, and a Scholar in Residence at Utah Valley University. After completing his B.S. and Ph.D. at the University of California, Berkeley, he joined the faculty of the University of Michigan (1967-1973). From 1973 until retirement in 2000 he served on the faculty of the Marriott School at Brigham Young University. He was a visiting professor at Stanford University, the University of California (Berkeley), St. Mary's College, BirZeit University (Palestine), the University of Jordan, the Jordan Institute of Diplomacy and the University of Southern Europe.

Awards received include the University of Michigan Distinguished Teaching Award, BYU Maeser Distinguished Teaching Award, BYU Honors Professor of the Year, Exxon Teaching Excellence Awards, the Marriott School of Management Outstanding Faculty Award and the William G. Dyer Distinguished Alumni Award.

Professor Ritchie's teaching, research, publication and consulting activities have been in the areas of leadership development, organizational change, conflict resolution and peacemaking, and organizational ethics and philosophy. Professor Ritchie is co-author of the text, Organization and People, and author of over seventy five book chapters and professional articles and producer of four training films. His recent consulting efforts have focused mainly on leadership development, organizational change and peacemaking in the Middle East.

Professor Ritchie and his wife, Lois, have four children, eight grandchildren, and reside in Provo, Utah.

This year's Dialogue on Peace and Justice is the fifth presented by UVU Peace and Justice Studies, but it is the first underwritten by the generosity of Dr. Ritchie. UVU Peace and Justice Studies thanks him for his support of our program and his commitment to issues of peace and justice.

UVU Peace and Justice Studies would like to thank: The Center for Engaged Learning, The International Center, and The Utah Democracy Project for their generous support of this Dialogue. We would also like to thank Cathryn Thayne, Ben Rankin, and Chris Davey for their work in producing this Dialogue.

The UVU Peace and Justice Studies Program depends on the financial support of contributors like you. To support events like the annual J. Bonner Ritchie Dialogue on Peace and Justice, to help our students engage in peacebuilding activities and training around the world, and further all our work, please make your check out to the "Utah Valley University Foundation" and write "Peace and Justice Studies" on the memo line. For more information, please contact Dr. Michael Minch, Director of Peace and Justice Studies. 801.863.7482 uvu.edu/peaceandjustice. Thank You.

The 2009 J. Bonner Ritchie Dialogue on Peace and Justice

Genocide: Histories, Evils, and Prevention

Tuesday, March 24th
Wednesday, March 25th
Utah Valley University

Peace and Justice Studies at

UVU Utah Valley University

Photo of skull from Tuol Sleng Genocide Museum in Cambodia

Schedule of Events

Except as noted, all events will be held in UVU Library Lecture Hall LI 120

2009 J. Bonner Ritchie Dialogue on Peace and Justice

Tuesday, March 24:

8:30-9:45

Kenneth Campbell, Stopping Genocide:The Problem of Political Will

10:00-11:15

Helen Fein, The Past and Present of Genocide Prevention (with References to Rwanda, Yugoslavia and Darfur)

1:00-2:15

Samuel Totten, Sudan: A Genocidal State?

2:30-3:45

Ervin Staub, Overcoming Evil: Understanding, Preventing, and Reconciling after Mass Killing and Genocide

7:00-8:30

J. Bonner Ritchie, Finding Hope in a "Hopeless" World

Wednesday, March 25:

9:00-9:50

Workshop on genocide research: What it is, Where to do it, Why it needs to be Done and Career Options

10:00-10:50

Panel discussion with Drs. Campbell, Fein, Totten, and Staub

11:00-11:50

Witness

Dance performance in Ragan Theatre

Angela Banchero-Kelleher, choreographer

12:00-12:50

Student Presentation

An Overview of Genocide with Focus on Rwanda presented by: Emily Gillespie, Ashley Thalman, Rachel Potter, Sarah Heywood, Annette Marvin

1:00-1:50

Rocky Anderson, High Road for Human Rights

2:00-2:50

Student papers

3:00-3:50

Student papers

Our Eminent Visiting Scholars:

Helen Fein is an Associate with the International Security Program at the Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University. She is a historical sociologist who is author and editor of 12 books and monographs on genocide, human rights, collective violence, and altruism and many articles. She serves as Executive Director of the Institute for the Study of Genocide (New York) and was a founder and first President of the International Association of Genocide Scholars. Her many books include, Human Rights and Wrongs: Slavery, Terror, Genocide and Accounting for Genocide: National Responses and Jewish Victimization During the Holocaust.

Samuel Totten is a scholar of genocide studies at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville. During the spring 2008 semester (January through June) he was a Fulbright Scholar at the Centre for Conflict Management, National University of Rwanda. During the summer of 2004, he served as one of the 24 investigators with the U.S. State Department's Atrocities Documentation Project, and has spent many months on the ground in Rwanda (on a Fulbright) and along the Chad/Sudan/Darfur border. He is a co- founding editor of Genocide Studies and Prevention: An International Journal. His many books include: Genocide in Darfur: Investigating the Atrocities in the Sudan; The Dictionary of Genocide; The Plight and Fate of Women During and Following Genocide; Century of Genocide: Critical Essays and Eyewitness Testimony; and Teaching about Genocide.

Kenneth J. Campbell is Associate Professor of International Relations at the University of Delaware. He has contributed articles about genocide to Genocide at the Millennium: A Critical Bibliographic Review; and The Encyclopedia of Government and Politics. He's written Genocide and the Global Village, and A Tale of Two Quagmires: Iraq, Vietnam, and the Hard Lessons of War. He is currently at work on books entitled, Power and Morality in the Study of International Relations; and Genocide Hawks: The Growing Demand for the Use of International Military Force to Suppress Genocide.

Ervin Staub is Professor of Psychology at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. He has taught at Harvard, Stanford, and the London School of Economic and Political Science. His books include, The Roots of Evil: The Origins of Genocide and Other Group Violence and The Psychology of Good and Evil. He is writing a book entitled Prevention and Reconciliation: Genocide, Mass Killing, and Terrorism. He is the past president of the Society for the Study of Peace, Conflict and Violence. He has served, or serves, on the editorial boards of the Journal of Conflict Resolution, Peace and Conflict: Journal of Peace Psychology, and Genocide Studies: An International Journal.