Amar, Akhil Reed | Sterling Professor of Law and Political Science, Yale University

Akhil Reed Amar is Sterling Professor of Law and Political Science at Yale University, where he teaches constitutional law at both Yale College and Yale Law School. His work has won awards from both the American Bar Association and the Federalist Society. He has been favorably cited by Supreme Court justices across the spectrum in over 30 cases (citing to four different books and more than a dozen distinct articles), and he regularly testifies before Congress at the invitation of both Republicans and Democrats. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and in 2008 he received the DeVane Medal—Yale’s highest award for teaching excellence. He has written widely for popular publications such as The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, The Atlantic, and Slate. He was an informal consultant to the popular TV show, The West Wing, and his work has been showcased on more recent TV shows such as The Colbert Report, Charlie Rose, and The MHP Show. Professor Amar is also the author of several books, including The Bill of Rights: Creation and Reconstruction (Yale Univ. Press, 1998), America’s Constitution: A Biography (Random House, 2005), America’s Unwritten Constitution: The Precedents and Principles We Live By (Basic Books, 2012), and The Law of the Land: A Grand Tour of our Constitutional Republic (Basic Books, 2015). His new book, The Constitution Today: Timeless Lessons for the Issues of Our Era, is being published in September 2016, just in time for the election.

Balkin, Jack M. | Knight Professor of Constitutional Law and the First Amendment, Yale Law School

Jack M. Balkin is Knight Professor of Constitutional Law and the First Amendment at Yale Law School. He is the founder and director of Yale's Information Society Project, an interdisciplinary center that studies law and new information technologies. He also directs the Abrams Institute for Freedom of Expression, and the Knight Law and Media Program at Yale. Professor Balkin is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and founded and edits the group blog Balkinization. His books include Living Originalism; Constitutional Redemption: Political Faith in an Unjust World; The Constitution in 2020 (with Reva Siegel); Processes of Constitutional Decisionmaking (6th ed. with Brest, Levinson, Amar, and Siegel); Cultural Software: A Theory of Ideology; The Laws of Change: I Ching and the Philosophy of Life; What Brown v. Board of Education Should Have Said; and What Roe v. Wade Should Have Said.

Lund, Nelson | University Professor, Antonin Scalia Law School, George Mason University

Nelson Lund is University Professor at George Mason University's Antonin Scalia Law School, where he has served as Vice Dean and as co-editor of the Supreme Court Economic Review. A graduate of St. John’s College in Annapolis, he holds advanced degrees in philosophy from the Catholic University of America (M.A. 1978), and in political science from Harvard University (Ph.D. 1981). He received his law degree in 1985 from the University of Chicago, where he was executive editor of the University of Chicago Law Review and chapter president of the Federalist Society.

Professor Lund served as a law clerk for the Honorable Patrick E. Higginbotham of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit (1985-1986) and for the Honorable Sandra Day O’Connor of the United States Supreme Court (O.T. 1987). In addition to experience in the United States Department of Justice at the Office of the Solicitor General and at the Office of Legal Counsel, Professor Lund served in the White House as Associate Counsel to the President from 1989 to 1992.

Morrison, Jeffry | Director of Academics, James Madison Foundation

Dr. Jeffry Morrison is Director of Academics at the federal government’s James Madison Foundation in Alexandria, Virginia, and Professor of Government at Regent University in Virginia Beach. He graduated with distinction from Boston College and from Georgetown University, where he earned the M.A. and Ph.D. in Government. Dr. Morrison has also held faculty appointments at Princeton University, at the U.S. Air Force Academy, and at Georgetown. He has published as author or editor five books on American constitutionalism, including The Political Philosophy of George Washington (Johns Hopkins University Press, 2009), and chapters, articles, and reviews in scholarly publications such as American Political Thought, Journal of American History, and Virginia Magazine of History and Biography. He has lectured at colleges and historic sites throughout the United States and in England (Hertford College, Oxford), and made media appearances on radio, in journalism, and on television (C-Span and the BBC). He lives in Williamsburg, Virginia, where his home sits on a Revolutionary War battlefield.

Murphy, Bruce Allen | Fred Morgan Kirby Professor of Civil Rights, Lafayette College

Bruce Allen Murphy teaches Constitutional Law, American Politics and biographical writing as the Fred Morgan Kirby Professor of Civil Rights at Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania. He is the author of several judicial biographies including Scalia: A Court of One, published by Simon and Schuster in 2014. His other books include The Brandeis-Frankfurter Connection: The Secret Political Activities of Two Supreme Court Justices (Oxford University Press, 1982) which became the subject of a national debate about extrajudicial ethics as the result of a front page story in the Sunday New York Times. His Fortas: The Rise and Ruin of a Supreme Court Justice (William Morrow, 1988) and later Wild Bill: The Legend and Life of William O. Douglas, (Random House, 2003) explored the political activities of both men while serving on the bench. Murphy’s work has been twice nominated for the Pulitzer Prize, and he is a recipient of several writing, researching, and teaching awards, including a Silver Gavel Award from the American Bar Association.

Rossum, Ralph A. | Henry Salvatori Professor of American Constitutionalism, Claremont McKenna College

Ralph A. Rossum is the Henry Salvatori Professor of American Constitutionalism at Claremont McKenna College and a member of the faculty of Claremont Graduate University. He earned his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and is the author

Mr. Rossum served as Deputy Director for Data Analysis of the Bureau of Justice Statistics in the Department of Justice. He has also served as a member of the Advisory Board of the National Institute of Corrections in the Department of Justice, as a member of the National Board of the Fund for the Improvement of Post-Secondary Education in the Department of Education, and as a member of the California Advisory Committee, U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Severino, Carrie | Chief Counsel and Policy Director, Judicial Crisis Network

Carrie Severino is chief counsel and policy director of the Judicial Crisis Network. In that capacity she has testified before Congress on assorted constitutional issues and briefed Senators on judicial nominations. Mrs. Severino has been extensively quoted in the media and regularly appeared on television, including MSNBC, FOX, CNN, C-SPAN and ABC's This Week. She has written and spoken on a wide range of judicial issues, particularly the constitutional limits on government, the federal nomination process, and state judicial selection. Mrs. Severino regularly files briefs in high-profile Supreme Court cases. In the 2015 term she filed amicus curiae briefs in Evenwel v. Abbott, Fisher v. Texas, Friedrichs v. California Teachers Association, Little Sisters of the Poor v. Burwell, and United States v. Texas. Until March 2010, Mrs. Severino was an Olin/Searle Fellow and a Dean's Visiting Scholar at Georgetown University Law Center. She was previously a law clerk to U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas and to Judge David B. Sentelle of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit. She is a graduate of Harvard Law School, cum laude, of Duke University, and holds a Master’s degree in Linguistics from Michigan State University.

Smith, Rodney K. | Incoming Director, The Center for Constitutional Studies, Utah Valley University

Rodney K. Smith received his B.A. from Western Colorado State College, his J.D. with honors from Brigham Young University, and his LL.M and Doctorate (SJD) from the University of Pennsylvania. Professor Smith also holds honorary doctorates from Capital University and Southern Virginia University. He currently serves as a Professor of Practice and Director of the Sports Law and Business Program at Arizona State University. Professor Smith also served as dean of the schools of law at Capital University, the University of Montana, and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock and as President at Southern Virginia University. Professor Smith also held the Herff Chair of excellence in law at the University of Memphis and has testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Professor Smith is the author of numerous books and more than twenty-five scholarly articles. He is recognized for his scholarship in the freedom of religion and sports law areas. He also writes for the opinion sections many newspapers, including USA Today, The Christian Science Monitor, Washington
Staab, James | Professor of Political Science, University of Central Missouri

Dr. James Staab is a professor of Political Science at the University of Central Missouri. He received his B.A. from Roanoke College, his J.D. from the University of Richmond, and his Ph. D. from the University of Virginia. His primary field of interest is public law, broadly defined, including American constitutional law, civil rights and liberties, judicial politics, and jurisprudence. He has authored or co-authored articles or book chapters on various Supreme Court justices, including Levi Woodbury, Benjamin Cardozo, and Antonin Scalia. In 2006, he published a book on Justice Scalia titled The Political Thought of Justice Antonin Scalia: A Hamiltonian on the Supreme Court (Lanham, MD: Rowman &amp; Littlefield). He is currently working on a book examining originalism as an interpretative philosophy of the Constitution. He received the Governor’s Award for Excellence in Education in 2012 and the Byler Award in 2014.

Wydra, Elizabeth | President, Constitutional Accountability Center

Elizabeth is Constitutional Accountability Center's President. From 2008-2016, she served as CAC's Chief Counsel. A graduate of Claremont McKenna College and Yale Law School, Wydra joined CAC from private practice at Quinn Emanuel Urquhart & Sullivan in San Francisco, where she was an attorney working with former Stanford Law School Dean Kathleen Sullivan in the firm’s Supreme Court/appellate practice. Wydra’s legal practice focuses on Supreme Court litigation and high-stakes cases in the federal courts of appeals. She has represented CAC as well as clients including congressional leaders, preeminent constitutional scholars and historians, state and local legislators and government organizations, and groups such as Justice at Stake, League of Women Voters, and AARP. Wydra appears frequently in print and on air as a legal expert for outlets including the New York Times, Washington Post, NBC, ABC, CNN, FOX, BBC, and NPR.