For mathematics majors, to be taken during the last semester before graduation. Reviews topics learned in the core undergraduate mathematics courses. Assesses student understanding through the Major's Field Test. Provides an opportunity for senior mathematics majors to participate in mathematical research under the supervision of a faculty member. Offers a setting in which students prepare a research paper and give oral presentations that describe their research.

MATH 5510
General Topology
3:3:0
Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): MATH 4510 or MATH 4210 with a grade of C or higher

Introduces the fundamentals of general topology, including topological spaces, separation axioms, continuity, compactness, connectedness, metric spaces, product spaces, metrization and ordinals.

MATH 6100
Topics in Geometry and Topology
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Includes manifolds, fundamental group, classification of surfaces, covering spaces, homotopy types, differential geometry, Riemannian geometry, algebraic geometry, projective geometry, and algebraic topology. May be delivered online.

MATH 6310
Modern Algebra
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Reviews the basics of ring theory. Analyzes ideals and factor rings in detail to prepare students for the study of fields. Uses the basics of field theory, including the construction of field extensions, to prove the impossibility of the three great construction problems of antiquity. Concludes with an introduction to Galois Theory.

MATH 6350
Introduction to Combinatorics
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Enumerates permutations and combinations of sets and multi-sets, inclusion-exclusion, recurrence relations, generating functions, Polya theory, and combinatorial structures.

MATH 6410
Topics in Ordinary Differential Equations
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Includes the theory of linear and nonlinear ordinary differential equations and dynamical systems; the initial-value problems and behavior of solutions; the existence, uniqueness, perturbations, continuous dependence of solution on initial conditions, and introduction of nonlinear dynamical systems with applications.

MATH 6610
Numerical Methods and Modeling
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Investigates modelling and numerical topics. Investigates topics from college algebra, calculus, linear algebra, and differential equations from a theoretical as well as numerical perspective. Expounds on algorithms and modelling through software packages in a hands-on approach.

Topics in Numerical Analysis
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Develops a deeper practical and theoretical understanding of methods used to find approximate solutions of a variety of mathematical problems and of the relationships between these algorithms. Compares accuracy, efficiency, and stability of methods used to solve nonlinear equations and large systems of linear and nonlinear algebraic equations; ordinary and partial differential equations; and to perform numerical differentiation, integration, interpolation and more general approximation of functions. Provides experience programming and applying many of the central algorithms that have powered modern advances in math and the sciences.

Applications of Mathematics
3:3:0
On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Introduces various areas of mathematics that can be applied to other fields such as the sciences, arts, industry, etc. Includes topics such as game theory, graph theory, knot theory, number theory, etc.

Mathematics Developmental (MAT)

MAT 090R
Individualized Mathematics Review
1 to 3:1 to 3:0
On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Appropriate test scores

For students placing into MAT 0950 or MAT 0990. Includes diagnostic test of student's mathematical knowledge base. Develops individualized study plan, including number of credit hours recommended to complete. Course offered credit/no credit. May be repeated once for a maximum of 5 credits. Lab access fee of $3 applies.

MAT 0920
Math Fundamentals
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Appropriate placement by a placement exam.

Designed for students requiring basic math review. Reviews basic operations with whole numbers and fractions. Includes basic operations involving decimals, percents, ratios, rates, and basic operations involving physical measurements. Lab access fee of $3 applies.

MAT 0950
Foundations for Algebra
4:4:0
Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within two years): MAT 0920 with a grade of C- or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.

Designed for students requiring basic math and pre algebra instruction. Covers basic operations for number systems up to and including real numbers. Includes fractions, ratios, proportions, decimals, exponents, roots, linear equations, and polynomial expressions. May be delivered online. Lab access fee of $3 applies.

Integrated Pre Algebra and Beginning Algebra
5:5:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Appropriate placement (within two years) by a placement exam.

An accelerated preparatory class for MAT 1010, Intermediate Algebra, covering Pre-Algebra and Beginning Algebra in one semester. Includes real numbers, algebraic expressions, polynomials, solving and graphing linear equations and inequalities, factoring, quadratic equations, rational expressions and equations, ratios, percents, systems of linear equations, roots and radicals, and an introduction to complex numbers. May be delivered online. Lab access fee of $3 applies.

Introductory Algebra
4:4:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within two years): MAT 0950 or MAT 0980 with a C- or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.

For students who have completed a minimum of one year of high school algebra or who lack a thorough understanding of basic algebra principles. Teaches integers, solving equations, polynomial operations, factoring polynomials, systems of equations and graphs, rational expressions, roots, radicals, complex numbers, quadratic equations and the quadratic formula. Prepares students for MAT 1010, Intermediate Algebra. May be delivered hybrid and/or online. Lab access fee of $3 applies.

MAT 1000
Integrated Beginning and Intermediate Algebra
5:5:0
Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within two years): MAT 0920 or MAT 0980 with a C- or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.

Teaches Beginning and Intermediate Algebra in one semester. Includes linear, quadratic, and rational expressions, equations, and functions; systems of equations; logarithms; exponents; graphing; and problem solving. Prepares students for MAT 1030, STAT 1040, MATH 1050, and MATH 1090. May be delivered hybrid and/or online. Lab access fee of $3 applies.

Utah Valley University
Course Catalog 2019-2020
783
MAT 1010 Intermediate Algebra
4:4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within two years): MAT 0980 or MAT 0990 with a grade of C- or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.
Expands and covers in more depth basic algebra concepts introduced in Beginning Algebra. Includes linear and quadratic equations and inequalities, polynomials and rational expressions, radical and exponential expressions and equations, complex numbers, systems of linear and nonlinear equations, functions, conic sections, and real world applications of algebra. May be delivered hybrid and/or online.

MAT 1030 Quantitative Reasoning
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within department time limits): MAT 1010 or MAT 1010 with a grade of C or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.
Teaches how to communicate, interpret, and analyze quantitative information found in the media and in everyday life to make sound personal, professional, and civic decisions. May be delivered online.

MAT 1035 Quantitative Reasoning with Integrated Algebra
6:6:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within department time limits): MAT 0950 with a grade of C or higher; appropriate placement by a placement exam.
Teaches students to communicate, interpret, and analyze quantitative information found in the media and in everyday life to make sound personal, professional, and civic decisions. Provides the necessary algebraic content taught in context.

MAT 103H Quantitative Reasoning
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within department time limits): MAT 1000 or MAT 1010 with a grade of C or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.
Teaches how to communicate, interpret, and analyze quantitative information found in the media and in everyday life to make sound personal, professional, and civic decisions. Covers the material at an honors level. May be delivered online.

MAT 1100 Foundations of Mathematical Thinking and Reasoning
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): One of the following (within two years): MAT 1000 or MAT 1010 with a grade of C- or higher; or appropriate placement by a placement exam.
Reviews and reflects on mathematics taught in K-12 to learn mathematical thinking and reasoning. Includes six topics: (1) Early mathematics experiences and mathematics anxiety (2) Why and how mathematics is as important as language literacy (3) The language features of mathematics, and mathematics as a way of thinking (4) Making mathematical arguments: mathematical structure and reasoning (5) Different ways of working with mathematics: mathematical cognition and methodology (6) Mathematical problem solving.

Mechatronics Technology (MECH)

MECH 1010 Fundamentals of Mechatronics
3:3:0 Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MAT 1010
Covers the fundamental skills and theory of the Mechatronics discipline. Teaches integrated system design which includes electrical, mechanical, and microprocessor programming theory. Discusses the fundamentals of materials science, manufacturing processes, and the application of automation systems in a production environment. Presents the fundamentals of the structure and classification of metals. Covers common manufacturing processes such as casting, forming, metal removal, and heat treating. Course fee of $20 for materials applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 1200 Electronics in Automation Design
3:3:0 Fall
* Corequisite(s): MECH 1205
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MAT 1010
Teaches basic DC and AC electronics theory including voltage, current, resistance, reactance, and complex impedance as well as basic electronic components such as resistors, capacitors, and inductors. Includes the analysis of series, parallel, and complex circuits as well as troubleshooting and measurement techniques. Teaches principles of algebra and trigonometry which will be utilized for circuit analysis. Emphasizes the application of electronic theory and analysis in the design of automation systems. Course Lab fee of $40 for materials, lab applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 1205 Electronics in Automation Design Laboratory
2:0:0 Fall
* Corequisite(s): MECH 1200
Applies basic DC and AC electronics theory including voltage, current, resistance, reactance, and impedance as well as basic electronic components such as resistors, capacitors, and inductors. Includes the analysis of series, parallel, and complex circuits as well as troubleshooting and measurement techniques. Presents the fundamentals of digital logic using combinational and sequential logic. Teaches number systems, binary arithmetic, logic gates, Boolean algebra, truth tables and logic simplification. Introduces computer architecture. Emphasizes the application of electronic theory and analysis in the design of automation systems.

MECH 1300 Industrial Wiring for Mechatronic Systems
2:1:3 Spring
Covers National Electrical Code and International Electrical Code using electrical prints, installation methods, and system requirements in mechatronic systems. Covers the creation and use of electrical diagrams for design and troubleshooting.

MECH 2200 Semiconductors in Mechatronic Systems
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 1200
* Corequisite(s): MECH 2205
Teaches the theory of semiconductor PN junctions and discrete semiconductors such as diodes, bipolar junction transistors, and MOSFET's applied to automation control. Also introduces the utilization of opto-isolators, triacs, and SCR's in controlling automation power devices. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 2205 Semiconductors in Mechatronic Systems Lab
1:0:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 1200
* Corequisite(s): MECH 2200
Applies the theory of semiconductor PN junctions and discrete semiconductors such as diodes, bipolar junction transistors, and MOSFET's applied to automation control. Introduces the utilization of opto-isolators, triacs, and SCR's in controlling automation power devices.

MECH 2300 Microcontroller Architecture and Programming
4:4:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 2305
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MECH 2200
Teaches computer architecture and the fundamentals of computer programming in C language. Uses an IDE to develop, compile and debug C code. Introduces structured top down design and program documentation. Teaches the organization of I/O ports including alternate functions. Utilizes microcontroller communications, functions and I/O methods to interface to sensors and actuators. Course Lab fee of $50 for materials, lab applies. Software fee of $29 applies. Lab access for of $35 applies.

MECH 2305 Microcontroller Architecture and Programming Lab
1:0:3 Spring
* Corequisite(s): MECH 2300
Applies computer architecture and the fundamentals of computer programming in C language. Uses an IDE to develop, compile and debug C code. Introduces structured top down design and program documentation. Teaches the organization of I/O ports including alternate functions. Utilizes microcontroller communications, functions and I/O methods to interface to sensors and actuators.

MECH 2400 Mechanical Components
4:4:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 1010
Teaches students how to select, design, and analyze mechanical components that are used in manufacturing automation systems. Reviews and reinforces the concepts of the structure of metals, metals selection, and mechanical properties. Focuses on the selection of belt and chain drives, gear and gearbox selection, design of shafts, specification of rolling element bearings, and the use of threaded fasteners. Integrates the selection and design of mechanical components into a design project. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

Course Catalog 2019-2020 Utah Valley University
MECH 2500
Introduction to PLCs in Mechatronic Design
4:2:6 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 1200, MECH 2300

Studies the theory and programming of industrial control systems and programmable logic controllers (PLC). Introduces PLC programming stressing Ladder Logic and PLC programming, troubleshooting, and maintenance. Covers connection of PLCs to external components. Presents the fundamentals of digital logic using ladder logic. Teaches number systems and Boolean algebra. Course Lab fee of $15 for materials, lab applies. Software fee of $29 applies. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

MECH 2510
Automation System Sensors
3:2:3 Fall
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MECH 2500

Teaches mechatronics students how to select, install, and troubleshoot sensors in a manufacturing environment. Emphasizes the application of proximity sensors in automation equipment as well as the use of encoders to measure speed and position, pressure transducers, and the use of thermocouples and thermistors to measure temperature. Utilizes signal conditioning methods to interface sensors to microprocessors and PLC’s. Course Lab fee of $20 for lab notebook, lab applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 2550
Advanced PLC Programming and Applications
4:2:6 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 2500

Teaches the principles of program structure, subroutines, interrupts, debugging, and simplifying. Illustrates the measurement and scaling of analog signals and the use of tables and pointers to manipulate data. Features networking principles, such as Ethernet, serial, and Bluetooth communication. Includes the use of high-speed counters and PWM output. Course Lab fee of $15 for materials, lab applies. Software fee of $29 applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 2600
Introduction to Fluid Power Systems
3:2:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 2400

Develops the concepts used to design, build, and control a fluid power system that is used in an industrial automation process. Employs laboratory exercises to illustrate the selection and use of actuators, valves, and controls to sequentially control a process. Course Lab fee of $15 for materials, lab applies. Software fee of $35 applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 3000
Wiring Diagrams in Automation Systems
* Prerequisite(s): (EGDT 1071, EGDT 1000, or Department Approval) and University Advanced Standing.

Teaches how to create industrial wiring diagrams and how to integrate them into a 3D design using SolidWorks Electrical. Requires students to follow IEEE drawing standards to design a complete electromechanical automation system. Includes the development of a complete electrical wiring diagram package that conforms to standard industrial practice. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

Mechatronics Management
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 2550 and University Advanced Standing

Provides management principles, processes, and standards commonly used in manufacturing and other industries. Covers basic concepts in project management, operations management, quality management, and safety management. Familiarizes students with applicable software tools.

MECH 3220
Automation Motors and Controllers
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): (MECH 2550, or EART 2270, or Department Approval) and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): MECH 3225

Presents the selection and application of AC and DC servo motors and how to control the speed and position in automation systems. Teaches variable frequency drives and servo drives in automation system design. Applies algebra, trigonometry, integrals, and derivatives. Course Lab fee of $15 for materials, lab applies. Software fee of $29 applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 3225
Automation Motors and Controllers Laboratory
1:0:3 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): (MECH 2550, or EART 2270, or Department Approval) and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): MECH 3220

Presents the selection and application of AC and DC servo motors and how to control the speed and position in automation systems. Teaches variable frequency drives and servo drives in automation system design.

MECH 3300
Industrial Networks
3:2:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 3220, University Advanced Standing.

Teaches the students how to design, configure, integrate, and maintain an industrial floor network. Uses Allen Bradley software to integrate PLC’s, sensors, HMI’s, and remote computers, smart phones, and iPads into a manufacturing data management network. Course Lab fee of $25 for materials, lab applies. Software fee of $29 applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 3400
Statics and Material Properties for Mechatronics
4:4:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): MECH 3405

Teaches the concept of forces as vectors, the equations of equilibrium, calculation of internal forces, and the calculation of centroids and area moments of inertia. Teaches how to calculate tensile and shear stress in machine components and compare the resultant forces to standard theories of failure using the principles of statics. Teaches algebra, trigonometry, and elementary calculus in terms of the application of statics. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 3405
Statics and Material Properties for Mechatronics Laboratory
1:0:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): MECH 3400

Applies the concept of forces as vectors, the equations of equilibrium, calculation of internal forces, and the calculation of centroids and area moments of inertia. Covers how to calculate tensile and shear stress in machine components and compare the resultant forces to standard theories of failure by using the principles of statics.

MECH 3500
Industrial Robots
3:2:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 3220, University Advanced Standing.

Introduces the principles of industrial robotics, programming, and the application of vision systems. Teaches power supply systems, degrees of freedom, sensors, end effectors, and maintenance methods. Course Lab fee of $11 for flat ribbon cable, lab applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies. Software fee of $50 applies.

Design Analysis and Rapid Prototyping
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 3000, University Advanced Standing.

Teaches the fundamentals of geometric dimensioning and tolerancing based on the ASME Y14.5 standard. Teaches how a design is affected by manufacturing tolerances and how to specify the fit of parts on a detail print. Emphasizes assembly analysis using SolidWorks Motion and rapid prototyping to verify the form, fit, and function of a design. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 3700
CNC Machines
3:2:3 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 3220, University Advanced Standing.

Teaches the application, programming, and maintenance of CNC machines. Emphasizes the integration of CNC machines into automation systems. Covers specifications, performance, interfacing with industrial robots, tooling, programming, and integrating the CNC machine into factory floor network systems. Course Lab fee of $35 for materials applies. Software fee of $29 applies Lab access fee of $35 applies.
Course Descriptions

MECH 4300
Advanced Fluid Power Design
3:2:3  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 2600, University Advanced Standing.

Expands on the basics taught in MECH 2600 and teaches motion control of a fluid power system using a PLC. proportional flow control valves, and analog sensors. Covers analytical performance calculations, as well as software simulation of the complete fluid power system. Course lab fee of $15 for equipment applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 4400
Polymers/Composites and Processes
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 3400, University Advanced Standing.

Teaches students the selection of polymers, design of polymer products and manufacturing processes associated with polymer based products. Also teaches types of composites and design of composite products. Course lab fee of $18 for supplies applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

Advanced Automation Controls
4:3:3  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 4300, University Advanced Standing.

Teaches methods of advanced control of high speed components, analog controls, temperature, pressure, and time delay processes. Teaches digital and analog methods of control. Teaches applications of using algebra, trigonometry, integrals, derivatives to solve complex control problems. Course lab fee of $45 for equipment applies. Lab access fee of $35 applies.

MECH 4800
Capstone Project
3:1:6  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MECH 3570, University Advanced Standing.

Integrates the concepts of the Mechatronics Engineering Technology curriculum into a semester-long design project. Requires students to conceive, define, design, document, and prototype a mechatronic project. Lab access fee of $35 applies. Software fee of $29 applies.

MECH 490R
Topics in Mechatronics
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing

Covers a chosen topic in the mechatronics discipline. May be taken more than once for different topics and for a maximum of 6 credit hours toward graduation.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING (ME)

ME 3010
Linear Systems
3:0:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2030, MATH 2250, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Covers analysis of linear systems in the time and frequency domains. Focuses on modeling and analysis of physical systems. Introduces Fourier and Laplace transforms. Includes a design component.

ME 3130
Kinematics
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2030, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Covers the analysis of dynamic mechanisms including: relative motion of links in mechanisms; velocities and accelerations of machine parts; rolling contact; cams; and synthesis of mechanisms. Introduces computer-aided engineering techniques for mechanism analysis. Includes a design component.

Machine Design
3:0:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2140, ENGR 2160, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Presents methods for static and dynamic stress and failure analysis for mechanical systems. Teaches how to create machine design models and free-body diagrams, calculate stress, estimate deflection, select an appropriate failure theory, and design to prevent failure. Gives experience using commercial FEA software to create models of simple structures and machine components. Includes a design component.

Intermediate Materials
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2140, ENGR 2160, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Teaches in further depth the mechanical behavior of engineering materials including metals, woods, plastics, ceramics and composites. Looks at characteristics, failure mechanisms, and designing with various engineering materials.

ME 3170
Introduction to Plastics and Composites
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2140, ENGR 2160, CHEM 1210, MATH 2250, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Introduces the structure, processing, properties and uses of plastic and composite materials. Surveys manufacturing methods. Teaches the use of plastic and composite materials in various products.

ME 3210
Manufacturing Processes for Engineers
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2140, ENGR 2160, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Introduces manufacturing processes, including machining, injection molding, casting, 3D printing, and forming. Introduces Computer Numeric Control (CNC) machining and Computer Aided Manufacturing (CAM).

ME 3300
Applied Thermodynamics
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2300, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Introduces thermodynamic analysis and design of vapor, gas, refrigeration and heat pump systems, along with exergy analysis. Covers thermodynamic relations, ideal gas mixture and psychrometric applications, reacting mixtures, and combustion. Includes a design component.

ME 3310
Fluid Mechanics
3:0:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2030, University Advanced Standing, and (Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Departmental Approval)

Covers the fundamentals of fluid mechanics including fluid properties, fluid statics, the Bernoulli equation, fluid kinematics, the integral and differential analyses of fluid flow. Introduces dimensional analysis, similitude, and modeling. Covers viscous internal and external flows, and turbomachines. Includes a design component.

Heat Transfer
3:0:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGR 2300, ME 3310, or Departmental Approval) and University Advanced Standing

Focuses on the three modes of heat transfer: conduction, convection, and radiation. Introduces steady and unsteady heat conduction, convection heat transfer principles, forced and free internal and external convection flows. Covers radiation heat transfer, combined modes of heat transfer, and analysis and design of heat exchangers. Includes a design component.

Thermal/Fluid Experimentation
2:0:6  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGR 2300 or Departmental Approval) and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): ME 3320

Covers temperature, pressure, and flow measurement, along with calibration of thermal/fluid sensors in a lab setting. Focuses on experiments to investigate various phenomena in fluid flow, thermodynamics, and heat transfer. Investigates the performance of pumps, fans, and heat exchangers. Includes a writing component.
ME 4010
Automatic Controls
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ME 3010 and University Advanced Standing
Covers analysis of control systems using Evans, Nyquist and Bode's methods. Introduces digital control and feedback compensation concepts for system performance improvement. Includes a design component.

ME 4015
Control and Vibration Experimentation
2:0:6 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ME 4010 and University Advanced Standing
Introduces system modeling and characterization in the time and frequency domains, feedback and compensation, Proportional Integral Derivative (PID) control, control of velocity and position in a lab setting. Covers motion measurement, force measurement, free vibration, frequency response, impact response, noise, and signal processing. Includes a writing component.

ME 4180
Compliant Mechanisms
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): ME 3130, ME 3140, and University Advanced Standing
Covers the design and analysis of compliant mechanisms and compliant structures. Includes large-deflection analysis/force displacement relationships, prediction of failure of compliant members, and synthesis of compliant mechanisms. Includes a design component.

ME 4380
Design of Thermal/Fluid Systems
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2300, ME 3320, and University Advanced Standing
Applies the principles of thermodynamics, fluid mechanics, and heat transfer to the design of conventional and emerging thermal/fluid systems. Includes lectures and design projects.

ME 4390
Heating Ventilating and Air Conditioning Design
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2300, ME 3320, and University Advanced Standing
Covers air conditioning components and systems, moist air properties and conditioning processes. Covers indoor environmental quality indicators, space heating and cooling load calculations, and building energy consumption estimation. Focuses on water- and air-system design, refrigerants and refrigeration systems. Includes lectures and design projects.

ME 4410
Computer Aided Engineering
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ME 3140, ME 3320 and University Advanced Standing
Covers the application of computer-aided engineering tools in design; 3-D geometry and solid modeling; finite element analysis, kinematic analysis, and other software in engineering analysis. Includes a design component.

ME 4420
Finite Element Methods
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ENGR 2140, ME 3320 and University Advanced Standing
Covers discrete approximation of engineering problems, energy and weighted residual methods, and coordinate systems and mapping. Focuses on one-, two-, and three-dimensional formulation of problems in solid and fluid mechanics and heat transfer, time-dependent problems, and optimization techniques.

ME 4510
Mechanical Engineering Seminar
1:1:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): ME 4810
Introduces various mechanical engineering careers and related industries. Emphasizes importance of life-long learning and active participation in professional societies and communities through lectures given by practicing engineers using their own experiences. Introduces various engineering codes of ethics. Intended as a culminating seminar for graduating seniors to prepare for their engineering careers.

ME 4550
Global Engineering
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing and Formal Acceptance into the Mechanical Engineering Program or Department Approval
Focuses on importance of issues associated with global product development including product development needs in unfamiliar cultures, managing distributed design teams and manufacturing at remote and/or distributed sites. Introduces first-hand how global companies approach these issues.

ME 4810
Mechanical Engineering Capstone I
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ME 4810 and University Advanced Standing
Serves as a first semester of the two-semester design experience from conception to modeling or prototype. Uses, where possible, multidisciplinary team application of the engineering design process along with project management, manufacturing methods and economic analysis. Culminates in a demonstration of a final product (model or working prototype) with verification and documentation of how final product meets customer needs. Capstone I and II must be taken in consecutive semesters.

Mechanical Engineering Capstone II
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): ME 4810 and University Advanced Standing
Serves as a second semester of the two-semester design experience from conception to modeling or prototype. Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 1610 and University Advanced Standing
Examines key developments and conceptions in Christian ethics through historical and conceptual methodologies. Explores the relationship between religious and secular approaches to ethics in their approach to questions of war, economics, politics, and/or other relevant issues.

PHIL 3550
Moral Philosophy
3:3:0
Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
Surveys the history of moral and ethical philosophy from the Ancients to contemporary figures. Focuses on the following issues and theories: The good, moral reasoning and judgment, objectivism vs. conventionalism and relativism: natural law theory, ethical egoism, hedonism, virtue ethics, deontology, consequentialism, utilitarianism, materialism, moral sentiment, roles of emotion and reason in ethical and moral deliberation and judgment, as well as race, gender, and sexuality in ethics. Figures examined may include: Plato, Aristotle, Augustine, Aquinas, Hobbes, Shaftesbury, Hutcheson, Hume, Kant, Mill, Nietzsche, de Beauvoir, Sartre, Camus, Frankena, Rawls, Harman, Macintyre, Held, and hooks.

PHIL 357R
Moral Reasoning Through Case Studies
3:3:0
Fall
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205G or PHIL 205H) and University Advanced Standing
Studies complex, contemporary ethical issues and develops an advanced understanding of principles and theories studied in other ethics and moral theory courses. Uses a case study approach to ethical inquiry and introduces students to the content, format, rules, and procedures of the National Collegiate Ethics Bowl competition. Required for those students who wish to participate in the regional and national competitions and provides a challenging opportunity for others who are interested in participating in exciting ethical deliberations and discussions. May be repeated for up to 9 credits for graduation with approval of instructor and department chair.

PHIL 3600
Philosophy of Religion
3:3:0
Fall
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
For students majoring in humanities related disciplines and other students interested in the academic study of religion. Teaches critical thinking methods and strategies regarding traditional philosophical issues in religious belief and practice. Explores various topics including the traditional arguments for the existence of God, religious experience, the relation between faith and reason, religious pluralism, and the traditional problem of evil.

PHIL 3610 (Cross-listed with: RLST 3610)
Introduction to Christian Theology
3:3:0
On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 1610 and University Advanced Standing
Examines key developments and conceptions in Christian theology through historical and conceptual methodologies.

PHIL 3620 (Cross-listed with: RLST 3620)
Mormon Theology and the Christian Tradition
3:3:0
On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 1610 and University Advanced Standing
For students majoring in humanities-related disciplines and other students interested in the academic study of religion. Engages students in exploring the defining features of Mormon thought in relation to the broader Christian tradition. Examines traditional theological questions such as the problem of evil, the scriptural canaan, the nature of God and humanity, and the role of ritual.
PHIL 3650 (Cross-listed with: RLST 3650)
Approaches to Religious Studies
3:3:0  Spring * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

For students majoring in humanities-related disciplines and other students interested in the academic study of religion. Teaches methodological approaches and critical thinking strategies in the study of religion. Explores various disciplines in their approaches to religious belief and practice. Includes the study of such thinkers as David Hume, Immanuel Kant, Friedrich Schleiermacher, Rudolf Otto, William James, Ludwig Feuerbach, Soren Kierkegaard, Max Weber, Emilie Durkheim, John Hick, and Rene Girard.

PHIL 366R (Cross-listed with: RLST 366R)
Issues in Religious Studies
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

For students majoring in humanities-related disciplines and other students interested in the academic study of religion. Addresses specific topics and theoretical approaches related to religious studies. Topics may include religion and violence, religion and public discourse, religious ritual, etc. Subject matter varies by semester and is repeatable for a total of 9 credits of hour.

PHIL 3700
Social and Political Philosophy
3:3:0  Spring * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G) and University Advanced Standing

Addresses ethics on the social level by exploring a variety of answers to the question: What is the best social structure? Covers concepts of justice, equality, liberalism, communitarianism, capitalism, democracy, feminism, multiculturalism, and other topics.

PHIL 3710
Philosophy of Law
3:3:0  Fall Even Year * Prerequisite(s): ENGL 2010 and University Advanced Standing

Introduces topics in the philosophy of law, such as the role, nature, extent, and justification of law. Investigates challenging questions about the rule of law, civil disobedience, the relationship between law and morality, justice, equality, responsibility, and punishment.

PHIL 3750
Marxist Philosophy
3:3:0  Spring Even Year * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Examines the political philosophy of Karl Marx and looks at Marx's legacy for 20th century and contemporary philosophy. Includes Marx's criticism of Hegel and Hegelian Idealism, Marx’s philosophy as "ideology critique," Marx’s "materialist" philosophy, Marx's critique of capital, and several of the following: early 20th-century Marxist political philosophy, critical theory, structuralist Marxism, phenomenological Marxism, materialist feminism, and post-Marxism.

PHIL 3800 (Cross-listed with: HUM 3800)
Aesthetics
3:3:0  Fall * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G and HUM 1010 or HUM 101G or HUM 101H) and University Advanced Standing

Studies aesthetics as perceived by the disciplines of philosophy, psychology, sociology, anthropology, history, and others. Analyzes art forms, including the visual arts, literature, music, and theater from the perspective of philosophers such as Plato, Aristotle, Kant, Hume, Dewey, Danto, Bell, Collingwood, Thoreau, and Dickie.

PHIL 3810
Existentialism and Phenomenology
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2011 or PHIL 2015 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Explores two of the most important and influential traditions within modern and contemporary philosophy. Covers figures such as Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Husserl, Heidegger, Sartre, Camus, Merleau-Ponty, de Beauvoir, Gadamer, Levinas, Ricoeur, and Derrida, and issues in epistemology, metaphysics, ethics and aesthetics. The course focuses in particular on the notions of subjectivity, agency, free-will, and truth.

PHIL 3820 (Cross-listed with: HUM 3820)
Philosophy through Literature
3:3:0  Spring Even Year * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Provides students with an interdisciplinary approach to the study of philosophy through literature. Gives students the opportunity to read some of the most engaging thinkers and how they offer differing perspectives through a variety of texts. Breaks down some of the strict divisions placed between philosophical and literary texts.

PHIL 3830
Deconstruction and Hermeneutics
3:3:0  Spring * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or Instructor Approval) and University Advanced Standing

Studies the interpretive methods of deconstruction and hermeneutics, two important traditions to emerge in late 20th century philosophy. Analyzes various works from the history of philosophy through the frameworks of deconstruction and hermeneutics. Tracks the difference between knowledge and understanding, particularly through the writings of Jacques Derrida and Hans-Georg Gadamer. Includes the study of other relevant traditions such as post-structuralism, French feminism, and literary criticism.

PHIL 3840
Topics in Ancient Philosophy
3:3:0  Spring * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Provides students the opportunity to study aspects of ancient Greek philosophy intensively. Focuses on an aspect of the thought of a particular philosopher, such as Plato or Aristotle, or on a particular theme in Ancient philosophy, such as Ethics or Metaphysics. Emphasizes close study of primary texts. Develops strong critical thinking, writing and rhetorical skills. May be repeated up to 3 times for a total of 9 credits.

PHIL 400R
Great Philosophers
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Provides an in-depth look at a great figure in Philosophy across the topics of metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, social and political philosophy, aesthetics, and other themes. Addresses the contribution of the thinker to the history of Philosophy. Repeatable up to 12 credit hours with different topics.

PHIL 4120
Philosophy of Education
3:3:0  Fall Even Year * Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGL 101G or PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Examines history, issues, and philosophical theories of education with attention to associated metaphysical, epistemological, ethical, political, and ideological assumptions.

PHIL 4130
Nineteenth Century European Philosophy
3:3:0  Fall Even Year * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Introduces students to the changes in 19th century European philosophy regarding the nature of truth, knowledge, human freedom, and nature. Focuses on the attempts of German Idealism to formulate a systematic science of reality. Discusses the possibilities and problems with conceiving truth as both complete and absolutely knowable. Analyzes the philosophies of nature, art, human freedom, society, and ethics.

PHIL 4140
History of Analytic Philosophy
3:3:0  Fall Even Year * Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Explores the history of Analytic Philosophy from the late 19th century to the present. Includes the study of such figures as Bertrand Russell, B. Bolzano, Gottlob Frege, Ludwig Wittgenstein, Rudolph Carnap, G.E. Moore, J.L. Austin, Gilbert Ryle, W.V.O. Quine, and Fredrich Waismann. Studies methods of movements such as Logical Empiricism, and Ordinary Language Philosophy. Explores views such as Logicism, Logical Atomism, Holism, Verificationism, Logical Behaviorism, Psychologism, Nominalism, and Realism.
PHIL 4150
History of Continental Philosophy
3:3:0 Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Explores continental European philosophy. Reviews Kant's critical philosophy. Examines Hegel's attempt to go beyond the limitations of critical philosophy by creating a systematic, dialectical philosophy. Examines the following traditions as responses to Hegel: Western Marxism, Existentialism, Phenomenology, Structuralism, Post-Structuralism and Deconstruction, Post-Modemism, Psychoanalysis, and Feminism.

PHIL 4200
Symbolic Logic
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 3000 and University Advanced Standing

Discusses the philosophical motivation for the formalization of logic. Introduces the metatheory for propositional and quantificational logic. Includes proofs of the soundness and completeness of quantificational logic. Discusses the philosophical issues surrounding the results proved. May also include some discussion of important results in computability.

PHIL 4300 (Cross-listed with: HUM 4300)
Environmental Aesthetics
3:3:0 Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 000, PHIL 100H, PHIL 2050, PHIL 205H, PHIL 205G, ENST 3000, HUM 1010, HUM 101H, HUM 101G, or HUM 3500) and University Advanced Standing

Introduces students to emerging themes in environmental aesthetics. Evaluates concepts and attitudes toward nature including, but not limited to, the concept of beauty in natural and human-made environments from a cross-cultural perspective. Studies environmental formalism, cognitivism and non-cognitivism, as well as divergent spiritual, ecological, religious, and moral approaches to the appreciation of nature.

PHIL 430R
Topics in Epistemology
3:3:0
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Provides an opportunity for students to conduct an in-depth study of specific topics in epistemology. Topics may include the foundations of knowledge; the nature of justification; the problem of skepticism, and the nature of scientific, religious, and/or moral knowledge. Emphasizes the rigorous analysis of arguments and offers the opportunity for students to develop their own original critical analysis and argument. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits toward graduation.

PHIL 4460
Philosophy of Psychology
3:3:0 Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050, PHIL 205G, PHIL 205H, PSY 1010, or PSY 101H) and University Advanced Standing

Offers an interdisciplinary exploration of questions that arise when psychologists explore cognition and behavior concerning philosophical issues and when philosophers explore questions that rely on empirical claims about cognition and behavior. Surveys topics such as situationism and virtue ethics, moral intuitions, well-being, emotions, moods, positive illusions and free will, automatically, confabulation, mental illness and psychopathy.

PHIL 4461 (Cross-listed with: PSY 4461)
Moral Psychology
3:3:0 Spring Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205G or PHIL 205H or PSY 1010 or PSY 101H) and University Advanced Standing

Analyzes questions about how people engage in moral thinking and in moral behavior from the perspectives of the philosophy of mind, ethics and psychology. Explores topics such as virtue and character, reason and passion, altruism and egoism, agency and responsibility, and moral intuitions.

PHIL 4470
Philosophy of Mind
3:3:0 Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Explores central questions concerning the nature of the mind. Includes such topics as personal identity, the mind-body problem, other minds, mental causation, and externalism.

PHIL 4480
Philosophy of Language
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

PHIL 450R
Interdisciplinary Senior Ethics Seminar
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Instructor approval and University Advanced Standing

For integrated studies majors and other interested students. Addresses ethical issues dealing with discipline specific subject matter, i.e., nursing, behavioral, physical, social sciences, etc. Subject matter will vary each semester. Taught by Philosophy faculty in cooperation with faculty of appropriate departments. Repeateable three times for credit with different subjects. See Philosophy Department office for specific topics.

PHIL 451R
Ethical Theory Seminar
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Offers detailed investigation of selected ethical theories central to the Western philosophical tradition. Repeatable up to 12 credit hours with different topics.

PHIL 452R
Topics in Value Theory
3:3:0
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205H or PHIL 205G or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Provides an opportunity for students to conduct an in-depth study of specific topics in value theory. Considers theoretical questions about the nature of value, meaning, and purpose in human life. Includes the objectivity or subjectivity of value; the sources of value in human life; the nature and importance of art; the value of relationships, community, humor, and/or play; and related theoretical inquiries into the value of particular human activities. Emphasizes the rigorous analysis of arguments and offers the opportunity for students to develop their own original critical analysis and argument. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits toward graduation.

PHIL 480R
Philosophy Capstone Prep
1:1:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 2110 and PHIL 2150, University Advanced Standing

Prepares students to successfully complete a Philosophy Research Capstone thesis. Provides resources for formulating a thesis, identifying faculty advisor(s), and completing a one-page thesis proposal and an annotated bibliography of works to be consulted for the thesis project. May be repeated for a maximum of 2 credits toward graduation.

PHIL 481R
Internship
1 to 6:1 to 6:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Departmental chair approval and University Advanced Standing

Allows philosophy students to receive credit for service as an intern in a governmental, not for profit, or private agency apart from their regular employment. Provides practical and research development in selected areas of service related to students' academic and/or professional interests or goals. Internship must be supervised by agency representative. Must be approved by philosophy internship advisor and department chair and written contracts must be completed and signed. Repeatable for a maximum of 6 credit hours toward graduation. May be graded credit/no credit.

PHIL 490R
Independent Study
1 to 3:0 to 3:0 to 12 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Departmental Approval and University Advanced Standing

Provides independent study as directed in reading and individual projects. May be repeated for up to 6 total credits toward graduation.
Physics (PHYS)

PHYS 1010
Elementary Physics
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): MAT 1010
For students interested in a one-semester survey physics course. Covers the fundamentals of classical and modern physics. Includes mechanics, fluids, heat, waves and sound, electricity and magnetism, light, optical, relativity, atomic and nuclear physics. Includes lectures, classroom interaction, demonstration, and problem solving.

PHYS 1750
The Acoustics of Music
3:3:0 Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MAT 1030 or higher
Discovers the principles of physics that form the basis of music and provide the foundation for the design of musical instruments. Investigates the physics of music production, transmission and reception, and perception. Examines the five fundamental elements of the musical instrument, namely power supply, oscillator, resonator, amplifier, and pitch modifiers. Satisfies one general education physical science elective.

PHYS 1800
Energy You and the Environment
3:3:0 Spring
Answers the question, "Where does energy come from, and where does it go?". Examines the methods of energy production, distribution, and consumption in society and their environmental impacts. Examines the personal impact of energy use on the environment and explores alternatives, such as fuel cell cars, and a hydrogen economy. Examines prospects for alternative energy sources, such as solar, wind, nuclear and geothermal energy at length. Intended for non-science majors interested in energy use in society.

PHYS 1850
The Physics of Aviation
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): MAT 1030 or appropriate math placement score
Uses the medium and modes of flight and modern aviation to introduce elementary physics. Includes vectors, kinematics, forces, momentum, energy, torques, elementary fluid dynamics and thermodynamics. Uses Algebra extensively. Presents and develops concepts of physics as exercises in modeling constructed from examples used in aviation. May be delivered online.

PHYS 1900
Survey of Physical Science
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
Designed to accompany PHYS 2010. Provides firsthand experience with the laws of mechanics, fluids, waves, heat, thermodynamics, and data analysis. Course Lab fee of $15 applies.

PHYS 2010
College Physics I
4:4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): MATH 1050 or MATH 1055
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 2025

PHYS 2020
College Physics II
4:4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2010
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 2025

PHYS 2025
College Physics II Lab
1:0:2 Fall, Spring, Summer
Designed to accompany PHYS 2020. Provides firsthand experience with the laws of electricity, waves, optics, nuclear physics, and data analysis. Course Lab fee of $15 applies.

PHYS 2210
Physics for Scientists and Engineers I
4:4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 2215
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MATH 1210
A calculus-based treatment of introductory physics for scientists and engineers. Topics include mechanics, fluid physics, thermodynamics, vibrations, and waves. Includes 1 hour of recitation per week.

PHYS 2215
Physics for Scientists and Engineers I Lab
1:0:2 Fall, Spring, Summer
Designed to accompany PHYS 2210. Provides firsthand experience with the laws of mechanics, thermal physics, vibrations, and waves. Introduces methods of scientific data analysis. Course Lab fee of $15 applies.

PHYS 2220
Physics for Scientists and Engineers II
4:4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2210
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 2225
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MATH 1220

PHYS 2250
College Physics II Lab
1:0:2 Fall, Spring, Summer
Designed to accompany PHYS 2200. Provides firsthand experience with the laws of electricity, waves, heat, and thermodynamics. Canvas Course Mats $78/Pearson applies.

PHIL 4910
Philosophy Research Capstone
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1250 or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150), PHIL 480R, Senior Standing, and University Advanced Standing
To be taken during the student's last semester in the baccalaureate program. Includes writing a senior thesis, which points to post-baccalaureate career path or graduate school goals. Covers advanced Philosophy research and writing instruction. Encourages students to explore the ethical dimensions of their desired professional or graduate research interests. Involves the creation of a portfolio helpful in applying to graduate school or seeking employment. The portfolio includes the senior research thesis, an abstract of the thesis, three letters of recommendation, a Curriculum Vita, a Personal Statement, and a PowerPoint presentation.

PHIL 492R
Advanced Topics in Philosophy
1 to 3:1 to 3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): (PHIL 1000 or PHIL 100H or PHIL 206G or PHIL 205H or PHIL 2110 or PHIL 2150 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
Examines advanced topics philosophy. Examples include ancient theories of political constitution, continental rationalism, empiricism, personal identity, free will, theories of truth and modal logic. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits toward graduation.

Physical Science (PHSC)

PHSC 1000
Survey of Physical Science
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
Surveys the exciting world of science and explains the basic scientific laws and models by which the physical universe may be understood. Stresses historical aspects and the impact of physical science on modern society. Draws topics from the fields of physics, chemistry, geology, meteorology and astronomy. Uses lectures, dramatizations, audio-visual presentations, and demonstrations.

PHSC 281R
Cooperative Work Experience
2 to 9:2 to 9:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Approval of Cooperative Coordinator
Designed for Physical Science majors. Provides paid work experiences in the student's major. Course content is individualized, with students setting objectives in consultation with their faculty coordinator and their on-the-job supervisor. Credit is determined by the number of hours a student works during the semester. May be graded credit/no credit.
Physicals for Scientists and Engineers II Lab 1:0:2 Fall, Spring, Summer
Designed to accompany PHYS 2220. Verifies through laboratory experience the laws of electricity and magnetism, electric circuits, and optics. Principles of data collection and analysis are emphasized. Course Lab fee of $15 applies.

PHYS 2500
Elementary Fluids and Thermal Physics 3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220
* Corequisite(s): MATH 2210
Presents a mathematically rigorous introductory description of fluid mechanics, thermodynamics, and heat transfer beyond that presented in PHYS 2210. Presents applications in both physics and engineering.

PHYS 2800
Introduction to Materials Physics 3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220
Covers the atomic structure of materials and their properties, including electronic, thermal, and optical properties. Addresses experimental methods for creating and studying materials, and current topics in materials science including thin films, surface physics, metamaterials, and nanostructured materials.

PHYS 295R
Introduction to Independent Research 1 to 3:0:3 to 9 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220
Working under faculty supervision, allows research on a project determined jointly with a faculty member and approved by the department chair. Emphasizes experimental technique, data collection, modeling, and analysis techniques. May be repeated for no more than six hours of elective credit.

PHYS 3010
Physics Experiments for Secondary Education 1:0:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2210, MATH 1050 or MATH 1055, MATH 1210, PHYS 2220, MATH 1060, and University Advanced Standing
For secondary education students. Emphasizes physics or chemistry. Addresses pedagogical methods for student physics laboratory exercises and demonstrations. Studies currently available commercial laboratory equipment for teaching physics in a lab setting. Includes ideas and methods for building inexpensive demonstrations and lab exercises. Provides training in safe and effective use of lab equipment.

PHYS 3040
Modern Physics for Secondary Education 3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, MATH 1220, and University Advanced Standing
Addresses topics of special relativity, development of quantum mechanics, physics of the atom, elementary solid state physics, and elementary particle physics.

PHYS 3110
Modern Physics I 3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220 and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 3115
Addresses topics of error analysis and statistics, wave mechanics, special relativity, development of quantum mechanics, and atomic physics.

PHYS 3115
Introduction to Experimental Physics I 2:1:3 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220 and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 3110
Introduces selected experiments of classical and modern physics in a laboratory setting. Addresses topics of measurement, error analysis, data analysis, and report writing.

PHYS 3120
Modern Physics II 3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): HYS 3110 and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): PHYS 3125
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): PHYS 3300
Covers topics in special and general relativity, and addresses applications of modern quantum mechanics including molecular physics, solid state physics, statistical mechanics, nuclear physics, particle physics, and cosmology.

PHYS 3125
Introduction to Experimental Physics II 2:1:3 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110, PHYS 3115, and University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): PHYS 3120
Introduces selected experiments of classical and modern physics in a laboratory setting. Addresses topics of measurement, data analysis, report writing.

PHYS 3230
Principles of Electronics for the Physical Sciences 3:2:2 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, MATH 2210, and University Advanced Standing
Introduces electronic measurement instruments commonly used in experimental physics laboratories. Covers principles of electronic measurements using transducers, solid-state devices, circuit analysis, logic circuits, and computers. Includes lab experience.

PHYS 3300
Mathematical Physics 3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, and University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MATH 2210 or instructor consent. MATH 2280 is strongly advised as a pre- or corequisite.
Covers the applications of mathematical tools to experimental and theoretical research in the physical sciences. Introduces problems and systems common to physical science that can be modeled by the application of vector and tensor algebra, curvilinear coordinates, linear algebra, complex variables, Fourier series and transforms, differential and integral equations.

PHYS 3310
Advanced Mathematical Physics 3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3300 and University Advanced Standing
Explores mathematics as applied to physics. Covers many families of orthogonal polynomials and the special functions of physics, such as the Gamma, Beta, and Error functions. Presents topics in contour integration and applications of conformal mapping. Investigates probability, random processes, statistical analyses, and probability distribution functions.

PHYS 3330
Computational Physics 3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3300 and University Advanced Standing
Covers computational algorithms with specific applications to the description of physical systems. Covers iterative approximation methods, computations using matrices and vectors, numerical integration, solutions of differential equations. Uses a computer programming approach to problem solving.

PHYS 3350
Applications of LabVIEW in Physics 3:2:2 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3320 and University Advanced Standing
Develops programming skills in LabVIEW. Utilizes LabVIEW as the primary interface for analog and digital I/O for applications in physics experiments. Includes a student-directed group project that demonstrates effective use of LabVIEW in hardware interfacing in a physics experiment.

PHYS 3400
Classical Mechanics 3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220 and University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): PHYS 3300 recommended
Treats classical mechanics of particles and systems using advanced mathematical techniques. Covers conservation principles, Lagrangian dynamics, harmonic oscillators, motion of rigid bodies and non-inertial reference frames.
Course Descriptions

PHYS 3500 Heat and Thermodynamics 3:3:0 Spring
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, MATH 2210, and University Advanced Standing
Addresses topics of heat, temperature, ideal gases, laws of thermodynamics, entropy, reversibility, thermal properties of solids, phase transitions, thermodynamics of magnetism, and negative temperature.

PHYS 3600 Optics 3:3:0 Spring
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3300, PHYS 3110, and University Advanced Standing
Covers the phenomena of reflection, refraction, diffraction, interference, optical behavior in materials and lasers, presents a mathematically rigorous description of optical phenomena. May include equipment-based class projects.

PHYS 3800 Energy Use on Earth 3:3:0 Fall
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 1010 or PHSC 1000 or CHEM 1010 or GEO 1010 or GEO 2040 or METO 1010 or MATH 1050 or MATH 1055 and University Advanced Standing
Covers the science of energy production and consumption. Quantitatively analyzes various methods of energy production, distribution, and end use in all sectors of our society, including transportation, residential living, and industry. Examines the impacts of our energy consumption on the environment and prospects for alternative energy sources. Intended for science majors interested in energy use in society or in an energy related career, and for students in other majors who feel that a technical understanding of energy use will help them to understand and mitigate its impact in our society.

PHYS 4100 Biophysics 3:3:1 On Sufficient Demand
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110, PHYS 3115, BIOL 1610, or instructor approval and University Advanced Standing
Covers the thermodynamics and statistical mechanics of biological systems, the mechanics of biologically important molecules, and the laws of fluid mechanics as applied in biological systems. Uses calculus-based mathematical models to treat specific reactions, particularly those treating biological systems as molecular machines.

PHYS 4150 Medical Physics 3:3:0 Fall
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110, PHYS 3115 and University Advanced Standing
Explores the theory and applications of physics to medicine. Covers signal analysis, ultrasound, X-rays, optical, nuclear, and X-ray imaging techniques, nuclear medicine, magnetic resonance imaging, and nanomedicine.

PHYS 4200 (Cross-listed with: BIOL 4200, CHEM 4200, GEO 4200) Teaching Methods in Science 3:2:2 Spring
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into secondary education program, senior-level standing, instructor approval, and University Advanced Standing
Examines objectives, instructional methods and curriculum for teaching science in the secondary school. Includes developing, adapting, evaluating, and using strategies and materials for teaching biological and physical sciences, appropriate both to the special needs of the learners and the special characteristics of science discipline.

PHYS 4210 Advanced Experimental Techniques 3:1:4 Fall
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3125, PHYS 3230, or instructor approval and University Advanced Standing
Introduces fundamental skills required for conducting successful scientific research in a physics laboratory setting. Covers vacuum technology, basic machine shop practice, electronic instrumentation, electron microscopy, scanning probe microscopy, nuclear magnetic resonance, and x-ray diffractometry.

PHYS 4250 Nuclear Physics 3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110
Covers radiation, radioactive decay, nuclear structure, interactions of radiation with matter, radiation detection, nuclear reactions, fission, fusion, and applications of nuclear physics.

PHYS 425R Physics for Teachers 1 to 5:1 to 5:0 to 10 Summer
Prerequisite(s): Department Approval and University Advanced Standing
For licensed teachers or teachers seeking to recertify, an update course in physics and/or basic physics core courses for teachers needing physics or physical science endorsements from the Utah State Office of Education. Teaches principles of physics and pedagogy of teaching physics for teachers in public or private schools. Emphasis will be placed on correlation with the Utah Core Curriculum, the National Science Education Standards, and the Benchmarks of Project 2061. Topics will vary.

PHYS 4350 Research Methods in Physics 3:1 to 2:2 to 4 Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Instructor and Department approval and University Advanced Standing
Presents directed topics in research methods. Emphasizes practical methodologies in measurement, instrumentation, error analysis, statistical analysis and computational modeling. Requires a class project that may require MATLAB, LABView or other programming languages. Includes producing oral presentations, posters and journal articles using contemporary software and LaTeX.

PHYS 4410 Electrostatics and Magnetism 3:3:0 Fall
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110, PHYS 3115, PHYS 3300, and University Advanced Standing
Explores the theory of electrostatic phenomena in a mathematically rigorous manner. Covers Gauss’ Law, the Laplace and Poisson equations, boundary-value problems, and dielectrics.

PHYS 4420 Electrodynamics 3:3:0 Spring
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 4410 and University Advanced Standing
Explores the theory of electromagnetic phenomena in a mathematically rigorous manner. Covers Ohm’s and Kirchhoff’s Laws, magnetic induction, the Biot-Savart Law, Ampere’s Law, Ferromagnetism, Plasmas, Maxwell’s Equations, and Special Relativity.

PHYS 4510 Quantum Mechanics I 3:3:0 Fall
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110, PHYS 3115, PHYS 3300, and University Advanced Standing
Covers postulates of quantum mechanics, state functions of quantum systems, Hermitian Operators, the Schrödinger Equation, eigenfunctions of harmonic oscillators, and particles in potential wells.

PHYS 4520 Quantum Mechanics II 3:3:0 Spring
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 4510 and University Advanced Standing
Covers general principles and applications of quantum mechanics. Addresses topics of three-dimensional problems, angular momentum operators, spin wavefunctions, perturbation theory, applications to atomic, molecular, solid-state, and nuclear physics.

PHYS 4700 Acoustics 3:3:0 Fall
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3110, PHYS 3115, PHYS 3300, and University Advanced Standing
Covers phenomena of sound, resonance, acoustics, and human hearing. Treats associated topics of waves, frequency, vibration and interference using appropriate mathematical tools.

PHYS 4800 Solid State Physics 3:3:0 Spring
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 3120, 3125, PHYS 4510, and University Advanced Standing
Explores topics relevant to the structure, behavior, and properties of crystalline materials. Includes a study of lattice vibrations, free electrons, semiconductors, superconductivity, dielectric and ferroelectric materials and magnetism.

Utah Valley University Course Catalog 2019-2020 821
PHYS 481R
Physics Internship
1 to 4:1:0 to 4:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, Departmental Approval, and University Advanced Standing

Provides supervised, practical, and research experience for students preparing for careers in physics. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credit hours. May be graded credit/no credit.

PHYS 489R
Undergraduate Research in Physics
1 to 3:0:3 to 9 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, Departmental Approval, and University Advanced Standing

Allows research on a project determined jointly with a faculty member and approved by the department chair. Emphasizes experimental technique, data collection, modeling, and analysis techniques. May be used as part of a senior thesis. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits toward graduation.

PHYS 490R
Seminar
.5:.5:0 Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing

Exposes students to current research topics in physics and related fields. Provides an opportunity for students to attend bi-weekly lectures presented by department faculty and invited speakers. Lectures are usually a summary of the speaker's recent research results presented at a level appropriate for junior and senior physics majors.

PHYS 492R
Topics in Physics
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Departmental approval and University Advanced Standing

Studies a chosen topic in physics. Topics vary depending upon student demand. Possible topic may be the mathematics for quantum mechanics. May be taken for a maximum of 6 credits toward graduation, but is limited to 3 credits for the BS in Physics.

PHYS 495R
Independent Readings
1 to 3:0:3 to 9 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): PHYS 2220, Departmental Approval, and University Advanced Standing

Working under faculty supervision, allows research on a project determined jointly with a faculty member and approved by the department chair. Emphasizes experimental technique, data collection, modeling, and analysis techniques. May be used as part of a senior thesis. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits toward graduation.

PHYS 499A
Senior Project
2:0:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Instructor approval, Departmental approval, and University Advanced Standing

Provides an opportunity for senior physics majors to participate in a current research project supervised by a department faculty member. Includes independent study and/or laboratory work as necessary. Culminates in the preparation of a written paper and oral presentation describing the results of the research project as required for PHYS 499B. May be taken concurrently with PHYS 499B.

PHYS 499B
Senior Thesis
1:0:3 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Instructor approval, Departmental approval, and University Advanced Standing

Continues PHYS 499A. Provides an opportunity for senior physics majors to present the results of a current research project supervised by a department faculty member. Includes independent study as necessary. Culminates in the preparation of a written paper and oral presentation describing the results of the research project.

Peace and Justice Studies (PJST)

PJST 3000
Introduction to Peace and Justice Studies
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 2050 and University Advanced Standing

Introduces the student to the important literature, questions, and research programs of peace and justice studies. Explores personal, domestic, national, and international issues. Considers alternative conceptions of peace, war, terrorism, justice/injustice, and peace. Enables the student to become aware of various intellectual and professional disciplines that bear relationships to peace and justice, e.g., history, political theory, international relations, political economy, international law, environmental law, military science, mediation and negotiation.

PJST 3020
The Ethics of War and Peace
3:3:0 Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 2050 and University Advanced Standing

Introduces literature concerning the ethics of conflict, war, terrorism, and peace. Considers alternative conceptions of these phenomena, as well as alternative approaches and ethical theories in respect to how conflict of various kinds might most effectively and morally be preempted or diminished. Addresses various defense theories and religious traditions' teachings about conflict, violence, and peace.

PJST 3030
The Scientific Study of War and Peace
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PJST 3000 and University Advanced Standing

Takes a multidisciplinary approach to the study of conditions under which the use of violence, terrorism, and war occur. Studies the use of non-violent approaches to conflict and their effectiveness. Examines the ways in which strategies for violent and non-violent approaches to conflict are developed and evaluated.

PJST 3040
Peace in Historical Context
3:3:0 Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing

Explores peace from an historical perspective. Considers the history of peace movements and humanitarianism, warfare, slavery and abolition, colonization, and indigenous perspectives on peace. Introduces students to the field of peace history and the ways historians have defined and understood peace. Enables the student to historicize peace in relationship to violence.

PJST 3100
Introduction to Human Security
3:3:0 Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 2010 and (PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205G) and University Advanced Standing

Introduces the student, and brings him or her, to some depth in the field of human security. Engages the student in a wide range of interdisciplinary literature because this field of inquiry, discourse, and conception is contested, theoretically rich, and empirically rich. Analyzes matters that threaten human security, for example: hunger and malnutrition; disease; cultural, structural, and direct violence; ecological and environmental degradation; political and economic instability and hegemony. Analyzes the organizations, institutions, movements, and strategies assembled successfully against these threats.

Global Poverty Facts Causes and Solutions
3:3:0 Spring Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 2010 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205G or instructor approval

Analyzes global poverty as a serious and pressing worldwide problem that kills over 33,000 people each day. Interrogates questions of why poverty exists, as well as what is or can be done to diminish or eliminate it. Presents sophisticated and empirically-based information regarding global malnutrition, conflict, migration, lack of employment and healthcare, etc. Uses the most recent research and research methodologies to investigate both the causes of poverty and the most promising solutions. Examines literature about various moral perspectives and how they speak to the moral duty (or its absence) to address poverty.
PJST 3300  Community Development
3:3:0  Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): PJST 3000 and University Advanced Standing

Surveys the nature of community and approaches to the building and strengthening of community. Analyzes needs in various communities and methods of implementing solutions to meet those needs. Explores policies and strategies that produce a high quality of life and maximum opportunity for all residents of local communities. Examines community development through case studies and direct student engagement.

PJST 3400  Conflict Transformation Resolution and Sustainable Peace
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): PJST 3000 and University Advanced Standing

Uses empirical data to interrogate and explicate organized death in the form of war, revolution, insurgency, or terrorism as a perennial, and one of the most complicated, problems. Uses empirical data and theory to investigate the means of conflict transformation that have been most successful. Presents a basic understanding of how conflict is transformed from (1) an active status to (2) resolution to (3) peaceful stalemate to (4) sustained peace. Explicates the process of moving from active violent conflict to sustainable peace. Explores the roles of peoples, state organizations, institutions, civil society, culture, religion, states, and multilateral organizations.

PJST 4200  Advanced Poverty Studies: Global Problems and Policies
3:3:0  Spring Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 2050 or PHIL 205G and University Advanced Standing

Analyzes the nature of poverty in diverse societies, techniques for its measurement and inaccurate measurement, and the causes and reasons for poverty and its intractability. Examines the ways in which local, national, and global factors are part of the nature of poverty. Surveys policies and institutions designed to confront the problem. Interrogates and explicates the ethical issues surrounding poverty and its alleviation.

PJST 4300  Race Gender and Class in Peace and Justice
3:3:0  Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): PJST 3000 and University Advanced Standing

Analyzes the bases of discrimination and domination in societies. Addresses the multidimensional forms of social inequality by examining concrete examples of each dimension such as the wealth gap, gendered work, and poverty. Examines the nature of social class, race, and gender as they relate to issues of war, peace, injustice, and justice. Surveys the contributions that the perspectives of the dominated and victims of discrimination offer to the resolution of inequalities and the establishment of equity.

PJST 475R  Issues in Peace and Justice Studies
* Prerequisite(s): PHIL 2050, Junior Standing, and University Advanced Standing

Presents a selected topic from current issues in the area of Peace and Justice Studies which will vary each semester. May approach topics from a cross-disciplinary perspective. Requires a project demonstrating competence in the specific topic or issue. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credits toward graduation.

PJST 481R  Internship
1 to 8:1 to 8:0  On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Program Director Approval and University Advanced Standing

Provides opportunities for internship experience in the following types of agencies: political, governmental, corporate, private, news agencies or any non governmental organization (NGO) apart from regular employment. Encourages practical, research, and/or development experience in selected areas of service related to the student's academic or professional goals relevant to peace and justice studies concerns. Requires supervision by an agency representative and approval of the Peace and Justice Studies internship adviser and the program director. Requires that written contracts be completed and signed by all responsible parties. Credit is determined by the number of hours a student works during the semester. May be repeated for a maximum of 8 credits toward graduation. May be graded credit/no credit.

PJST 4900  Peace and Justice Studies Capstone
* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 2010, Senior Standing, and University Advanced Standing

To be taken during the student’s last semester. Includes writing a senior thesis which points to career or graduate school goals. Requires a significant research project, which may coincide with field work and/or internship experience. Covers advanced Peace and Justice Studies research and writing instruction. Involves the creation of a portfolio helpful in applying to graduate schools or seeking employment.

PJST 491R  Independent Study
1 to 8:0 to 40  On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Program Director Approval and University Advanced Standing

For self-directed students who wish to engage in a well-defined study or project in an area of special interest within the domain of Peace and Justice Studies. Requires individual initiative and responsibility with limited formal instruction and faculty supervision. Projects may include writing a publishable paper, giving an oral presentation, passing a competency exam, or completing any other options approved by the instructor and the program director. May be repeated for up to 9 credits toward graduation.
Course Descriptions

POLS 2200
Introduction to Comparative Politics
3:0
Fall, Spring, Summer
Studies comparative politics and looks at attitudes and causes of political problems. Examines methods and means employed by selected countries to solve political problems, and studies successes and failures of different approaches. Examines the means which different nations employ to deal with political problems. Explores the politics, institutions, and governments of seven selected nations.

POLS 2220
Introduction to Chinese Commerce
3:0
On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005
Surveys the current situation of the Chinese economy, starting with Chinese economic geography and the historical background of economic development in the post-1978 era. Concentrates on economic transition, development strategies, and basic situations of various sectors in the post-reform era, discussed in a comparative framework with the economic transition and development experience of other countries. Discusses some current key- and eye-catching issues associated with economic development and having international impacts, such as international trade and investment transactions, energy competition, and environmental degradation of China.

POLS 230G
Introduction to Political Theory
3:0
Spring
Surveys major Western political theories, from Athenian democracy to the 21st century welfare state. Analyzes such ideologies as republicanism, liberalism, socialism, and fascism, and considers how these ideas have shaped the ways in which people think and nations act. Explores how global cultures have used and abused these ideas, and how students' own political beliefs fit into the history of political ideologies.

POLS 2400
Peace and Justice Studies Basics
3:0
On Sufficient Demand
Examines the complexities and consequences of efforts to deal with conflicts between individuals, groups, and nations through a variety of techniques, including violence, war, and peace building. Introduces techniques used in the non-violent resolution of conflicts. Promotes techniques to avoid resorting to violence as a means of conflict resolution.

POLS 3000
Political Analysis
3:0
Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): (STAT 1040 or MATH 1050 or higher) and POLS 1010 and University Advanced Standing
Covers the analytical and quantitative methodologies used in political science and public policy research. Includes statistical analysis, database research, and writing exercises.

POLS 3010
Political Analysis II
3:0
Spring
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 3000 and University Advanced Standing
Covers advanced political data analysis techniques, including: advanced multiple regression analysis and diagnostics, measurement reliability and validity, the use of statistical-analysis software and presentation of analysis results.

POLS 3020
Public Program Analysis
3:0
On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Serves as an introduction to evaluation methodology and evaluation tools commonly used to assess publicly funded programs. Provides training and practice in the field of public program analysis. Familiarizes students with different types of program evaluation, including needs assessment, formative research, process evaluation, monitoring of outputs and outcomes, impact assessment, and cost analysis.

POLS 3030
State and Local Government
3:0
Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines the operation and structure of American State and Local Government with special attention to the Utah experience. Explores the local political process, administrative practices, and intergovernmental relations.

POLS 3040
Survey Research and Design Methods
3:0
Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Focuses on the role of polling in the political process. Introduces the theory and methods used in survey research. Includes how survey-research firms produce polls, analysis of polling for campaigns and public opinion, the psychology of survey response, survey construction, and sampling. Covers other data-collection techniques commonly used in politics and political science such as focus groups and experiments.

Experimental Methods in Political Science
3:0
Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 3000 and University Advanced Standing
Provides an overview of experimental methodology currently being utilized in the field of Political Science. Discusses the multiple stages of experimental research design and data analysis. Teaches critical thinking in terms of the benefits and dangers of causal inference using experimental research.

Qualitative Analysis
3:0
Spring Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 3000 and University Advanced Standing
Offers a hands-on opportunity for students to experience the practice of qualitative research. Provides training and practice in a broad set of qualitative methods as applied to public sector organizations, such as state and federal agencies, municipalities, and nonprofit organizations.

Policy Analysis
3:0
Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 3310 and University Advanced Standing
Provides an introduction to the objectives, functions, and techniques of policy analysis in democratic societies, with an emphasis on the United States. Emphasizes policy analysis in government organizations. Considers policy analysis in nongovernmental settings, such as nonprofit organizations and think tanks.

Survey of International Terrorism
3:0
Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
A survey course of political violence and terrorism in the modern world. Studies terrorism and other forms of political violence and how they relate to fundamentalism, such as the Shiite Islamic, and Christian identity movements in the United States and Western Europe. Examines the concept of religious and political terrorism, as well as the ideologies, tactics, and organizations common to most terrorist groups.

POLS 3120
Political Parties
3:0
Spring Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): (POLS 1100 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
Examines the American political party system with special attention given to the history, structure, functions, and role of American political parties.

POLS 3150
US Presidency
3:0
Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing
Studies the executive branch of American national government. Examines the basic functions, tenets, and institutions of the federal executive branch. Special attention given to the powers, roles, and structure of the presidency. Analyzes the various complexities of executive politics and policies.

POLS 3180
Public Opinion and Political Behavior
3:0
Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines the formation and role of public opinion in politics and its impact on political behavior. Topics covered are: how, and to what extent, individuals form their attitudes about politics; how researchers go about attempting to measure public opinion; the distribution and determinants of public opinion regarding a broad range of political issues; and how political attitudes affect political participation.
POLS 3200
US Congress
3:3:0  Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing
Examines the legislative branch of American national government. Explores concepts of legislative theory, examining basic structure, functions, powers and roles of Congress. Gives special attention to the legislative process, constitutional structure, and modern development of federal legislature.

POLS 3210
World Diplomacy
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 2100 and University Advanced Standing
Examines diplomacy as the conduct of relations between sovereign states through the medium of officials based at home or abroad. Explores processes and procedures of the diplomatic art that focuses chiefly on the recent past but is rooted in history. Emphasizes negotiation (the most important function of diplomats), as well as unconventional diplomatic methods.

POLS 3220
Interest Groups
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 1100 and University Advanced Standing
Provides an introduction to interest groups and their role in American politics. Examines the ways that citizens, firms, and institutions struggle to gain representation through organized interest groups in the United States. Includes the reasons why interest groups are formed, the reasons why people join organized interests groups, and the importance of leaders and leadership in attracting members and maintaining the stature of the group.

POLS 3250 (Cross-listed with: LEGL 3250)
Introduction to Law and Politics
3:3:0  Fall, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 1010 or POLS 1100 and University Advanced Standing
Examines the relationship between law and politics. Addresses the impact politics have on the judiciary and the strengths and weaknesses of law as a means of social order. Focuses on general issues of legal and political theory and the social and political function of law.

POLS 3300
Introduction to Public Administration
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Introduces basic concepts and principles in the implementation of public policy, as opposed to the formation of public policy. Includes concepts such as chain of command, hierarchy, and span of control.

POLS 3310
Introduction to Public Policy
3:3:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 1100, (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005), and University Advanced Standing
Provides an introduction to the process of public policy-making in the United States and to the substance of policy in areas like health policy, environmental policy, and education policy. Introduces students to the fundamental skills of policy analysis and to some of the difficult choices involved in identifying, addressing, and resolving public policy problems.

POLS 3320
Nonprofits and The Public Sector
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing
Explores the historical background, development, role, and purposes of nonprofit organizations. Expands awareness of the scope and breadth of the nonprofit sector in the United States, and examines the inner workings of nonprofit organizations as the foundation for further study.

POLS 3340
Public Innovation
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing
Presents an overview of the background, methods, and techniques associated with public sector innovation. Equip students who wish to be innovators with the knowledge and skills necessary to imagine and implement innovative solutions to public problems.

POLS 3370
Leading Cities
3:3:0  Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing
Provides an introduction to and overview of what leadership is within the public sector. Examines the skills required to successfully lead and manage cities for both elected and appointed leaders (mayors, city managers, city council members, etc.). Considers related topics, including the diverse functions of a city and common challenges faced by city leaders.

POLS 3380
Local Economic Development
3:3:0  Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing
Introduces the context, theory, process, and practice of local economic development policy. Examines facets of local economic development such as tax increment finance, job creation, economic analysis, business expansion and retention, and economic gardening.

POLS 3390
Urban Planning
3:3:0  Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Provides a broad introduction to the field of urban planning as a profession, a process of decision-making, and a government function. Explores the limitations and benefits of planning, primarily in areas such as climate adaptation, economic development, and natural disasters.

POLS 3400
American Foreign Policy
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): POLS 1100, POLS 2100, and University Advanced Standing
Examines the development and theories of American foreign policy with special emphasis on the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. Surveys the process by which American foreign policy is formulated and examines major events and trends in policy since World War II.

POLS 3410
Globalization and Sustainable Development
3:3:0  Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines major measurements of sustainability indicators, approaches and institutions in disaster management, and the roles of environmental assessment, management and policy. Considers the impacts of infrastructure development, economics, and market failures, in addition to major approaches and linkages to poverty reduction. Examines the importance of governance, democratic institutions and civil society for sustainable development (SD). Considers the role of international financial and political institutions; international environmental agreements for SD.

POLS 3420
Islam in World Affairs
3:3:0  Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines the history, traditions, and pillars of Islam as the latest among monotheistic religions in the world. Studies the role of women in Islam and its roots of diversity, including the historic split to Shia and Sunnis. Examines the influence of Islam in the politics and economies of Muslim nations around the world and examines the challenges presented by radical Islam for the modern world.

POLS 3480
Race in Politics
3:3:0  Fall Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Analyzes the role of race and ethnicity in global, national, and local politics. Focuses on the ways race has been socially constructed to promote the power of some and the domination of others.

POLS 3500
International Relations of the Middle East
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): (POLS 2100 or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
Covers the impact of the West on the Middle East, the Arab-Israeli wars, the rise of Islamic fundamentalist terrorist groups and regimes, the Iran-Iraq war (1980-1988), the Iraq-Kuwait-US war (1990-1991), the Impact of 9/11, as well as the foreign policies of several major states in the Middle East.
POLS 3510
Post Soviet Politics
3:3:0
Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines relations of the Russian Federation to its neighbors and other strategic international actors. Focuses on the dynamics of key bilateral relationships by highlighting such key areas as oil and energy, defense policy, economic policy priorities, and the role of international institutions.

POLS 352G
Chinese Politics
3:3:0
Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Reviews the historical background in which Chinese Communist Party established its governance. Examines the politics of the People's Republic of China since 1949. Analyzes important aspects of Chinese political and economic institutions and governance, such as party-state, political economy, judicial system, military, dissent politics, and foreign policy. Explains Chinese geographic and demographic features and how those features affect Chinese politics and economy. Discusses significant effects and implications which China's political modernization and economic growth might have across its border.

Asian Politics
3:3:0
Spring Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines the demographic features in India, China, and Japan and how those features affect politics in the three countries. Reviews the historical background in which India, China, and Japan established their national identities. Surveys and compares the state-building efforts and development strategies in India, China, and Japan. Examines and compares domestic political system and government structure in these three countries. Discusses significant effects and implications which Asian politics might have across their borders.

Comparative Politics of Central Asia
3:3:0
Fall Odd Year

Teaches tools and skills needed for surviving in the wilderness. Includes orienteering, map reading, packing, backcountry cooking, campsite set-up, food rationing, river crossing, proper clothing, water purification, hygiene, weather forecasting, backcountry travel, Leave NO Trace ethics, and personal risk management. Course fee of $30 for transportation, equipment, and support applies.

REC 3400 Risk Management 3:3:0 Spring
*Prerequisite(s): REC 2200 and University Advanced Standing
*Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MAT 1010
Studies outdoor recreation risk management. Focuses on applying models of risk management, negligence, torts, risk management planning, and outdoor recreation safety.

REC 3500 Recreation Administration 3:3:0 Fall
*Prerequisite(s): REC 3100 and University Advanced Standing
Analyzes the internal organization of a recreation department dealing with finances and accounting, records and reports, publicity and public relations, state and federal legislation, staff organization, coordination of community resources.

REC 3700 Natural Resource Interpretation 3:3:0 Fall
*Prerequisite(s): REC 2400 and University Advanced Standing
Investigates theories, principles, and techniques of interpreting park, cultural, and natural resources to the public. Emphasizes techniques for providing interpretive programs developed for natural resources.

REC 385G Ethical Concerns in Recreation 3:3:0 Spring
*Prerequisite(s): REC 2400, PHIL 2050, and University Advanced Standing
Examines the complex and controversial world of ethics as it pertains to the fields of outdoor recreation and natural resource management. Examines these fields from numerous perspectives; anthropocentric, biocentric and ecocentric, and theocentric.

REC 4000 Outdoor Leadership 4:3:2 Spring
*Prerequisite(s): REC 1535, REC 3300, REC 2600, REC 1542, and University Advanced Standing
Examines principles and practices of leadership in outdoor recreation programs. Focuses on the examination of theories, practices, and problems of leadership in an adventure environment. Provides hand-on experiences with students required to plan and be in a leadership position. Requires 30 hours of volunteer work experience. Course fee of $125 for transportation, equipment, and support applies.

REC 410R Experiential Learning Expedition 1 to 6:1:5 to 15 Not Offered
*Prerequisite(s): Department approval and University Advanced Standing
Teaches experiential learning and leadership in a expedition context. Includes but not limited to expedition planning, hard skills development, expedition behavior and group dynamics, team building, adventure tourism, and local cultural/natural resources. Repeatable up to 12 credits. Course fee of $700 for transportation, activities applies.

REC 420R Outdoor Leadership and Management Practicum 2 to 4:2 to 4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
*Prerequisite(s): REC 2400, 50 credit hours completed, minimum GPA of 2.25, Instructor approval, and University Advanced Standing
Provides students with practical work experience (volunteer or paid) either through a program offered by the college or in an existing outdoor or experientially based agency. Participation in a 150 hour department approved supervised outdoor recreation service. Topics vary by practicum experience. May be repeated for a total of 6 hours toward graduation. Graded Credit/No Credit.

REC 430R Teaching Assistantship in Outdoor Recreation 1 to 4:1 to 4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
*Prerequisite(s): Instructor Approval and University Advanced Standing
Provides students who have demonstrated a high level of proficiency to serve as assistant instructors in selected Outdoor Recreation courses. Requires students to take active leadership roles. Includes planning, sequencing and teaching outdoor recreation topics and skills with faculty supervision. May be repeated for up to 8 credit hours toward graduation. Graded Credit/No Credit.

REC 4350 Research Methods in Outdoor Recreation 3:3:0 Not Offered
*Prerequisite(s): REC 2400 and (MAT 1000 or higher) and University Advanced Standing Introduces students to key research in their field. Emphasizes analytical and interpretive skills. Develops scientific writing skills. Promotes design and utilization of comprehensive research methodologies commonly applied in Outdoor Recreation.

REC 4400 Natural Resource and Protected Area Management 3:3:0 Fall
*Prerequisite(s): REC 2200 and University Advanced Standing
Examines topics in the management of Nation Parks, National Forests, Bureau of Land Management, and other public lands and protected areas focusing on management strategies and techniques for addressing common resource and social problems in natural resource recreation management. Emphasizes case studies and problem analysis. Course fee of $30 applies for transportation, support applies.

REC 4500 Wildland Recreation Behavior 3:3:0 Spring
*Prerequisite(s): REC 4400 and University Advanced Standing
Studies behaviorally-based models and relevant research in wildland recreation. Provides an in-depth analysis of human behavior influences and topics including visitor satisfaction, crowding, carrying capacity, resource destruction, motivations, attitudes, preferences, norms, conflicts, and specialization. Using these theoretical concepts, visitor-based management models will be presented and criticized. Emphasis on critical problems affecting public land recreation management. Course fee of $20 applies for transportation, support applies.
Course Descriptions

RESP 1540
Survey of Respiratory Therapy
1:1:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Introduces students to the profession of respiratory therapy. Includes field trips and limited lab activities. Open to all students.

RESP 2145
Introduction to Basic Therapeutic Modalities Lab
3:0:6  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Respiratory Therapy Program
Provides laboratory experiences to develop basic patient interaction and assessment skills required of an entry-level respiratory therapist. Course lab fee of $225 applies.

RESP 2165
Equipment Management Lab
3:0:6  Summer
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): RESP 2145
Provides laboratory experiences to develop basic patient observation and assessment skills, as well as techniques in initiating, troubleshooting, monitoring, managing, and weaning ventilator parameters. Course lab fee of $217 applies.

RESP 2210
Elementary Cardiopulmonary Anatomy and Physiology
3:3:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Respiratory Care Degree Program and RESP 1540
Investigates anatomy and physiology of the pulmonary, cardiovascular, and renal systems focused for the entry-level respiratory care practitioner. Includes principles of fluid dynamics governing oxygen and carbon dioxide transport throughout the body.

RESP 2230
Cardiopulmonary Pathophysiology
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2210
Introduces medical and surgical diseases of the pulmonary and cardiovascular systems for the entry-level respiratory therapist, with emphasis given to etiology, clinical presentation, diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis.

RESP 2250
Basic Patient Assessment
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into Respiratory Therapy Program
Introduces basic patient assessment techniques, including respiratory therapy application of obtaining patient history and physical examination. Emphasizes integration of laboratory and imaging studies.

RESP 2270
Application of Cardiopulmonary Diagnostics
3:3:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2210
Introduces theory and clinical application of basic cardiopulmonary diagnostic studies, including simple spirometry, arterial and mixed venous blood gases, and electrocardiograms. Emphasizes critical thinking skills in interpretation of diagnostic findings.

RESP 2300
Basic Modalities in Respiratory Care
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Respiratory Therapy Program.
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): RESP 2145
Examines principles and theory of clinical application of basic respiratory treatments and therapies, including indications, contraindications, hazards and complications, and equipment management. Examines principles and theory of clinical application of airway management and artificial ventilation. Includes theory of invasive and non-invasive ventilation. Emphasizes patient assessment and critical thinking skills.

RESP 2320
Essentials of Mechanical Ventilation
3:3:0  Summer
* Corequisite(s): RESP 2165
Introduces basic principles of mechanical ventilation, including determining the need for ventilation support, as well as initiation, maintaining, monitoring, and weaning from mechanical ventilation.

RESP 2330
Enter Level Respiratory Therapy Review
1:1:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2210, RESP 2300, RESP 2250
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): RESP 2320, RESP 2270
Provides a comprehensive review to integrate concepts and skills in Respiratory Therapy.

RESP 2520
Principles of Pharmacology
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2210
Introduces pharmacology, including general principles, autonomic and central nervous system agents, cardiovascular agents, and immunotherapeutic agents. Includes the study of drugs used in managing renal, GI tract, endocrine, and infectious or neoplastic diseases and disorders.

RESP 2705
Clinical Applications I
3:3:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Respiratory Therapy Program
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): RESP 2300, RESP 2145
Provides clinical rotations in various health care settings allowing for mentored practice of skills. Emphasizes application of assessment skills including medical chart reviews and patient observation and examination. Emphasizes recommending and modifying basic therapies utilizing patient assessment skills and review of patient medical history.
RESP 2715
Specialty Clinical Experiences
1:1:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2705
Provides opportunity to observe and participate in specialty areas of the respiratory care profession, including pulmonary function testing, cardiac testing, ECGs, ABGs, and long-term artificial airway maintenance. Requires 30 hours in clinical rotations with a registered respiratory therapist as a mentor in various hospital and other health care settings.

RESP 2725
Clinical Applications II
3:3:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2705
Provides clinical rotations in selected medical settings, focusing on skills of initiation, management, and weaning of mechanical ventilation. Includes case studies as well as patient care. Requires 90 clinical hours with a registered respiratory therapist mentor.

RESP 3210
Adv Cardiopulmonary Anatomy and Physiology
2:2:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2210, RESP 2230, and University Advanced Standing
Addresses cardiopulmonary anatomy and physiology specifically for the advanced-level respiratory care practitioner focusing on the advanced physiologic considerations of the cardiovascular, pulmonary, and renal systems.

RESP 3220
Advanced Cardiopulmonary Pathophysiology
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2230, RESP 3210, and University Advanced Standing
Examines pathophysiology and diagnosis of coronary artery disease, fungal lung diseases, neoplasms, HIV, adult respiratory distress syndrome (ARDS), chest trauma, shock, multiple organ dysfunction syndrome (MODS), and differentiation of extracellular and intracellular fluid compartments.

RESP 3230
Advanced Cardiopulmonary Technology
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2270 and University Advanced Standing
Explores advanced diagnostic procedures and develops interpretive skill in cardiopulmonary function, lung dynamics, specialty gases, blood gas analysis, and metabolic assessment.

RESP 3260
Neonatal/Pediatric Respiratory Care
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2320 and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): RESP 3765
Examines pediatric and neonatal respiratory care with emphasis on intensive care activities, therapeutic procedures, life support modalities, and fetal, neonatal, and pediatric pathophysiology. Course lab fee of $69 applies

RESP 3270
Adult Critical Care
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2320 and University Advanced Standing
Explores advanced level adult respiratory care in the intensive care setting. Emphasizes ventilation/perfusion monitoring, hemodynamic monitoring airway, assessment and critical patient management.

RESP 3280
Patient Care Continuum
2:2:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2300 and University Advanced Standing
Analyzes theory and principles of continuum of care and quality management in pulmonary rehabilitation, polysomnography, home and self care. Includes legal, ethical, and moral considerations of chronic and extended care.

RESP 3510
Anatomy and Physiology of Sleep
3:3:0  On sufficient demand
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing and Department approval. Requires (acceptance into the Respiratory Care Program or completion of a respiratory care program) or R.N. credential.
Introduces anatomy and physiology of the neurological, cardiac, and respiratory systems during the wake and sleep cycles. Emphasizes changes related to sleep disorders.

RESP 3520
Introduction to Sleep Disorders
3:3:0  On sufficient demand
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 3510 and University Advanced Standing
Provides an overview of the history of sleep medicine, normal sleep physiology, the effects of sleep-wake disruption, sleep disorders, and abnormal sleep physiology. Includes an introduction to polysomnography and the fundamentals of therapeutic interventions utilized to treat sleep disorders.

RESP 3530
Instrumentation and Computers in Polysomnography
3:3:0  On sufficient demand
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 3510 and University Advanced Standing
Studies and applies equipment, instrumentation, and recording devices utilized in polysomnography, such as EEG, ECG and a range of breathing monitoring systems and devices, including data acquisition and troubleshooting.

RESP 3550
Therapeutics of Managing Sleep Apnea
2:1:3  On sufficient demand
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 3520 and University Advanced Standing
Covers current therapies and interventions for treatment of sleep apneas. Includes interventions such as positive airway pressure therapy (nocturnal CPAP and bi-level CPAP), surgery, and dental devices.

RESP 3765
Clinical Applications of Neonatal/Pediatric Respiratory Care
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2320 and University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): RESP 3260
Provides mentored participation in the clinical care of patients in the neonatal/pediatric critical care setting. Emphasizes cardiovascular and patient/ventilator monitoring and assessment and airway management. Requires 180 hours of mentored participation in neonatal and pediatric intensive care.

RESP 3775
Clinical Applications of Adult Critical Care
4:4:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 2725, RESP 3270, and University Advanced Standing
Provides mentored participation in the clinical care of patients in the adult critical respiratory care setting, with emphasis on hemodynamic monitoring and assessment, ventilation/perfusion monitoring, patient/ventilator monitoring and assessment, and airway management.

RESP 3785
Clinical Applications III / Continuum of Care
2:2:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 3520 and University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): RESP 3260
Provides clinical experiences related to RESP 3280, such as rehabilitation, extended care, home care, polysomnography, patient assessment for discharge planning and quality management. Requires 60 documented clinical hours.

RESP 3800
Clinical Simulation Seminar
3:3:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): RESP 3260, RESP 3270, RESP 3280, and University Advanced Standing
Explores problem-based clinical concepts. Includes a comprehensive program review and preparatory focus on the written and clinical simulation examinations of the NBRC.

RESP 4615
Advanced Patient Assessment
3:3:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing and Department approval
Emphasizes an understanding of diagnostic processes involved in assessing, evaluating, and treating patients with cardiopulmonary disease, with an intensive, mentored clinical experience.

RESP 4630
Continuous Quality Improvement
2:2:0  Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Enhances understanding of how to construct and conduct quality improvement projects in the clinical workplace.
RESP 489R
Health Education and Promotion
1 to 4:1 to 4:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing and departmental approval.

Provides students an opportunity to pursue independent study in respiratory therapy with a faculty mentor. The health promotion project addresses the growing role of the Respiratory Care Practitioner (RCP) in patient education, public education, and health promotion in general. Requires preparation and presentation of oral and/or written reports. May be repeated for up to 4 credits toward graduation.

RESP 489R
Student Research in Respiratory Therapy
1 to 4:0:3 to 12 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing and Department approval. Must have completed Respiratory Therapy AAS degree requirements.

Provides guided research studies in biology under the direction of a Respiratory Therapy faculty or physician mentor. Includes any combination of literature reviews, original research, and/or participation in ongoing departmental projects. Involves students in the methodology of original medical or biological research. Requires preparation and presentation of oral and/or written reports. May be repeated for up to 4 credits toward graduation.

RESP 494R
Student Seminar in Respiratory Therapy
1:1:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing and Acceptance in the Respiratory Therapy program.

Provides moderated discussion and/or laboratory experiences relating to current events in health care, legislative and ethical issues, and emergent technologies in respiratory care. May be repeated for up to 2 credits toward graduation.

Rus 1010
Beginning Russian I
4:4:1 Fall, Spring

Studies conversational Russian that is used in daily settings. Includes culture study, speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Emphasizes conversation in real life situations. Uses the Natural and Total Physical Response teaching methods. Lab access fee of $10 applies.

RUS 1020
Beginning Russian II
4:4:1 Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Students need equivalent knowledge of RUS 1010

Studies second semester conversational Russian that is used in daily settings. Includes culture study, speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Emphasizes conversation in real life situations. Uses the Natural and Total Physical Response teaching methods. Completers should be able to communicate enough to visit or work in a Russian speaking country. Lab access fee of $10 applies.

RUS 115R
Russian Conversation I
1:1:0 Fall, Spring

Offers novice Russian speakers opportunities to enhance their speaking proficiency in the target language by focusing on oral verbal production. Teaches how to improve authentic pronunciation, reduce errors in authenticity of language structure, generate thought in the target language spontaneously as a substitute for translation, and sharpen listening comprehension for natural conversational flow. Contrast with all other first year courses which must strive to produce mastery of the whole range of language acquisition components, including writing, grammar, etc. Facilitates lowering the affective filter when conversing in the target language by increasing the frequency of speech opportunities and defusing concern for such matters as spelling, etc. Increases mastery of lexical items through increased frequency of oral usage. May be repeated for a maximum of 3 credits toward graduation.

RUS 135R
Russia in the Headlines
1:1:0 On Sufficient Demand

Explores current issues in Russian headlines. Explains cultural, historical, political and social factors that contribute to positions taken by current Russian leaders. May be repeated for a maximum of 3 credits toward graduation.

RUS 2010
Intermediate Russian I
4:4:1 Fall

Reviews and builds upon the grammar, reading, writing, and conversation skills learned in the first year courses. Introduces readings and discussions on the history, culture, and literature of Russia, maintaining a focus on oral proficiency. Lab access fee of $10 applies.

RUS 202G
Intermediate Russian II
4:4:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Students need equivalent knowledge of RUS 2010

Studies fourth-semester conversational Russian that is used in daily settings. Includes culture study, speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Emphasizes conversation in real life situations. Uses the Natural and Total Physical Response teaching methods. Completers should be able to converse enough to visit or work in a Russian speaking country. Lab access fee of $10 applies.
RUS 215R
Russian Conversation II
1:1:0  Fall, Spring

* Prerequisite(s): Students should have equivalent knowledge of RUS 1020

Offers lower division / novice Russian speakers opportunities to enhance their speaking proficiency in the target language by focusing on oral verbal production. Teaches how to improve authentic pronunciation, reduce errors in authenticity of language structure, generate thought in the target language spontaneously as a substitute for translation, sharpen listening comprehension, and develop conversational strategies such as circumlocution and managing a conversation with useful expressions for starting a conversation, gaining time to think, helping the other speaker, seeking agreement, etc. Contrasts with all other first year courses which must strive to produce mastery of the whole range of language acquisition components, including writing, grammar, etc. Facilitates lowering the affective filter when conversing in the target language by increasing the frequency of speech opportunities and defusing concern for such matters as spelling, etc. Increases mastery of lexical items through increased frequency of oral usage. May be repeated for a maximum of 3 credits toward graduation.

Introduction to Russian Culture
3:3:0  Fall Odd Year

* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005

Studies Russian culture (188-1900) within a historical, cultural, thematic, and aesthetic context.

RUS 3030
Russian Conversation and Composition I
3:3:0

* Prerequisite(s): (RUS 202G or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Emphasizes production skills [speaking and writing], reviews and expands lexical depth and advances mastery of Russian grammar. Examines contemporary Russian culture topics through studying a variety of Russian sources: readings, film, lecture, individual research, etc. Analyzes topics through active class discussion in Russian. Conducted entirely in Russian.

RUS 3040
Russian Conversation and Composition II
3:3:0  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): (RUS 202G or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing

Explores communicative skills in Russian. Provides opportunity for students to improve language production through extensive oral and written instruction and study of selected literary and cultural texts. Advances mastery of Russian grammar while emphasizing production skills of speaking and writing. Prepares students to participate fully in subsequent advanced courses. All course work conducted in Russian.

RUS 3050
Advanced Russian
3:3:0  Fall, Spring

* Prerequisite(s): It is recommended that students have either taken RUS 202G, had at least one year residency in a Russian-speaking country, or instructor approval

Designed for non-native Russian speakers, who, as a result of foreign residency or similar exposure to the language, have attained a fairly good mastery of basic Russian. Targets major grammatical concepts with a focus on oral proficiency development. Overviews Russian culture and gives an introduction to Russian literature. Lab access fee of $10 applies.

RUS 3200
Business Russian
3:3:0  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): RUS 3050 and University Advanced Standing

Teaches Russian business terminology and prepares students to take the Business Russian Proficiency Tests sponsored by the Russian Chamber of Commerce.

RUS 3520
Russian Culture and Civilization
3:3:0  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): (RUS 3050 or equivalent) and University Advanced Standing

Explores chronologically the evolution and development of Russia, and a multitude of aspects that construct Russian national identity. Completers should acquire an understanding of contemporary issues, ethnic and economic development of Russia, as well as historical interdependence with other nations. Presentations and class instructions conducted entirely in Russian.

RUS 3620
Nineteenth-Century Russian Literature and Its Film Adaptations
3:3:0  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing

Introduces Russian Realist literature from 1800 and explores how these classic texts have been adapted for film. Emphasizes literary and film analysis and criticism, explores literary history, develops skills in interpreting literary and filmic texts, and deepens understanding of Russian culture. All coursework conducted in English with select readings in Russian upon request.

RUS 366G
Twentieth Century Russian Culture
3:3:0  Spring Odd Year

* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 2010 and University Advanced Standing

Explores the main Russian cultural influences of the 20th century. Examines the cultural, social and political movements developed from roughly 1880-1999 and considers the main figures who embody these movements. Focuses on individuals who exemplify cultural achievements in their given field or sphere of influence. Requires a research paper that focuses on an individual who contributed to the 20th century cultural milieu. Taught in English.

RUS 367G (Cross-listed with: HIST 367G)
History of Russian Film
3:2:2  Spring Even Year

* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and University Advanced Standing

Studies Russian cinema within the historical, cultural, thematic, and aesthetic context.

RUS 4050
Special Problems in Grammar Usage and Style
3:3:1  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): ([RUS 3030 and RUS 3040] or RUS 3050) and University Advanced Standing

Reviews Russian grammar focusing on problem areas. Explores grammar as deployed in different genres. Emphasizes writing in different styles. Identifies styles in readings and composes according to certain styles.

RUS 4110
Translation and Interpretation
3:3:0  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): (RUS 3050 or equivalent) and University Advanced Standing

Introduces translation as a discipline. Develops the special skills needed for translating and interpreting, and to achieve mastery of the contemporary spoken and written language. Discusses basic theory, principles and tools of translation. Employs the tools of translation: dictionaries, glossaries, grammars and computerized resources. Focuses on the extensive practice of translation and interpretation from English to Russian and from Russian to English.

RUS 416G
Post Soviet Russian Media and Film
3:2:2  Fall Even Year

* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 2010 and University Advanced Standing

Examines visual media with special attention paid to the embedded cultural discourse that can only be understood with references to Russian history, language, and cultural identity. Explores Russia’s depiction of and relationship with its past, present and future. Explores certain questions about visual media in post-Soviet society: the function of cinema in the new Russia; how cinema offers what reality cannot – a goal for people to live up to at a time when politics and ideology fail to provide direction; how cinema articulates the reality of contemporary Russian life.

Special Topics in Russian Studies
3:3:0  On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): ENGL 2010 and University Advanced Standing

Explores a variety of subjects relevant to the study of Russian language, literature and culture. Engages students in critical analysis and discourse. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credits toward graduation.
Course Descriptions

Student Leadership and Success (SLSS)

SLSS 1000
University Student Success
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Appropriate reading skills
Introduces and integrates new students to the UVU community, both academically and socially. Teaches strategies for academic success, such as critical thinking skills, time and financial management, and effective collaboration techniques. Develops student awareness of campus resources and assists in exploring and establishing personal, academic, and career goals. Includes lectures, group interaction, online interaction with faculty and students, in class exercises, and projects which apply learning to real life situations.

SLSS 101R
Student Success Topics
1 to 3:1 to 3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Appropriate reading skills
Variable credit course that surveys essential skills for success in college. Topics covered include, but are not limited to: memory, note taking, text taking, textbook reading and study strategies, time management, writing processes, communication, and thinking skills. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credits toward graduation. May be graded credit/no credit.

SLSS 103R
Student Leadership Development I
1 to 4:1:0 to 9  Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Departmental Approval
Provides an overview of leadership styles, personalities, and organizational dynamics for student leaders. Explores the structure and culture of Student Leadership, Utah Valley University, the governing boards of higher education, and the State of Utah relating to shared governance and student involvement in campus leadership. May be repeated for a maximum of 8 credits toward graduation. May be delivered hybrid.

SLSS 104R
Student Leadership Development II
1 to 4:1:0 to 9  Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): Departmental Approval
Focuses on the nature of leadership, citizenship, and advocacy in a democracy. Provides an overview of leadership and civic as crucial to the success of any leader, including a student leader. May be repeated for a maximum of 8 credits toward graduation.

SLSS 1050
Library Research
1:1:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Introduces information gathering strategies and processes. Teaches discovery of books, articles, and other information sources. Emphasizes critical evaluation and ethical use of information. Prepares students for in-depth research. May be delivered online.

SLSS 1100
Stress Management
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Introduces information gathering strategies and processes. Teaches discovery of books, articles, and other information sources. Emphasizes critical evaluation and ethical use of information. Prepares students for in-depth research. May be delivered online.

SLSS 1120
Leadership and Civic Engagement
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Identifies how student leaders can impact the UVU community and the community which they live. Explores student leadership models in relation to change and discover community needs in a service-learning environment. Applies student leadership practices and understanding of civic engagement to inform the UVU community of a local, national or world-wide community need(s). Reflects on student leadership, civic engagement, and community. Practices life-long learning and advocacy for community change.

SLSS 1190
Power Reading and Learning Strategies
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
For students with good reading skills who wish to build on their strengths and take charge of their own learning. Introduces what successful college students do and invites students to begin implementing these research-based techniques and methods in their other courses. Focuses on developing a conceptual and strategic framework for effective reading and learning at the college level. Includes attention to creating the conditions for effective learning, comprehension of academic texts, identifying and remembering key information, test preparation and test taking. May be delivered online. Canvas Course Mats $35/Cengage applies.

SLSS 1195
Speed Reading
2:2:0  Fall, Spring
For students with good reading skills who want to increase reading speed and flexibility while maintaining or increasing their level of comprehension. Also teaches methods of speed studying.

SLSS 1200
The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Provides the foundation for personal leadership by teaching fundamental principles of character and life-changing paradigms. Examines the personal and organizational components of effectiveness. Focuses on high leverage changes such as time management, communication skills, win/win negotiation, and principle-centered life choices. Prepares students for life-long success. Includes highly interactive class discussions, application exercises, videos, and group work. May be delivered hybrid and/or online. Course fee of $40 applies.

SLSS 120R
Testing Strategies for Educators
1:1:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Provides prospective Elementary Education Majors an opportunity to acquire the study strategies and test taking skills necessary to pass examinations that allow them to be admitted into the education program and to receive state licensure. May be repeated for a maximum of 3 credits toward graduation.

SLSS 1400
Dimensions of Engaged Learning
1:1:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Introduces students to theories and best practices related to engaged learning in higher education. Provides opportunities for students to collaborate, share ideas, and participate in common experiences.

SLSS 141R
University Forum
1:1:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
Encourages student participation in the academic and intellectual life of UVU through attendance and critical reflection on select academic and scholarly events. Integrates students’ classroom learning with topical events through exposure to scholars and practitioners on a wide range of issues and from a variety of perspectives. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credits toward graduation. Graded credit/no credit.

SLSS 2100
Major and Career Exploration
3:3:0  Fall, Spring, Summer
For students who are undecided about their major or career goals. Provides students with the opportunity to interact with career professionals; understand how to access internships, career preparation, and placement resources at UVU; and integrates understanding of self with knowledge of majors, careers, and the world of work. Utilizes an appropriate decision making model to identify possible major and career choices. May be delivered online. Course fee of $22 for materials applies.

SLSS 2300
Leadership Mentoring II
3:3:0  Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): SLSS 2200
Provides the ongoing and further development of the theoretical base and hands-on training in leadership and mentoring techniques for peer mentors, and also assists them in further exploring and developing their own learning skills and strategies, and methods for mentoring these skills in others. Explores higher cognitive application and analysis of teaching/facilitating learning as a form of leadership.
SLSS 240R
Mentoring Leadership Practicum

Focuses on the core concepts of the various sub-fields of linguistics applied to Spanish: Phonetics and Phonology, Morphology, Syntax, Semantics, Sociolinguistics, the History of the Language, Dialectology and Pragmatics. | | |
| SPAN 4500   | Advanced Research and Academic Writing in Spanish | 3:3:0   | Fall, Spring     | * Prerequisite(s): SPAN 4050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Addresses academic research and scholarly writing in the Spanish major. Emphasizes advanced research techniques, textual analysis, style, and argumentation. Prepares students for senior thesis and graduate research. Lab access fee of $10 applies. | | |
| SPAN 460R   | Topics in Hispanic Literature                    | 3:3:0   | Fall Odd Year    | * Prerequisite(s): (SPAN 3610 or SPAN 3620 or SPAN 3630 or SPAN 3640) and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Addresses key texts representative of the development of genres, themes, or individual authors’ works. Engages students in critical analysis and discourse. Possible topics may include Medieval Spanish Literature, the “Generacion del 98,” the works of Jorge Luis Borges, or the recent Spanish American novel. May be repeated for a maximum of six credits toward graduation with different topics. | | |
| SPAN 4660   | Contemporary Spanish American Literature          | 3:3:0   | On Sufficient Demand | * Prerequisite(s): (SPAN 3610 or SPAN 3620 or SPAN 3630 or SPAN 3640) and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Introduces the major works of Spanish American writers in the latter part of the 20th and early 21st centuries. Involves close reading and textual analysis through class discussion, written projects, examinations, and oral presentations. Conducted entirely in Spanish. | | |
| SPAN 484R   | Special Topics in Hispanic Studies                | 1 to 3:1 to 3:1 | Fall Even Year | * Prerequisite(s): (SPAN 3050 or departmental approval) and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Presents selected topics in Hispanic Studies. Reflects the interdisciplinary nature of the Hispanic Studies field. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credits toward graduation with different topics. | | |

SPAN 4900 Capstone Seminar

- Credits: 3:3:0
- Terms: Fall, Spring, Summer
- Prerequisites: Spanish 4500 and 18 credits of upper-division Spanish courses (or instructor approval) and University Advanced Standing
- Engages students in independent, directed research and writing. Encourages further exploration of topics covered during courses in the major program. Requires use of advanced research methods and peer review of others’ work. Includes public oral exposition of research findings.

| STAT 1040   | Introduction to Statistics                        | 3:3:0   | Fall, Spring, Summer | * Prerequisite(s): One of the following: MAT 1000 or MAT 1010 with a grade of C or better within the past two years; an ACT mathematics score of 23 (assuming the test has been taken within the last two years); appropriate placement by the Accuplacer test score
|             |                                                  |         |                  | A quantitative literacy course with a statistical theme. Includes descriptive statistics, sampling, and inferential methods. Emphasizes problem solving and critical thinking. Canvas Course Mats $72/MacMillan applies. | | |
| STAT 1045   | Introduction to Statistics with Algebra           | 5:5:0   | Fall             | * Prerequisite(s): Within the past two years; appropriate placement by math placement test or Mathematics Department Advisor
|             |                                                  |         |                  | A quantitative literacy course with a statistical theme. Includes descriptive statistics, sampling, and inferential methods. Emphasizes problem solving and critical thinking. Supplements material in introductory statistics with selected topics from algebra, such as lines, roots, fractions, decimals, etc., when appropriate. | | |
| STAT 2040   | Principles of Statistics                          | 4:4:0   | Fall, Spring, Summer | * Prerequisite(s): Within the past two years: MATH 1050 or MATH 1055 with a grade of C or higher or appropriate math placement test score
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Includes summarizing data, measures of central location, measures of variation, probability, mathematical expectation, probability distributions, sampling and sampling distributions, estimation, hypothesis testing, analysis of variance, regression analysis, and correlation. | | |
| STAT 2050   | Introduction to Statistical Methods               | 4:4:0   | Fall             | * Prerequisite(s): MATH 1050 or MATH 1055 with a grade of C or higher within the past two years or a placement by the appropriate placement test (taken within the past two years)
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Introductory statistics course for statistics majors. Applies discrete and continuous probability distributions to real data sets. Teaches confidence intervals and hypothesis testing for both one and two sample problems. Covers introductory topics in experimental design, linear regression, nonparametric statistics, and categorical data analysis. | | |
| STAT 2060   | Introduction to Statistical Computing             | 1:0:3   | Spring           | * Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Familiarizes students with the SAS statistical software package. Teaches how to organize, input data, and be able to use reference books to figure out the appropriate way to run the analysis needed using SAS. | | |
| STAT 3040   | Probability and Statistics for Engineering and the Sciences | 3:3:0 | Fall            | * Prerequisite(s): (STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 and MATH 2210 each with a grade of C or higher) and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Introduces mathematical statistics for scientists and engineers. Includes counting techniques, random variables, expected values, joint and marginal distributions, point estimation, hypothesis testing, analysis of variance, and regression. | | |
| STAT 4000   | Applied Regression and Time Series                | 3:3:0   | Spring           | * Prerequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Provides students in non-mathematical disciplines the ability to answer typical research questions for their senior projects or graduate-level research. Includes linear regression, transformations, variable selection techniques, logistic regression, indicator variables, multicollinearity, and ARIMA time series. Satisfies the VEE statistics requirement for the Society of Actuaries. Introduces SAS software as a tool for statistical analysis. | | |
| STAT 4100   | Design of Experiment                              | 3:3:0   | Spring           | * Prerequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Introduces the design and analysis of randomized comparative experiments. Includes single factor ANOVAs, randomized block designs, Latin squares, factorial designs, and nested and split plot designs. Covers mixed models including random effects and computation of expected mean squares to form appropriate F-ratios. Uses SAS statistical program software to perform statistical analysis. | | |
| STAT 4200   | Survey Sampling                                   | 3:3:0   | Fall Odd Year    | * Prerequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing
|             |                                                  |         |                  | Introduces survey sampling including simple random sampling, stratified random sampling, systematic and cluster sampling. Discusses ratio and difference estimators, weighting for non-responses, eliminating sources of bias and designing the questionnaire. | | |
STAT 4300
Stochastic Processes
3:3:0 Spring Odd Year
* Prerequisite(s): STAT 3040 or STAT 4710 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing

Teaches how to perform statistical inference on Markov chains, including classifying states, computing mean and variance of recurrence times, and investigating long-run limiting behavior to model physical systems using the Poisson process. Teaches how to calculate and analyze queuing characteristics of each of the popular queuing models.

Multivariate Analysis
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MATH 2270, STAT 4710, with C or higher, and University Advanced Standing

Introduces multivariate data analysis. Performs inference on data arising from multivariate normal distribution including MANOVA, principal component analysis, factor analysis, canonical correlation analysis, discriminant analysis and cluster analysis. Uses Statistical software R or SAS for data analysis on all the topics covered.

STAT 4500
Nonparametric Statistics
3:3:0 Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing

Introduces nonparametric statistical procedures to apply in situations when parametric statistics (usually based on normality) are not appropriate. Covers types of nonparametric analyses that includes one and two sample hypothesis tests, goodness-of-fit tests, contingency tables, block designs, and regression analysis.

STAT 4600
Statistical Process Control
3:3:0 Fall Even Year
* Prerequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing

Presents the theory and methods of quality monitoring including process capability, control charts, acceptance sampling, quality engineering, and quality design.

Mathematical Statistics-Probability and Statistics
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): STAT 2040 or STAT 2050 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): MATH 2210

Introduces mathematical statistics including random variables, set theory, transformations, expectation, joint characteristics, transformations of random variables, Pearson’s correlation coefficient, and bivariate normal distribution and regression.

Mathematical Statistics: Statistical Inference
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): STAT 4710 with a grade of C or higher and University Advanced Standing

Is a continuation of STAT 4710. Includes estimation, sufficiency, completeness, hypothesis testing, statistical inference with the normal distribution, and Bayesian statistics.

STAT 6010
Theory of Statistics I
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Mathematics Endorsement 4, or instructor approval

Teaches topics including, but not limited to, probability theory, random variables, functions of random variables, probability distributions and their characteristics, transformations of random variables, Pearson’s correlation coefficient, and bivariate normal distribution and regression.

Theory of Statistics II
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): STAT 6010 with C or better; Licensed Secondary Teacher Mathematics Endorsement Level 4 State of Utah and/or permission of instructor

Emphasizes theoretical statistical inference. Includes, but is not limited to, concept sufficiency, theory of estimation, testing of statistical hypothesis, Neyman-Pearson lemma, Bayesian inference, sequential testing, and large sample theory for inference.

Substance Use Disorder Counseling (SUDC)

SUDC 3430
Psychopharmacology for the Substance Use Disorder Counseling Field
3:3:0
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC program and University Advanced Standing

Addresses basic principles of nervous system function with emphasis on communication between nerve cells. Focuses on therapeutic drugs as well as drugs of abuse to include mechanisms of action and behavioral effects. Includes content on dynamics of addiction.

Dynamics of Addiction
3:3:0
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC program and University Advanced Standing

Explores processes contributing to development and maintenance of addiction. Addresses internal (genetics, motivation) and external (family dynamics, peer pressure) contributors. Includes issues related to drug policy, costs of addiction, and prevention/treatment of drug addiction.

SUDC 4300
Introduction to Substance Use Disorder Counseling
3:3:0
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC program and University Advanced Standing

Surveys concepts and practices of major therapeutic systems, with a focus on substance use disorder counseling. Introduces students to the major psychotherapeutic models of both individual and group therapy. Addresses basic counseling issues including ethics and professionalism. Develops skills in relationship development, interviewing, initial assessment and intake procedures.

SUDC 4400
Advanced Substance Use Disorder Counseling
3:3:0
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC Program, completion of SUDC 4300 with a C- grade or higher, and University Advanced Standing

Expands concepts and practices of major therapeutic systems, with a focus on advanced substance use disorder counseling. Continues coverage of major psychotherapeutic models of both individual and group therapy. Elaborates on basic counseling issues including ethics and professionalism. Continues to develop skills in relationship development, interviewing, initial assessment, and intake procedures.

SUDC 4710
Introduction to Professional Development
2:2:0
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC program and University Advanced Standing

Defines the scope of practice and legal and ethical obligations of substance abuse counselors. Examines the knowledge, skills, attitudes, legal obligations, and limitations of practice of professional substance abuse counselors. Introduces the 12 core functions.

SUDC 4720
Advanced Professional Development
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC program, completion of SUDC 4710 with a C- grade or higher, and University Advanced Standing

Expands on professional issues in Substance Use Disorder Counseling. Focuses on the 12 core functions of substance abuse, ethics, theories of substance abuse, and theory and practice of individual and group counseling.

SUDC 481R
Internship
1 to 8:1 to 8:0
* Prerequisite(s): Admission to the UVU SUDC program, completion of SUDC 4710 with a C- grade or higher, instructor approval, and University Advanced Standing

Provides practical and research experience in the substance use disorder counseling field with a focus on the 12 core functions of substance use disorder counseling. Supervised by agency representative. Internships must be approved by the UVU SUDC program and written contracts must be signed. Requires students pursuing the SUDC license to complete a minimum of 200 hours of field experience. Requires students pursuing the ASUDC license to complete a minimum of 350 hours of field experience. May be repeated for a maximum of 8 hours toward graduation.
Land Surveying (SURV)

SURV 1020 Introduction to Surveying and Mapping
1:1:0 Fall
Provides an orientation to the field of Surveying and Mapping including Boundary Surveying, Geodesy, Forensic Surveying, Construction Surveying, Geographic Information Systems (GIS), and other types of surveys. Involves presentations by community/industry professionals encompassing the surveying and mapping occupations. Teaches college success principles and practices for the Surveying and Mapping program. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 1030 Fundamentals of Geodesy and Control Surveys
3:3:0 Spring
Explores the science of geodesy or the size and shape of the earth. Involves Global Positioning Systems theory for computing a position on the earth using three-dimensional coordinate systems, reference coordinate systems, state plane coordinates, transformations, geod co datums, orthometric heights and leveling. Introduces basic properties and characteristics of the most common map projections. Explains principles and theories used to establish control surveys and survey networks based on geodesy. Introduces traverse, triangulation, and elevation adjustment computations along with random and systematic errors in measurement. Offers field application assignments of typical survey control networks using GPS and Total Stations to collect GPS data. Includes post processing coordinate transformation, creation, and report generation using the NGS OPUS system. Requires verifiable demonstration of field skills and techniques.

SURV 1220 Remote Sensing and Photogrammetry
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): MAT 1010 or appropriate math placement score

SURV 1340 Fundamentals of Boundary Law
3:3:0 Spring
Explains the fundamental responsibilities of a land surveyor in recognizing, locating and creating land boundaries, including sequential and simultaneous conveyances, easements and reversions, riparian and littoral rights. Presents basic rules of evidence. Provides exposure to principles and procedures used to establish new boundaries and locate existing boundaries.

SURV 2010 Land History of America
3:3:0 Fall
Discusses how, what, and why certain countries, events, and individuals have significantly impacted the history of the lands of America. Describes how the contributions of the various inventions, instruments, individuals, conditions, and events impacted the lands of America. Identifies how current land conditions, policies, and laws in the State of Utah have been impacted by Utah land history. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 2030 Geodesy
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 2400, MATH 1060 or EGDT 1600 and 1610 or appropriate math placement score
Examines the science of geodesy. Includes size and shape of the earth, spherical and ellipsoidal geometry, the celestial sphere, and astronomical trigonometry. Involves Global Positioning Systems theory for calculating position on the earth using three-dimensional coordinate systems, reference coordinate systems, state plane coordinates, transformations, spheroid, ellipsoid, geod co datums, celestial sphere, orthometric heights and leveling. Covers basic properties and characteristics of the most common map projections with emphasis on the projections used in State Plane Coordinates such as Lambert Conformal, Universal Transverse Mercator (UTM). Exposes the student to survey applications of practical astronomy including time systems, astronomical azimuth, and Solar/Polars observations and calculations.

SURV 2100 Mapping From Field to Finish
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 1400, EGDT 1040, GIS 2640
Teaches how to identify, operate, and maintain common instrumentation used to collect field data including GPS, Total Stations, and Drones. Integrates survey field data, Geographic Information Systems (GIS) data, and Computer Aided Drafting (CAD) data to develop static and dynamic maps and plans often used by public and private entities. Demonstrates best practice field and office procedures and techniques commonly used by federal, state, and local governments and private industry. Explains potential field safety considerations, problems, and issues, as well as the development of a safety plan. Includes written and oral presentations.

SURV 2310 Surveying US Public Lands
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 1400, MATH 1060 or EGDT 1600 and 1610 or appropriate math placement score
Studies U.S. Public Land Survey System (PLSS) as described in the current official Department of the Interior-Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Manual of Instructions for Surveying Public Lands with emphasis on federal, state, and other applicable laws, evidence, resurveys, and subdivision of sections. Covers a detailed study of general and special instructions, irregularities in subdivisions, lost and obliterated corners, single and double proportion methods, monumentation, riparian boundary laws and rights, hiatuses, mineral surveys, and official survey documents. Introduces Spanish and Mexican land grants, as well as state and national boundaries. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 2320 Property Descriptions and Public Land Records
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): (ENGL 1010 or ENGH 1005) and EGDT 1400
Involves analysis, interpretation, and writing of legal descriptions with proper form, controlling elements, metes-and-bounds, sectionized land descriptions, easements, and rights-of-way. Discusses different types of descriptions, junior-senior rights in descriptions, latent & patent ambiguities, basis of bearing and interpretation, easements, and reversion. Applies practical exercises and case studies. Studies the responsibilities of the professional land surveyor regarding due diligence in searching public land records and performing applicable legal research. Examines public records and recording laws. Emphasizes title search to patent and includes zoning laws relating to land. Involves tour(s) of local record systems or/public offices.

SURV 3010 Measurement Analysis and Adjustments
4:4:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 2400, MATH 1060 or (EGDT 1600 and 1610) or appropriate math placement score; and University Advanced Standing
Examines observation theory, and observational error analysis. Discusses the theory of measurement errors, principles of error propagation, variance and covariance, and the theory of the least squares method. Studies variences and co-variences of observed, derived, and adjusted quantities; regression analysis, and polynomial curve fitting. Involves systems of linear equations, linearization, and iteration of nonlinear equations; adjustment validation using hypothesis testing; modeling of surveying problems using different techniques of least squares and also presents several methods used to fit survey data to mathematical and survey models. Software fee of $18 applies. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 3030 Land Development Planning, Platting, and Mapping
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 1040, EGDT 1400, matriculation into the Geomatics BS degree, and University Advanced Standing
Discusses land use planning techniques for residential and commercial developments. Subdivisions, industrial parks, and commercial complexes are studied along with the associated governmental regulations, codes, rules, and approval processes and procedures. Requires a mock public presentation on course projects. Uses current surveying/engineering software to develop and plot drawings including: subdivision plats, records of survey, ALTA surveys, topographic site surveys, and other maps. Software fee of $18 applies. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.
SURV 3210
Advanced Photogrammetry
3:3:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 1400, MATH 1060, or (EGDT 1600 and 1610), or appropriate math placement score; and University Advanced Standing
Examines principles of photogrammetry as applied to surveying and mapping. Analyzes geometry of vertical and aerial photographs, stereoscopic parallax, geometry of tilted photographs, and stereoplottor mapping. Discusses close-range photographic analysis, planimetric and topographic maps, flight planning, digital photogrammetry, aerial cameras and camera calibration. Involves the theory and techniques of photo orientation, digital imagery, and aerial triangulation. Software fee of $18 applies. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

Control Surveys
3:3:0  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): SURV 2030, SURV 3010, matriculation into the Geomatics BS degree, and University Advanced Standing
Applies principles and theories presented in prerequisite courses and moves the student to an advanced applications level. Studies the establishment of control surveys and survey networks. Reviews compass rule adjustment computation, matrix methods and least squares adjustment methods, random and systematic errors in measuring, and error propagation. Offers field applications of Radial and GPS surveying systems: static, kinematic and RTK procedures, data collection, post processing coordinate transformation, creation, and report generation. Teaches practical applications of network adjustment, control surveys, triangulation, and precision traverses with precise elevation control. Requires demonstration of field skills and techniques. Software fee of $18 applies. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 3230
Construction and Route Surveys
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 2400, MATH 1060 or EGDT 1600 and 1610, or appropriate math placement score; and University Advanced Standing
Applies principles and theories presented in prerequisite courses. Develops computations, standard practices and practical applications for common construction and route surveys. Includes survey staking of pipes, curbs, streets, parking lots, buildings, and other typical land development and infrastructure project elements. Develops volume and area calculations. Requires computer derived solutions and applications from plans and specifications using modern data collection and coordinate geometry (COGO) computer software. $35 course fee for computers, and $18 course fee for software applies.

SURV 3340
Boundary Law
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): Matriculation into the Geomatics BS degree required and University Advanced Standing
Studies the responsibilities of the land boundary surveyor in protecting rights, title, and interest of the land; riparian and littoral rights, bona-fide rights, boundary easements and reversions, conveyances; sequential and simultaneous. Presents principles and rules of evidence. Includes monuments and monumentation, boundary locations, and procedures used to establish new boundaries and locate existing boundaries. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 3400
Surveying Applications and Field Techniques III
3:2:2  Fall
* Prerequisite(s): EGDT 2400, GIS 3600, and University Advanced Standing
Focuses on state of the art surveying applications and field survey techniques often employed by surveyors for various field and office tasks some of which may include horizontal and vertical networks and traverses, route surveys, and topographic/site surveys, and machine control methods. Teaches the construction, care, maintenance, calibration, effective setup and observation methods used for the latest in surveying instrumentation often including: global positioning systems (GPS), total robotic stations, 3D laser scanners, automatic levels, modern data collectors, coordinate geometry (COGO), computer-aided drafting (CAD) software, Drone surveying, and other geospatial surveying systems and instruments. Lab access fee of $35 applies. Software fee of $25 applies.

SURV 4340
Surveying Legal Principles
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): SURV 2320, SURV 3340, ENGL 2310, matriculation into the Geomatics BS degree, and University Advanced Standing
Focuses on researching the body of law as it applies to the practice of surveying. Covers common law associated with the Statute of Frauds, Constructive Notice, and Surveyor/Attorney interaction and roles. Discusses principles and concepts of dispute and conflict resolution as well as the specific role of the expert witness. Reviews the fact finder role of the surveyor in research/investigation techniques and sources while focusing on facts of a case and the applicable laws. Completers will work on case studies and prepare a final legal research paper. Involves tour(s) of a law library.

SURV 4400
Surveys Applications and Field Techniques IV
3:2:3  On Sufficient Demand
* Prerequisite(s); SURV 3400 and University Advanced Standing
Focuses on projects both lab/office and field work. Uses a mentor based teaching model to engage in several projects from inception to final deliverables. Requires students to make project decisions individually and as a team regarding each aspect of the various assigned projects. Requires each team member to demonstrate their own ability to perform all tasks required to complete the assigned projects within a given time frame resulting in deliverables that meet a pre-professional level of competency. Lab access fee of $35 applies. Software fee of $25 applies.

Professional Services Practicum
3:3:0  Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
Examines the planning, organizing, and application of field and office practices, and develops a practical business plan including policies and procedures associated with a typical professional services firm providing civil engineering, architectural, and surveying services to the public and private sector. Reviews and applies a myriad management principles and functions including: operations, financial, marketing, human resource, project, and risk management. Exposes the student to the functions of typical financial software. Explores business concepts specific to professional services; pricing, fees, bidding, proposals, contracts, and professional liabilities. Involves developing a business plan for a professional services firm. Lab access fee of $35 for computers applies.

SURV 451R
Surveying and Mapping Lecture Series
.5 to 2.5 to 2:0  Fall, Spring
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing

Mammalogy
3:3:0 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): BIOL 1620 with a minimum grade of C-, and University Advanced Standing; ZOOL 3100 and ZOOL 3105 strongly recommended
* Corequisite(s): ZOOL 3505

Explores the taxonomy, morphology, behavior, ecology, evolution, development, and conservation of mammals. Includes three weekly lectures and a weekly laboratory.

ZOOL 3505
Mammalogy Laboratory
1:0:2 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): ZOOL 3500

Explores the taxonomy, morphology, behavior, ecology, evolution, development, and conservation of mammals. Includes three weekly lectures and a weekly laboratory. Course Lab fee of $56 for transportation, lab applies.

ZOOL 3600 (Cross-listed with: FSCI 3600)
Forensic Anthropology I
3:1:2 Fall
* Prerequisite(s): ZOOL 1090, or ZOOL 2320 and ZOOL 2325, University Advanced Standing

Provides instruction on the study of human bones and their remains as physical evidence in criminal investigations. Teaches the importance of dentition in determining an age estimate of human remains. Identifies the differences among the sexes, whether the remains are human or nonhuman, and what is of forensic significance. Explains crime scene methodology and clinical applications in Forensic Anthropology. Teaches problem solving and analytical thinking in order to develop a biological profile based on population-specific data and standards. Investigates different pathological conditions and variables which must be taken into consideration when determining the cause of death.

ZOOL 3700 (Cross-listed with: EXSC 3700)
Exercise Physiology
3:3:0 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): EXSC Majors: ZOOL 2320 (or 232H), ZOOL 2325 (or 232L), and EXSC 270G all with a C- or higher and MATH 1050. PETE Majors: PETE 2700 and ZOOL 1090 with a C- or higher and (MATH 1050 or MATH 1055). All: University Advanced Standing
* Prerequisite(s) or Corequisite(s): ZOOL 2420 (or 242H), ZOOL 2425 (or 242L)

Studies acute and chronic physiological responses to exercise, as well as nutritional and environmental effects on these responses. Requires separate weekly laboratory. Canvas Course Mats $78/McGraw

ZOOL 3705 (Cross-listed with: EXSC 3705)
Exercise Physiology Laboratory
1:0:3 Fall, Spring, Summer
* Prerequisite(s): University Advanced Standing
* Corequisite(s): EXSC 3700

Studies acute and chronic physiological responses to exercise, as well as nutritional and environmental effects on these responses. The laboratory is designed to offer the hands-on experience where students will experience the physiological responses to different stressors in the lab setting. The labs are arranged to be conducted as similar material is being discussed in class. Course Lab fee of $28 for materials applies.

ZOOL 4000
Animal Behavior
3:3:0 Spring
* Prerequisite(s): BIOL 1620 and University Advanced Standing

Examines the biological basis of animal behavior with emphasis on the underlying mechanisms and evolutionary causes of behavior. Covers first the proximate causes of behavior and then the ultimate or evolutionary causes of behavior. Includes topics such as the genetic basis of behavior, perceptual and effectual systems, ethology, neurophysiology, learning, animal communication, sexual behavior, and social systems.
ZOOL 4100 (Cross-listed with: MICR 4100)
Parasitology
4:3:2 On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): (BIOL 1620 or MICR 2060) with a C- or higher and University Advanced Standing

Introduces the study of parasites. Emphasizes the biology of principal groups of parasites affecting humans, livestock, and other animals, including their medical economic, and ecological significance. Emphasizes parasites causing zoonotic diseases. Includes weekly laboratory experience involving identification of parasites. Course Lab fee of $25 applies.

ZOOL 4300
Histology
4:3:2 Spring

* Prerequisite(s): [ZOO 2320 or ZOO 232H] with a C- or higher or written instructor approval and University Advanced Standing

For pre-professional students pursuing biomedical careers and Biology majors with a particular interest in vertebrate structure and function. Studies the microscopic structure of the body at the cellular, tissue, and organ levels. Emphasizes physical and functional relationships of various tissues in the organs of the body. Includes weekly laboratory. Course Lab fee of $35 applies.

Pathophysiology
4:4:0 Fall, Spring

* Prerequisite(s): ZOOL 2320, ZOOL 2420, and MICR 2060 each with a minimum grade C-, and University Advanced Standing

For Biology majors with an emphasis in human physiology, pre-professional majors, and nursing students. Studies pathophysiological etiologies and mechanisms that cause disease and examines physiological adaptations and dysfunction of organs and organ systems in a disease state.

ZOOL 4500
Comparative Vertebrate Zoology
3:3:0 On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): ZOOL 3100 and (ZOOL 1090 or ZOOL 2320), with a grade of C- or higher, and University Advanced Standing

* Corequisite(s): ZOOL 4505 Comparative Vertebrate Zoology Laboratory

Studies the structure and function of vertebrates at the cellular, tissue, organ and systems levels. Emphasizes developmental and evolutionary comparative aspects of mammalian, avian, reptilian, amphibian, and piscian organs and systems.

ZOOL 4505
Comparative Vertebrate Zoology Laboratory
1:0:3 On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): ZOOL 3100 and (ZOOL 1090 or ZOOL 2320), with a grade of C- or higher, and University Advanced Standing

* Corequisite(s): ZOOL 4500 Comparative Vertebrate Zoology

Studies the structure and function of vertebrates at the cellular, tissue, organ and systems levels. Emphasizes developmental and evolutionary comparative aspects of mammalian, avian, reptilian, amphibian, and piscian organs and systems. Course Lab fee of $24 applies.

ZOOL 4500 (Cross-listed with: MICR 4100)
Parasitology
4:3:2 On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): (BIOL 1620 or MICR 2060) with a C- or higher and University Advanced Standing

Introduces the study of parasites. Emphasizes the biology of principal groups of parasites affecting humans, livestock, and other animals, including their medical economic, and ecological significance. Emphasizes parasites causing zoonotic diseases. Includes weekly laboratory experience involving identification of parasites. Course Lab fee of $25 applies.

ZOOL 4600 (Cross-listed with: MICR 4600)
Ornithology
4:3:2 On Sufficient Demand

* Prerequisite(s): BIOL 1620 and University Advanced Standing; ZOOL 3100 and ZOOL 3105 highly recommended

Provides an in-depth study of avian evolution, systematics, developmental anatomy (wings, beaks, feathers), physiology, and social and reproductive behavior. Emphasizes an evolutionary and adaptive theme to the study of birds. Includes lectures, laboratories and field trips. Course Lab fee of $41 for transportation, lab applies.

ZOO 4700
Advanced Anatomy
4:3:3 Fall, Spring

* Prerequisite(s): ZOOL 2320 with a minimum grade of C- and University Advanced Standing

For students interested in biomedical science careers or with a special interest in anatomy. Covers principles and techniques of anatomical investigation and specimen preparation. Provides supervised experience in human cadaver dissection, anatomic interpretation of radiographs, craniometrics, and palpation of the body. A regional dissection approach will be used in the lab. Requires problem solving and analytical thinking. Includes the theory and basic principles of various forms of diagnostic imaging, light and electron microscopy, skeletal preparation, and injection/maceration techniques. Includes weekly laboratory. Course Lab fee of $13 applies.

Human Physiology A Cell Biology Approach
4:3:3 Not Offered

* Prerequisite(s): BIOL 3400 and University Advanced Standing

Addresses physiological principles and functions of the human body systems at the molecular level. Emphasizes cell signal transduction involved in the body maintaining homeostasis. Gives special attention to nervous, muscular, cardiovascular, urinary and respiratory systems. Requires problem solving and analytical thinking skills to be successful in the class. Includes weekly laboratory. Course Lab fee of $25 applies.

ZOOL 4780
Neuroscience
4:3:2 Fall

* Prerequisite(s): ZOOL 2420 with a C- or higher and University Advanced Standing

Covers aspects of molecular and cell biology, physiology, pharmacology, anatomy and the interplay of these and other disciplines in our understanding of the structure and function of the nervous system. Discusses neuroanatomy, developmental neurobiology, electrophysiology, membrane specializations related to signal propagation and signal transmission, neurotransmitter function and neuropharmacology, structure and function of simple neuronal circuits and complex neural networks and the plasticity of the nervous system. Incorporates discussion of journal articles related to the latest advances in neuroscience.

Graduate Policies and Procedures

Graduate Admission Offer Attendance Requirement

Acceptance of graduate admissions offers is valid only for the semester in the offer. Applicants who do not begin attendance during the semester in their admissions offers must reapply and pay the application fees before the applicable semester deadline. At the graduate program's discretion, graduate programs may defer enrollment if students apply for a deferment before the end of the semester for which they were admitted.

Continuous Registration Requirement

Once admitted and enrolled, graduate students shall maintain continuous registration during fall and spring semesters and during summer semester if required by the graduate program.

If graduate students cannot maintain continuous registration, they should file for a leave of absence through their graduate program.

Students who fail to maintain continuous registration and who have not been granted an official leave of absence shall be suspended from their graduate program. They shall be ineligible to register for future semesters unless they are readmitted through their graduate program's procedures.

Minimum GPA Requirement

Graduate students shall maintain a minimum cumulative 3.0 GPA to remain in their graduate programs.

Graduate students whose cumulative GPA falls below 3.0 shall be placed on academic probation for the following semester. Students whose GPAs remain below 3.0 after the probation semester shall be suspended from their graduate program and shall not be permitted to register or attend graduate courses.

Graduate students who are suspended from a graduate program for failing to maintain a cumulative 3.0 GPA may appeal in writing to the director of the graduate program within 30 days of the suspension. Supporting materials and information justifying the request should be supplied.

The graduate program director shall present the written appeal to the program graduate faculty for consideration. The decision of the program graduate faculty shall be final.

Readmission of Suspended Students

Graduate students suspended from the University for violation of Policy 510 or Policy 541 Student Rights and Responsibilities Code who wish to complete their program of study must apply for readmission to the applicable graduate program. The graduate faculty may review the reason for suspension when considering suspended students for readmission.

Minimum Graduation and Individual Course GPA Requirements

A cumulative grade-point average of 3.0 or higher shall be maintained in graduate program courses in order to graduate with a graduate degree or graduate certificate. Individual programs may establish higher grade-point-average requirements.

Credit for courses in which a student earns a grade of C- or lower shall not be applied toward any master's degree or graduate certificate program. Individual graduate programs may establish higher minimum grade requirements for individual courses.

Maximum Time Limit for Graduate Coursework

Graduate coursework shall be completed within a period of six years; individual programs may require graduate coursework be completed in fewer than six years. When extenuating circumstances warrant, a student may request an extension to coursework completion time limits.

The registrar shall assess the age of earned credits when students are accepted into a graduate program and when they apply for graduation. Graduate course credits older than university or program maximums shall not be applied toward a master's degree or graduate certificate.

To request an extension to coursework completion time limits, a student shall submit the request in writing to the program director (or his or her designee) of the applicable school or college. The program director's decision shall be final.

Program Description

For complete and current information about the MBA program, please access our web at www.uvu.edu/mba.

The Masters of Business Administration at UVU offers emphases in finance, marketing, management, and technology management.

1. The Part-time Professional MBA Program leverages the management experiences of our professional students while focusing on application and practice through the use of group discussions, case studies, simulations, projects, and interaction with regional organizations and business leaders. Classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings on the Orem campus which begins Fall semester (August). Additionally, classes are held on Monday and Wednesday evenings (or Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning in alternating years) at the Thanksgiving Point location which begins spring semester (January). The program is completed in six semesters over a two-year period.

2. The Full-time Accelerated MBA Program is designed to meet the needs of students who have completed their undergraduate degree and would like to continue their education through an enhanced one-year, three-semester program. The format requires a full-time effort as classes, workshops, and events are scheduled throughout the week. Due to the rigorous demands of this program, employment during enrollment is limited to 15-20 hours per week. Courses concentrate on real-world and engaged activities designed to assist students as they prepare to enter the business world.

The MBA program embraces the university’s designation as an engaged learning campus. Students immerse themselves in all aspects of business management, including accounting, leadership, marketing, economics, ethics, and social responsibility. Throughout the program, students will participate in several integration modules designed to assimilate the various functions of business through simulations, comprehensive case studies and real-world learning projects.

Program Prerequisites

After students are admitted into either the full-time or part-time program, they may demonstrate knowledge proficiency of all prerequisites by submitting official transcripts with a “B-” or higher in equivalent courses, OR by completing an online, abbreviated MBA Prep Course, prior to starting the program. Prerequisites include:

- Financial Accounting and Managerial Accounting
- Principles of Finance
- Statistics
- Excel proficiency
- Principles of Microeconomics and Macroeconomics (recommended but optional)

NOTE: Students who choose to meet these requirements by completing the MBA Prep Courses will need to obtain 80% or higher on the final assessment for each course. The prep courses may be completed through MyEducator. Specific details are available at www.uvu.edu/mba

Finance Track Prerequisites

In addition to the courses listed above, all students pursuing the finance emphasis must fulfill the following additional prerequisites (or equivalents) with a grade of B- or higher.

- Managerial Statistics
- Macroeconomics
- Microeconomics
- Financial and Managerial Accounting
- Principles of Finance
- Business Calculus or Business Analytics

Marketing Track Prerequisites

In addition to the courses listed above, all students pursuing the marketing emphasis must fulfill the following additional prerequisites (or equivalents) with a grade of C- or higher.

- Principles of Marketing
Graduate Studies

Application Process

Baccalaureate degree holders with both business and non-business majors may apply. Deadlines and current application requirements are posted on the website, www.uvu.edu/mba. Applicants must submit all of the following to the Woodbury School of Business:

1. Application – Complete online at www.uvu.edu/mba and pay the $45 application fee ($145 for international students). After submitting the application fee, applicants will access their account and select Supplemental Items to complete the additional requirements listed below.

   - Recommendations - List the name and email address of two individuals who will be sent a link to submit their recommendation.
   - Essays - Submit responses for one essay question.
   - Resume - Attach current resume highlighting relevant professional work experience.
   - College Transcripts - After the application fee has been paid, request official transcripts to be sent to etranscript@uvu.edu. Transcripts will be evaluated based on cumulative GPA or last 60 semester credits.
   - Graduate Test - Provide evidence of potential for success which may be demonstrated by submitting an official GMAT or GRE test score.

The goal is to obtain a 500 or above on the GMAT (perfect score is 800); GRE scores are converted to determine a GMAT equivalent. Test preparation resources and registration information available at www.uvu.edu/mba.

NOTE: Consideration to waive the graduate test requirement is given to students with a GPA of 3.3 or higher (cumulative or last 60 credits) and earned a B+ or better on each required prerequisite

2. Interview - An interview may be required as part of the application review process.

Additional Requirements for International Student Applicants

1. English Proficiency - Submit official TOEFL or IELTS scores. Required of applicants for whom English is a second language AND who earned a bachelor's degree outside of the United States. (Minimum TOEFL score of 80 or above and an IELTS score of 6.5 or higher.) The MBA office reserves the right to not waive the English proficiency requirement to ensure students will be adequately prepared for the rigors of the MBA program.

   2. Affidavit of Support - Upload a signed form completed by person accepting financial responsibility.
   3. Bank Statement - Provide document as requested on Affidavit of Support from student or sponsor.
   4. Copy of Passport - Attach a copy of the passport for the student and any dependents who will also need an I-20.

Application Deadlines

- Application window – August 1 through April 1, or until the cohort is full for the Fall start date. See www.uvu.edu/mba for more details.
- Review Date – Applicant files are reviewed on specific review dates listed on www.uvu.edu/mba. Applicants are generally notified of an admission decision within a few weeks.
- Financial Aid - A limited number of Graduate Assistantships are available annually for students enrolled in the full-time program in which students are able to earn $5,000 to $10,000. Scholarships are available starting March 1.

Application deadlines for international students:

- If outside the U.S. - May 15
- If in the U.S. - July 1

Reapplication

If an applicant is not admitted, he/she may reapply again at a later time. All current admission requirements at the time of application must be met.

Satisfactory Progress

Continuation in the Master of Business Administration program is determined by: (1) satisfactory progress (C or higher) in all courses (completed courses with a grade lower than a C must be repeated) and (2) faculty committee chair and the graduate admission and retention committee recommendation.

Academic Probation

A student can be recommended for academic probation for the following reason(s): (1) Failure to meet the scholarship requirements of the Graduate Program of an overall GPA of 3.00 (on a 4.00 scale) or higher, with no individual course grade lower than C; (2) Failure to complete prescribed courses; and/or (3) Failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Dismissal from the Program

A student can be dismissed from the Master of Business Administration program for the following reason(s):

1. Academic dishonesty;
2. Continued failure to meet academic standards; and/or
3. Continued failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Courses

Admission to the Master of Business Administration program is a requirement for enrollment into all Master of Business Administration courses.

Careers:

The job market will likely hold steady for 2014 MBA graduates, according to the Graduate Management Admission council. More than three-quarters of employers that plan to hire graduates expect to maintain or increase their hiring this year. They also report that projected hiring for 2014 is much improved from a few years ago. In addition, between 45 and 58 percent of employers plan to increase annual base salaries at or above the rate of inflation, an indicator that demand for talented graduates remains strong.

Careers:
The job market will likely hold steady for 2014 MBA graduates, according to the Graduate Management Admission council. More than three-quarters of employers that plan to hire graduates expect to maintain or increase their hiring this year. They also report that projected hiring for 2014 is much improved from a few years ago. In addition, between 45 and 58 percent of employers plan to increase annual base salaries at or above the rate of inflation, an indicator that demand for talented graduates remains strong.

Master of Business Administration-Management Emphasis, M.B.A 36 Credits

The UVU Master of Business Administration is an applied graduate degree that reflects the Woodbury School of Business's long and distinguished history of providing excellence in business education. Our innovative team-based curriculum reaches beyond the walls and textbooks of a traditional program and includes not only instruction in the disciplines of business, but also offers many opportunities to apply important skills such as leadership, teamwork, ethical decision making, critical thinking and problem solving, written and oral communication as they are woven throughout the curriculum. Students immerse themselves in all aspects of business management, including accounting, marketing, economics, and social responsibility. Students participate in an international project and travel to the country of their project hosts. The program culminates with a comprehensive real-life consulting project with a company operating in our region.

The full-time track for the Master of Business Administration program at Utah Valley University is a one year, accelerated MBA program that offers either of two concentration areas in management or accounting.

The part-time track for the Master of Business Administration program at Utah Valley University is a two year plan for working professionals which embraces the university's designation as an engaged learning campus and also offers either of two concentration areas in management or accounting.

The MBA program is AACSB accredited.

Program Description

For information about the Masters of Financial Planning and Analytics (MFPA) program, please access our website at www.uvu.edu/mfpa. The MFPA offers rigorous graduate education in financial planning and analytics including the opportunity to achieve financial industry certifications including The Chartered Financial Analysis (CFA) and/or the Certified Financial Planning Board CFP®.

The Master of Financial Planning and Analytics program offers three academic tracks that each point to a separate career path in the financial services industry.

Each student in the MFPA program will take the core courses along with elective course from one, or more of the following program tracks:

- Personal Financial Planning (CFP®) Track (Prerequisite Required)
- Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA)® Track
- Financial Services, Advanced Planning and Practice Management Track

Program Prerequisites

Students with undergraduate degrees in economics, finance, financial planning, accounting or actuarial science are eligible to apply to the program. However, applicants intending to study in the CFP® track may be considered from other undergraduate majors beyond those already mentioned and are encouraged to apply. Applicants will be expected to communicate your experience with quantitative courses or skill sets such as statistics, research, analytics, and econometrics as these skills are important to be successful in the core program classes.

Those electing to take the CFP® Track must complete the following undergraduate courses at UVU or at a CFP® Board approved program* prior to being admitted to the MFPA program.

Applicants must complete the following UVU prerequisite courses or their equivalents before they begin the program. Each prerequisite course must have a “B” grade or higher in order to fulfill the admission criteria.

* Substitutions for any of the above three UVU undergraduate courses would need to be pre-approved by the Academic Director of the MFPA program.

Application Process

Baccalaureate degree holders with both business and non-business majors may apply. Deadlines and current application requirements are posted on the website, www.uvu.edu/mfpa. Applicants must submit all of the following to the Woodbury School of Business:

Application – Complete online at www.uvu.edu/mfpa and pay the $45 application fee. After submitting the application fee, applicants will access their account and select Supplemental Items to complete the additional requirements listed below.

- Recommendations - List the name and email address of three individuals who will be sent a link to submit their recommendation.
- Essays - Submit responses for two essay questions of 400 words each
- Resume - Attach current resume which highlights educational background and professional work experience.
- College Transcripts - After the application fee has been paid, request official transcripts to be sent to etranscriptr@uvu.edu. Transcripts will be evaluated based on cumulative GPA or last 60 semester credits.

Application Deadlines

Submit your online application in accordance with the application requirements by one of the following review deadlines:

Fall 2019 Priority review deadline is April 30, 2019

After the priority review deadline, we will review applications according to the following deadlines:

1st Review: June 1, 2019
Graduate Studies

2nd Review: July 1, 2019

Please note that beyond the stated deadlines above, applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the Fall 2019 program is full. However, we cannot guarantee there will be spots available after the priority review deadline. It is always best to apply earlier rather than later.

Reapplication

If an applicant is not admitted, he/she may reapply again at a later time. All current admission requirements at the time of application must be met.

Satisfactory Progress

Continuation in the Master of Financial Planning and Analytics program is determined by: (1) satisfactory progress (C or higher) in all courses (completed courses with a grade lower than a C must be repeated) and (2) faculty committee chair and the graduate admission and retention committee recommendation.

Academic Probation

A student can be recommended for academic probation for the following reason(s): (1) Failure to meet the scholarship requirements of the Graduate Program of an overall GPA of 3.00 (on a 4.00 scale) or higher, with no individual course grade lower than C; (2) Failure to complete prescribed courses; and/or (3) Failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Dismissal from the Program

A student can be dismissed from the Master of Financial Planning and Analytics program for the following reason(s):

1. Academic dishonesty;
2. Continued failure to meet academic standards; and/or
3. Continued failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Financial Planning and Analytics, M.F.P.A. 36 Credits

The Master of Financial Planning and Analytics (FPA) prepares students for professional positions in financial planning and analytics including an industry accreditation along with the master's degree. PFP undergraduates will study advanced levels of financial planning, retirement/estate planning, technology applications, preparation for Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) accreditation, and other research and professional development. Another group of students without PFP undergraduate experience will pursue graduate education in the required topics for successfully completing the CFP® Board requirements to sit for the examination including retirement, estate, income tax, wealth, and a capstone experience.
The second track candidates will also be required to complete pre-requisite courses in introduction to financial planning, risk management and insurance, and investment management basics.

Matriculation Requirements:

Students taking the CFP Track must complete the following three undergraduate courses at UVU or at a CFP® Board approved program prior to being admitted to this Master of Financial Planning and Analytics program:

- FIN 3060 Introduction to the PFP Profession
- FIN 3220 Risk Management and Insurance
- FIN 3400 Investment Management

Any substitution for any of the above three UVU undergraduate courses would need to be pre-approved by the Director of the UVU Master of Financial Planning and Analytics program. The three courses outlined above and the four (excluding FIN 6700 CFP Exam Preparation) outlined in the CFP track are required for an individual to be eligible to take the CFP® Exam.

Graduation Requirements:

1. Completion of 36 hours of approved credit as described in this program with no grade lower than a "C".
2. Maintain a minimum cumulative graduate GPA of 3.0 or higher to graduate with the degree.
3. Graduates may not transfer more than ten semester credit hours into this Masters of FPA program. Only transfer courses approved by the graduate program faculty designated by the FPA graduate program director shall be counted as approved credit for the degree.

Graduation Plan:

This graduation plan is a sample plan and is intended to be a guide. Your specific plan may differ based on your Math and English placement and/or transfer credits applied. You are encouraged to meet with an advisor and set up an individualized graduation plan in Wolverine Track.

Milestone courses (pre-requisites for a course in one of the subsequent semesters) are marked in red and italicized.

Program Description

Utah Valley University Mathematics Department offers a two-year part-time course of study for secondary-level teachers leading to a Graduate Certificate in Mathematics. This program is intended for students who wish to teach concurrent enrollment or college-level math courses, but lack the minimum 18 graduate credit hours in mathematics.

This program offers required courses in areas of Topology, Combinatorics, Statistics, Numerical Analysis, Numerical Methods and Modeling, Modern Algebra and Ordinary Differential Equations.

Admission Requirements
Graduate Studies
Potential students must apply for admission into the program. To be accepted, students must have a current Mathematics Endorsement Level 4 certificate, attached to an Educator
License Secondary teacher, exception, Alternative Routes to Licensure (ARL).

Mathematics, Graduate Certificate 18 Credits

The Graduate Certificate in Mathematics aims to improve mathematics education and student achievement by focusing on two specific research-supported areas. First, by delivering high-quality content-based knowledge critical to student achievement, and second, by targeting in-service teachers who desire to teach dual credit in high school, given that dual-credit/dual-enrollment students are more likely to persist in college and are more likely to complete a bachelor’s degree in less time than those who did not attempt college credits in high school. Graduate courses for this program will be available to match in-service teacher’s schedules— evenings and during summer sessions— taught on the main campus and live-interactive by Utah Valley University’s full-time faculty.

Total Program Credits: 18

Matriculation Requirements:

1. Application for admission to the program.
2. Bachelor's degree required, Mathematics Endorsement 4, from an accredited institution.

Graduation Requirements:

1. Completion of a minimum of 18 credits.
2. Overall grade point average of 3.0 (B) or above.
3. Residency hours – minimum of 12 credit hours through course attendance at UVU.
4. Courses and project requirements must be finished within a five-year period. No courses will apply toward graduation which are older than five years.

Graduation Plan:

This graduation plan is a sample plan and is intended to be a guide. Your specific plan may differ based on your Math and English placement and/or transfer credits applied. You are encouraged to meet with an advisor and set up an individualized graduation plan in Wolverine Track.

Utah Valley University offers post-baccalaureate programs in Cybersecurity for students who wish to complete advanced studies in the field of cybersecurity. These programs are designed to provide students with advanced technical and managerial knowledge of cybersecurity, preparing them for senior technical and leadership roles in the field. Coursework includes a balanced approach, combining critical analysis of cybersecurity theory with hands-on education for essential applied cybersecurity techniques and tools.

Cybersecurity Graduate Certificate

The Cybersecurity Graduate Certificate program consists of 18 credits of graduate-level courses. The curriculum includes cybersecurity operations, advanced network defense, cybersecurity management, case studies, secure coding, ethical hacking, and the legal and privacy implications of cybersecurity.

Master of Science in Cybersecurity

The Master of Science in Cybersecurity builds on the curriculum for the Cybersecurity Graduate Certificate and includes 12 additional credits including topics, such as advanced penetration testing, reverse engineering, and advanced network forensics. The program culminates with a capstone project where students showcase their skills and abilities.

Admission Requirements

Potential students must apply for admission into these programs. To be accepted, students must have completed a Bachelor’s degree, preferably in Information Systems, Information Security, Information Technology, or Computer Science. However, applicants who have a Bachelor’s degree in another field may be admitted to the programs if they also have at least two years of IT or cybersecurity industry experience and have completed undergraduate courses in data communication, programming, and servers.

Cybersecurity Advisory Board

- Dan Anderson, Consultant, Spectra
- David Glod, VP of Information Security, Mountain America Credit Union
- Gary Glover, Director of Security Assessments, SecurityMetrics, Inc.

The Graduate Certificate in Cybersecurity at Utah Valley University is a post-baccalaureate program for students who wish to complete advanced studies in the field of cybersecurity. This program is designed to provide students with advanced technical and managerial knowledge of cybersecurity, preparing them for senior technical and leadership roles in the field. Coursework includes a balanced approach, combining critical analysis of cybersecurity theory with hands-on education for essential applied cybersecurity techniques and tools.

The program takes two semesters to complete the 18 credits of graduate level courses. Courses include cybersecurity operations, advanced network defense, cybersecurity management, case studies, secure coding, ethical hacking, and the legal and privacy implications of cybersecurity.

To be successful, students should have a strong background in technology. Students should have completed undergraduate work in a related field or have applicable work experience. For those who do not meet this requirement, select undergraduate courses are available to provide the foundational knowledge needed. Please contact the academic advisor for more information.

Total Program Credits: 18

Matriculation Requirements:
1. Application for admission to the program.
3. 2 years of IT or IT security industry experience (if Bachelor's degree in non-related field).
4. Completion of undergraduate courses in data communication, programming, and servers.

Discipline Core Requirements: 12 Credits

Careers:

Cybersecurity is a critical part of our digitally connected lives. From the public sector to private industry, organizations are seeking cybersecurity professionals to protect their critical data. In addition to cybersecurity specialists, there is a demand for other technology and business leaders to have a solid understanding of the principles and application of cybersecurity.

Cybersecurity, Master of Science 30 Credits

The Master of Science in Cybersecurity is intended for individuals who desire to acquire additional cybersecurity knowledge, skills, and abilities in order to pursue new or advance existing careers in cybersecurity. The program is also designed for individuals who plan to pursue doctorate degrees in cybersecurity or related fields. The program focuses on the managerial and technical perspectives of cybersecurity through extensive use of case-studies and hands-on lab exercises.

Total Program Credits: 30

Matriculation Requirements:

1. Bachelor's degree with a GPA of at least 3.2 on a 4.0 scale from an accredited institution in one of the following fields*: Information Systems, Information Security, Information Technology, Computer Science.
2. Admissions essay.
3. Completed application for admission.
4. Official transcripts from all attended institutions of higher education.
5. Two letters of recommendation

Program Description

Utah Valley University offers a Master of Accountancy (MAcc) program that can be completed in one year going full time. Students are also able to go part-time and complete the degree in two years. The MAcc degree prepares students for professional positions in accounting with potential for advancement throughout their career. It qualifies students for entry-level positions in public accounting, industry, government, and not-for-profit organizations. The MAcc qualifications students to sit for the Uniform CPA Examinations in the State of Utah, a necessary step in becoming a Certified Public Accountant (CPA). It also provides a base to pursue related certifications as Certified Internal Auditor (CIA), Certified Management Accountant (CMA), and Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE). Ultimately, a MAcc can lead to a wide variety of significant leadership positions in accounting and business including CFO and CEO.

The MAcc “prepares professionally competent people” by meeting the minimum education required to become a CPA and “promotes student success” by qualifying students to seek professional level positions in accounting. Educational expectations of accounting professionals have increased and the MAcc degree will make UVU students more competitive for entry level positions and improve upward mobility throughout their career. The MAcc program at UVU meets local and regional needs. It is a professional degree which promotes student success and lifelong learning. Economic development is enhanced by providing needed accounting talent. MAcc graduates are a source of leadership talent for business, government, and not-for-profit entities.

Prerequisites

Applicants are expected to meet the following minimum criteria:

- bachelor’s degree from a regionally accredited institution or the equivalent for international students.
- minimum overall undergraduate GPA of 3.0.
- minimum GPA of 3.0 in upper-division accounting courses.
- completion of the GMAT exam with scores acceptable to the admissions committee.
- foreign students must complete the Test Of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL).

Prerequisite Courses (or equivalent classes) from Undergraduate Studies:

- ACCT 2010 Financial Accounting
- ACCT 2020 Managerial Accounting
- ACCT 3010 Intermediate I
- ACCT 3020 Intermediate II
- ACC 3300 Cost Management
- ACC 3510 Accounting Information Systems
- ACC 3400 Individual Income Tax
- ACC 4110 Auditing

Application Process

Baccalaureate degree holders with both business and non-business majors may apply. Deadlines and current application requirements are posted on the website, www.uvu.edu/macc. Applicants must submit all of the following to the Woodbury School of Business:

1. Completed application online, www.uvu.edu/admissions
2. Remit a nonrefundable $45 fee by check or money order (payable to UVU).
3. Forward all official university transcripts.
4. Respond to the one admission essay questions.
5. Submit a current resume that includes educational background and professional work experience.
6. Provide two letters of recommendation. Recommenders can send letters of recommendation or complete electronic evaluation forms.

Send official GMAT test scores. GMAT registration is available at www.mba.com. Submit TOEFL scores with a minimum of 79 for the Internet-based test (This is only for applicants for whom English is a second language and who have not earned a degree in the U.S.)

1. Student interviews may also be requested at the discretion of the student selection committee.

Reapplication

If an applicant is not admitted, he/she may reapply again at a later time. All current admission requirements at the time of application must be met.

Satisfactory Progress

Continuation in the Master of Accountancy program is determined by: (1) satisfactory progress (C or higher) in all courses (completed courses with a grade lower than a C must be repeated) and (2) faculty committee chair and the graduate admission and retention committee recommendation.

Academic Probation

A student can be recommended for academic probation for the following reason(s): (1) Failure to meet the scholarship requirements of the Graduate Program of an overall GPA of 3.00 (on a 4.00 scale) or higher, with no individual course grade lower than C; (2) Failure to complete prescribed courses; and/or (3) Failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Dismissal from the Program

A student can be dismissed from the Master of Business Administration program for the following reason(s):

1. Academic dishonesty;
2. Continued failure to meet academic standards; and/or
Graduate Studies

3. Continued failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Master of Education

Program Description

The Master of Education (M.Ed.) degree at Utah Valley University is an applied master's degree aimed at building the instructional skill and professional competency of teachers, clinicians and administrative leaders in K-12 and higher education. The goal is to enable participants to become more proficient in selecting optimum, research-based, curriculum design strategies that best apply to specific teaching situations.

There are currently eleven emphases in the Master of Education Degree:

- Applied Behavioral Analysis
- Educational Leadership
- Educational Technology
- Elementary Mathematics
- Elementary STEM
- English as a Second Language (ESL)
- Gifted and Talented Education
- Higher Education Leadership
- Reading
- Secondary Teaching
- Teacher Leadership

The M.Ed. requires 30-33 semester hours of graduate course work and completion of a culminating applied instructional project tailored to the particular interests of program participants. Participants enter the M.Ed. program in cohorts and progress through the degree program in a group. While the culminating applied instructional project is unique to each student, some course work and many class activities are done in collaboration with fellow students.

Graduate Certificate in Secondary Teaching

The Graduate Certificate in Secondary Teaching is designed for individuals who would like to receive a Utah Secondary Teaching License, and have earned a bachelor's degree in one of the teaching major subject areas for secondary education approved by the Utah State Board of Education. This program will include the basic coursework and field experiences required of all teacher candidates for an initial teaching license, ensuring that competencies in both subject knowledge and pedagogy are met. Students completing this certificate may transfer the credits earned in this program toward an emphasis in Secondary Teaching in the Master of Education degree.
Graduate Certificate in Educational Leadership

The Graduate Certificate for Educational Leadership in UVU's School of Education (SOE) is designed to align with the current Ed Leadership emphasis in the M.Ed. The certificate will meet the needs of candidates who have previously completed a master's degree (M.Ed) and now wish to prepare as potential administrative and instructional school leaders for Utah's schools. Curriculum for this option will be based on the standards for administrative/supervisory endorsement from the Utah State Office of Education (USOE), and the Interstate School Leaders Licensure Consortium (ISLLC). The grad certificate program will be formatted to meet the needs of adult learners, with courses offered in the evenings and in blended and online formats, but will not require them to retake core courses previously completed. The administrative/supervisory certificate will prepare leaders for 21st century schools in the areas of curriculum, instruction, and human resource administration. Course objectives will emphasize performance of school and classroom leadership functions, functional knowledge of local, state, and national educational agencies and regulations, demonstrated competencies in administrative skills, and applied understandings of current research around effective teaching, theories of learning, and educational policy. Candidates will be required to complete supervised internship work that is required by Utah code.

Admission & Retention

Application to the Program

Admission to graduate programs or permission of the Dean of the School of Education is required for enrollment in the Master of Education and Graduate Certificate courses.

Applicants should complete an online graduate application by following the application link on the UVU Web site and follow all instructions for graduate application and admission. Applications and application fees must be received by March 31 for consideration for summer semester. Students in the M.Ed. program begin with full-time coursework in the summers and part-time enrollment in the fall and spring semesters.

Required support materials received after the application deadline will delay processing of the application. The School of Education Graduate Screening Committee reviews applications and schedules interviews for applicants meeting minimum admission requirements. The Director of Graduate Studies for the School of Education notifies all applicants in writing of the admission decision. The University cannot guarantee a response on or before a specific date. All admission materials become the property of UVU and will not be returned to the applicant.

Reapplication

If an applicant is not admitted, s/he may reapply. All current admission requirements at the time of application must be met in order to be fully admitted to the program.

Satisfactory Progress

Continuation in the Master of Education program is determined by: (1) satisfactory progress (B- or higher) in all courses and (2) satisfactory completion

Academic Probation

A student can be recommended for academic probation for the following reason(s): (1) Failure to meet the scholarship requirements of the Graduate Program of an overall GPA of 3.00 (on a 4.00 scale) or higher, with no individual course grade lower than B-; (2) Failure to complete prescribed courses; and/or (3) Failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

Dismissal from the Program

A student can be dismissed from the Master of Education program for the following reason(s):

1. Academic dishonesty;
2. Continued failure to meet academic standards; and/or
3. Continued failure to adhere to University student rights and responsibilities standards.

The Dual Language Immersion (DLI) Endorsement program is designed to prepare teachers to be sensitive and responsive to the needs of dual language immersion (DLI) learners and to become advocates for DLI in a variety of educational settings. Coursework is designed to address historical and political foundations of DLI education and methods and materials for engaging DLI students in challenging educational experiences. The UVU endorsement program is intended to provide educators with an opportunity to develop, expand, and integrate their knowledge of content, pedagogy, and cultural perspectives in dual language immersion education. Completed program coursework qualifies students to apply to the Utah State Office of Education for an endorsement to their current Utah Teaching License.

For each credit hour over 25, $288 per credit hour will be assessed for residents and $878 per credit hour for non-residents.

Careers:

While the Master of Education degree program is designed primarily to enhance the skills and understandings of practicing classroom teachers, it also prepares these graduate students for expanded leadership roles at the school, district, or state level in delivering professional development, designing and evaluating curriculum and textbooks, and mentoring novice teachers. A Master of Education degree may also qualify a student as an instructor for teacher preparation courses in a community college or as an adjunct instructor at the undergraduate level in a four-year college or university. Successful completion of this master’s degree also provides a valuable foundation for those students who choose to pursue a doctoral degree. Program options in English as a Second Language, Educational Technology, Elementary Mathematics, and Reading I will also qualify students to apply for an endorsement to their current Utah Teaching Certificate.

Master of Education - Applied Behavioral Analysis Emphasis, M.Ed. 35 Credits

The Master of Education Degree (M.Ed.) at Utah Valley University is an applied master’s program aimed at building the instructional skills and professional competency of teachers. Currently there are seven emphases for participants: Applied Behavioral Analysis; Educational Leadership; Educational Technology; Elementary Mathematics; Elementary STEM, English as a Second Language (ESL), Higher Education Leadership, Reading I, and Teacher Leadership. The M.Ed. program emphasizes coursework that prepares teachers to become instructional leaders, with classes in advanced pedagogy, subject matter content, curriculum design, and assessment. Core coursework in research methods is required of participants in all options, however, students select a topic for a culminating project according to their interest or area of licensure in K-12 education.

Matriculation Requirements:
1. Application for admission.
2. Bachelor degree from an accredited institution.
3. Graduate Records Exam (GRE) with a verbal and quantitative score at or above the 40th percentile.
4. Overall grade point average in undergraduate work of 3.2 or higher or have a grade point average of 3.2 or higher for the last 60 semester hours of college or university credit.
5. Interview with School of Education Graduate Committee.
6. Three professional letters of recommendation.

Preference will be given to individuals who have at least one year of successful teaching experience in grades K-12. A one-year internship will count as the preferred year of successful teaching.
Preference will be given to practicing teachers who have access to an established classroom.

Careers:

While the Master of Education degree program is designed primarily to enhance the skills and understandings of practicing classroom teachers, it also prepares these graduate students for expanded leadership roles at the school, district, or state level in delivering professional development, designing and evaluating curriculum and textbooks, and mentoring novice teachers. A Master of Education degree may also qualify a student as an instructor for teacher preparation courses in a community college or as an adjunct instructor at the undergraduate level in a four-year college or university. Successful completion of this master's degree also provides a valuable foundation for those students who choose to pursue a doctoral degree. Completed coursework in English as a Second Language, Elementary Mathematics, Educational Technology, and the Reading 1 options qualifies students for an endorsement to their existing Utah Teaching Certificate.

Careers:

While the Master of Education degree program is designed primarily to enhance the skills and understandings of practicing classroom teachers, it also prepares these graduate students for expanded leadership roles at the school, district, or state level in delivering professional development, designing and evaluating curriculum and textbooks, and mentoring novice teachers. A Master of Education degree may also qualify a student as an instructor for teacher preparation courses in a community college or as an adjunct instructor at the undergraduate level in a four-year college or university. Successful completion of this master's degree also provides a valuable foundation for those students who choose to pursue a doctoral degree. Completed coursework in English as a Second Language, Elementary Mathematics, Educational Technology, and the Reading 1 options qualifies students for an endorsement to their existing Utah Teaching Certificate.

Master of Education - Elementary Mathematics Emphasis, M.Ed.  30 Credits

The Master of Education Degree (M.Ed.) at Utah Valley University is an applied master’s program aimed at building the instructional skills and professional competency of teachers. Currently there are seven emphases for participants: Applied Behavioral Analysis; Educational Leadership; Educational Technology; Elementary Mathematics; Elementary STEM; English as a Second Language (ESL), Higher Education Leadership, Reading I, and Teacher Leadership. The M.Ed. program emphasizes coursework that prepares teachers to become instructional leaders, with classes in advanced pedagogy, subject matter content, curriculum design, and assessment. Core coursework in research methods is required of participants in all options, however, students select a topic for a culminating project according to their interest or area of licensure in K-12 education.

Matriculation Requirements:

1. Application for admission.
2. Bachelor degree from an accredited institution.
3. Graduate Records Exam (GRE) with a verbal and quantitative score at or above the 40th percentile.
4. Overall grade point average in undergraduate work of 3.2 or higher or have a grade point average of 3.2 or higher for the last 60 semester hours of college or university credit.
5. Interview with School of Education Graduate Committee.
6. Three professional letters of recommendation.

Preference will be given to individuals who have at least one year of successful teaching experience in grades K-12. A one-year internship will count as the preferred year of successful teaching. Preference will be given to practicing teachers who have access to an established classroom.

Careers:
While the Master of Education degree program is designed primarily to enhance the skills and understandings of practicing classroom teachers, it also prepares these graduate students for expanded leadership roles at the school, district, or state level in delivering professional development, designing and evaluating curriculum and textbooks, and mentoring novice teachers. A Master of Education degree may also qualify a student as an instructor for teacher preparation courses in a community college or as an adjunct instructor at the undergraduate level in a four-year college or university. Successful completion of this master's degree also provides a valuable foundation for those students who choose to pursue a doctoral degree. Completed coursework in English as a Second Language, Elementary Mathematics, Educational Technology, and the Reading 1 options qualifies students for an endorsement to their existing Utah Teaching Certificate.

Master of Education - Secondary Teaching Emphasis, M.Ed.

The Master of Education Degree (M.Ed.) at Utah Valley University is an applied master’s program aimed at building the instructional skills and professional competency of teachers. Currently there are seven emphases for participants: Applied Behavioral Analysis; Educational Leadership; Educational Technology; Elementary Mathematics; Elementary STEM, English as a Second Language (ESL), Higher Education Leadership, Reading I, and Teacher Leadership. The M.Ed. program emphasizes coursework that prepares teachers to become instructional leaders, with classes in advanced pedagogy, subject matter content, curriculum design, and assessment. Core coursework in research methods is required of participants in all options, however, students select a topic for a culminating project according to their interest or area of licensure in K-12 education.

Matriculation Requirements:
1. Application for admission.
2. Bachelor degree from an accredited institution.

Reading I, Endorsement

21 Credits

The Reading Endorsement Program (REP) is designed to prepare teachers to be responsive to current scientific-reading research for teaching reading and to become advocates for reading research in the educational setting. Coursework is designed to address historical and political foundations of reading education and methods and materials for engaging students in challenging educational experiences. The UVU endorsement program is intended to provide educators with an opportunity to develop, expand, and integrate their knowledge of cognition, content, pedagogy, and cultural perspectives in their curriculum. Completed program coursework qualifies students to apply to the Utah State Office of Education for an endorsement to their current Utah Teaching License.

Secondary Teaching, Graduate Certificate  29 Credits

The Graduate Certificate in Secondary Teaching is designed for individuals who have earned a bachelor’s degree. They must have completed coursework in one of the teaching major subject areas for secondary education approved by the Utah State Board of Education (USBE) prior to admission into either program. The primary goal of the program will be to ensure that teacher candidates, through support, supervision, and evaluation, can demonstrate and apply the competencies required by the USBE for teacher licensure. Includes the basic coursework and field experiences required of all teacher candidates for an initial teaching license, ensuring that competencies in both subject knowledge and pedagogy are met.

Matriculation Requirements:
Requirements for admission to the Graduate Certificate in Secondary Teaching (GCST) program would include the following:

1. Verification of a bachelor’s degree from an accredited university in a recognized content major (or with equivalent coursework) in a discipline taught in Utah secondary schools and for which UVU can recommend a secondary teaching license. Any coursework required by the Utah State Board of Education (USBE) for a content major* must be completed with a grade of C or higher prior to admission into the GCST program.
2. A cumulative GPA of 3.0 or a GPA of 3.0 for the last 60 credits of university coursework.
3. Passing scores from the Praxis II [subject-area test(s)] as required by the USBE.
4. Successful completion of a background check through USBE.

* Students will have completed a content-specific methods course prior to admission into the program. These courses are not offered in the School of Education, but in the appropriate content areas across the University. The following courses would be examples.

- ART 3500  Secondary Art Education Methods I (1.0)
- ART 3510  Secondary Art Education Methods II (3.0)
- ENGL 4210  Methods in Teaching Literacy I (3.0)
- ENGL 4220  Methods in Teaching Literacy II (3.0)
- ENGL 4230  Methods in Teaching Literacy III Teaching the Conventions of Writing (3.0)
- GEO 4200  Teaching Methods in Science (3.0)
- PHYS 4200  Teaching Methods in Science (3.0)
- CHEM 4200  Teaching Methods in Science (3.0)
- BIOL 4200  Teaching Methods in Science (3.0)
- LANG 4200  Methods of Teaching a Foreign Language (3.0)

Program Description

The Master of Social Work (MSW) is designed to educate and prepare students for a career at an advanced level in the social work profession. The MSW will prepare students to become a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW), qualifying them for a wider range of employment opportunities (mental health, medical social work, child welfare, etc.) working with various populations (children, adolescents, adults, elderly, disabled, etc.). The MSW program has three different specializations: Addictions, Mental Health, and Engaging with Diverse Populations, which will focus on the Latino, Polynesian, and Refugee communities. These areas of focus are projected to be significant areas of growth within the social work field over the next decade and beyond.

This dynamic, two year full-time program offers required courses in the areas of social work practice, human behavior and social environment, social welfare policy and analysis, social work with Latino, Pacific Islanders, and other Communities of Color, social work research methods, addictions, and a capstone course. Upon graduation, students will also completed approximately 1,000 hours of field practicum experience. The program offers elective tracks in addictions, mental health, and engaging with diverse populations.

Admission Requirements

Potential students must apply for admission into the program. To be accepted, students must have completed a Bachelor’s degree, preferably in Psychology, Social Work, or a related area. However, applicants who have a Bachelor’s degree in another field may be admitted to the program if they can demonstrate significant work or volunteer experience in the Human Services field. All applicants are required to complete SW 1010, BESC 3010, and BESC 3020 or equivalent courses outside of UVU.

The Master of Science in Nursing program prepares post-baccalaureate nursing students for advanced practice roles as nurse educators in academic settings and/or clinical nurse educators in healthcare institutions. The program includes core courses essential to master-level nursing programs as well as courses designed to prepare nurses to assume roles as academic nurse educators and/or clinical nurse educators. Program content focuses on theoretical foundations of nursing education and leadership; tests and measurements of learning outcomes; curriculum development, implementation and evaluation; and academic and clinical teaching. Program courses provide skills and strategies for facilitation of learning in a variety of settings.

Program Description

The Master of Public Service (MPS) degree at UVU develops the next generation of public service administrators. The MPS offers students an applied and engaging public sector education with broad based knowledge, skills, and abilities in public service administration. The interdisciplinary curriculum focuses on managing, leading, and administering vital public services and public safety functions with an emphasis on ethical considerations, communications, strategic planning, public policy issues, and research methods.

The MPS requires 36 semester hours of graduate course work; currently offered all online.

Admission Requirements

Bachelor degree holders with at least a 3.0 GPA cumulative or last 60 credit hours may apply. Potential students must apply for admission by completing the online MPS Graduate School Application. To be accepted, students must complete the following:

- Submit all official transcripts.
- Provide two letters of recommendation.
- Submit resume.
- Submit answer to essay questions.

Deadlines and current application requirements are posted on the MPS website: www.uvu.edu/mps.

Accreditation

The Master of Science in Nursing program is accredited by the Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing (ACEN), 3343 Peachtree Road NE, Suite 850, Atlanta, GA, 30326.

Program Description

The Master of Science in Nursing program prepares post-baccalaureate nursing students for advanced practice roles as nurse educators in academic settings and/or as clinical nurse educators in healthcare institutions. The program includes core courses essential to master-level nursing programs as well as courses designed to prepare nurses to assume roles as academic nurse educators and/or as clinical nurse educators. Program content focuses on: theoretical foundations of nursing education and leadership; tests and measurements of learning outcomes; curriculum development, implementation and evaluation; and academic and clinical teaching. Program courses provide skills and strategies for facilitation of learning in a variety of settings.

Admission Requirements

Acceptance into the MSN program will be based on information from the following:

- Baccalaureate degree in nursing from a program accredited by a recognized nursing accreditation agency.
- Current licensure as an RN in Utah or eligible for RN licensure in Utah.
- Completion of an undergraduate course in statistics to include descriptive and inferential statistics.
- Application for admission to the MSN program.
- Overall undergraduate GPA of 3.2 or higher, or GPA of 3.2 or higher in last 60 semester hours of undergraduate coursework.
- Three professional letters of recommendation

Program Description

The Master of Arts in Marriage and Family Therapy (MFT) trains students to be professionally competent in the field of marriage and family therapy. Through the application of systemic theories, skills, and ethics, students are prepared to serve a diverse client population. Students who successfully complete the program, including academic course work and supervised clinical practica, will be eligible for employment and licensure as an Associate Marriage and Family Therapist in the state of Utah.

Across a broad range of clinical employment settings, marriage and family therapists seek to improve the quality of life for individuals, couples, and families. The UVU Marriage and Family Therapy program emphasizes professional competence and stewardship within the local community. With an emphasis on systemic theories, clinical skills and professional ethics, the MFT program prepares graduates for licensure and employment in marriage and family therapy. The training of marriage and family therapy students champions inclusion and diversity through self-awareness and respect toward all people.

Admission Requirements

Potential students must apply for admission into the program. To be accepted, students must have completed a Bachelor’s degree, preferably in Family Studies, Psychology, Social Work, or a related area. However, applicants who have a Bachelor’s degree in another field may be admitted to the program if they can demonstrate significant work or volunteer experience in the Human Services field.

Physician Assistant Studies, M.P.A.S. 95 Credits

The Utah Valley University Master of Physician Assistant Studies is a two-year graduate level degree that prepares students to successfully pass the Physician Assistant National Certification Examination (PANCE). Using evidence-based medicine, engaged learning, and early patient-provider experiences, the program will reinforce team practice and patient advocacy/education that will result in excellent patient outcomes.

Through a comprehensive didactic and clinical curriculum, the program will train exceptional PAs that will not only be prepared to provide quality primary healthcare, but will be compassionate, culturally-sensitive, critical thinkers committed to their patients in an ever-changing and diverse population within their respective communities.

Matriculation Requirements:
- A bachelor's degree from an accredited U.S. institution is the basic requirement for admission into the program (with official transcripts from all institutions attended). The degree can be in any discipline, provided that the student meets the expected GPA and prerequisite coursework.
Graduate Studies

The minimum cumulative undergraduate GPA is a 3.0 on a 4.0 scale. The applicant must not have earned below a 2.0 on any pre-requisite coursework, although extenuating circumstance may be considered.

Pre-requisite Coursework:
- Microbiology with lab (4 credits)
- General Biology
- Chemistry (8 credits), lab may be included
- Human Anatomy with lab (4 credits)
- Human Physiology (4 credits)
- Medical Terminology

Note: pre-requisite coursework does not include AP courses and should not be older than seven years prior to application to the PA program. The science-based pre-requisites must be completed prior to the application deadline (November 1st).

CASPer Test

The CASPer Test is an examination which identifies characteristics of successful students. The exam can be taken at https://takecaspter.com. Scores are reported upon completion of the exam.

Letters of Recommendation

A minimum of three letters of recommendation are required for the application process. Letters should not be from friends or relatives, but should come from a mix of current professors, current/prior employers, and one letter should be from a PA or a physician. Letters should be submitted directly through the CASPA system prior to the November 1st deadline (no exceptions).

UVU Graduate School Application

The UVU Graduate School Application is required for admission into the PA program. The application will be found on the UVU PA website and is due prior to the November 1st deadline.

Personal Interview

All candidates will be screened and those deemed to meet or exceed basic application requirements will be invited for an interview. This interview does not guarantee acceptance into the program as students will compete with all other applicants for matriculation into a cohort. Applicants must bring a photo ID to the interview.

Health Care Experience

A minimum of 1,200 hours of health care experience, which is at least six months full-time equivalent. Although this is a minimum for application, the national average for competitive applicants is between 4,000-5,000 patient contact hours. Hours may be projected to the deadline for early applicants, and applicants are encouraged to apply early.

All forms of health care experience* are considered toward the minimum requirement, with direct hands-on patient care experience being most preferred.

Health care hours are subject to verification; the program may contact supervisors to confirm reported hours. Paid experience is weighted more heavily than volunteer.

* Does not include administrative work in healthcare settings.

Other Determining Factors

- Prior work experience (health care preferred, but not required, may include medical scribe, radiology technician, emergency medical technician, paramedic, respiratory therapist, medical assistant, registered nurse, etc.)
- Shadowing opportunities (two are recommended)
- Demonstration of community service
- Level of maturity
- Honors, awards and other recognition
- Discipline for academic performance
- Conviction of misdemeanor or felony

Program Requirements
The Master of Computer Science (MCS) degree at Utah Valley University is an applied graduate program focused on preparing students to enter the local, national, and global workforce as leaders and innovators rather than focusing on preparing students to conduct basic research. An MCS degree is considered a professional degree as graduate students complete a graduate project rather than a theoretical or research-based thesis often associated with a Master of Science in Computer Science (MSCS) degree.

The focus of the degree does not mean you cannot explore exciting, cutting-edge new technologies; it just means we will focus your efforts on developing a working project that applies your new knowledge rather than focusing your efforts on basic research and writing papers on the topic. One should not assume that the degree’s focus on completing a project means that the MCS does not value writing or presenting presentations. To be a workforce leader and innovator, you must be able to express highly technical and complex topics concisely and clearly. Developing your technical communication skills will always be a part of the MCS.

The MCS requires students to complete 30 hours of course work beyond their undergraduate degree to gain additional breadth and depth. Six hours of this course work will be associated with your graduate project where you will design and develop a large complex project from inception to completion. Students without an undergraduate degree in computer science who have a passion for the field are encouraged to apply. In such cases a student can be conditionally admitted while they complete an individualized leveling plan designed to bring their skills up to the required level to enter the MCS.

NOTE: Graduate policy precludes conditionally admitted students from taking any 6000 level courses. The UVU Computer Science Department cannot waive or alter this graduate policy.

Admission Requirements
The most desirable background for an MCS student is someone with an undergraduate degree in a computer-related field (Computer Science, Computer Engineering, Software Engineering, or a closely related field). The UVU Computer Science Department does not require nor does it use standardized test scores to evaluate the readiness of a candidate to begin the MCS. You will need an overall grade point average of 3.0 or higher on a 4.0 scale. Additionally, you will need to have completed the following UVU or equivalent classes with a C+ or better:

- CS 2300 Discrete Structures I
- CS 2420 Introduction to Algorithms and Data Structures
- CS 2810 Computer Organization and Architecture
- CS 3060 Operating Systems Theory
- MATH 1210 Calculus I

Master of Computer Science, M.C.S.
30 Credits

The Master of Computer Science (MCS) at Utah Valley University is an applied graduate program resulting in a professional degree. Students graduating with this degree will have a broad grounding in computer science as a discipline and be well equipped to take on leadership roles in a wide range of computing technology-related industries. Student education will be focused on developing software systems using current technologies while allowing them the freedom to explore and exploit new technologies to solve real-world problems. Students will be required to develop a broad base of competency by passing required courses in large scale implementation, applied mathematics computing, information management, and software engineering. Electives will allow a student to continue to add breadth to their education or allow them to focus on specific areas of computer science they find interesting or feel will best advance their professional objectives.

Total Program Credits: 30

Matriculation Requirements:

1. Application for admission to the MCS will include letters of recommendation and a statement of purpose.

2. Applicants must have an overall grade point average in their undergraduate work of 3.0 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

3. For international students whose native language is not English, a TOEFL score of 80 iBT (550 pBT) or higher, or an IELTS band score of 6.5 or higher within the past two years, is required.

4. Applicants with a bachelor’s degree in a computer-related field (Computer Science, Computer Engineering, Software Engineering, or a closely related field) who have completed the following courses (or equivalent courses from other institutions) with a C+ or better will be deemed to have the fundamental computer science background to enter the program:
   - CS 2300 Discrete Structures I
   - CS 2420 Introduction to Algorithms and Data Structures
   - CS 2810 Computer Organization and Architecture
   - CS 3060 Operating Systems Theory
   - MATH 1210 Calculus I

5. Applicants found lacking in fundamental computer science background can be conditionally admitted to the MCS. Conditionally admitted students will have an individualized MCS Leveling Plan (MCS LP) developed for them by the Computer Science Graduate Committee. Once the MCS LP has been met by the applicant, the applicant will be deemed to have the fundamental computer science background to enter the program. Graduate policy precludes conditionally admitted students from taking 6000 level courses.

6. Applicants found lacking in fundamental computer science background can be conditionally admitted to the MCS. Conditionally admitted students will have an individualized MCS Leveling Plan (MCS LP) developed for them by the Computer Science Graduate Committee. Once the MCS LP has been met by the applicant, the applicant will be deemed to have the fundamental computer science background to enter the program. Graduate policy precludes conditionally admitted students from taking 6000 level courses.

7. All applicants will be subject to the approval of the Computer Science Graduate Committee.

Graduation Requirements:

1. Completion of all courses with a grade of B- or better.
2. Graduate project proposal presented to and accepted by the student's Advisory Committee.
3. Completion and defense of graduate project (CS 6600 and CS 6610); defense must be accepted by the student's Advisory Committee.
4. Completion of all required courses and elective courses for a total of 30 credit hours with an average GPA of 3.0 or higher.

Graduation Plan:

This graduation plan is a sample plan and is intended to be a guide. Your specific plan may differ based on your Math and English placement and/or transfer credits applied. You are encouraged to meet with an advisor and set up an individualized graduation plan in Wolverine Track.

Milestone courses (pre-requisites for a course in one of the subsequent semesters) are marked in red and italicized.
