1. Describe how this course achieves the following outcomes:
   - Gaining an informed and nuanced understanding of global and multicultural issues involving diversity and difference.
   - Replacing stereotypical cultural conceptions with recognition of the complexity and variety of different groups.
   - Gaining appreciation for the contribution of different groups to educational, social, and cultural institutions and for the value of difference within these contexts.
   - Gaining confidence in interrelating respectfully with individuals representing cultures, experiences, and perspectives other than one’s own.
   - Becoming knowledgeable, responsible, reflective, and respectful citizens within an increasingly multicultural society and global community.

2. Explain how global intercultural issues are central to this course and not just one element among several to be explored:

3. List texts and teaching materials:

4. A copy of the approved course curriculum information including timeline and objectives must be attached for all existing courses. All new courses will need a copy of the curriculum paperwork that has been submitted through the Curriculum Committee.

5. Signatures:
