Objectives

- Do university students have a greater sense of security on a campus that permits the legal licensed carrying of concealed firearms or on a campus that forbids legal licensed concealed firearms on school properties?
- How safe do Utah Valley University students perceive their campus to be?

Hypothesis

Utah Valley University

- Students will feel safer knowing there are legal concealed weapons on campus
- Most students will not know what the concealed carry policy is
- Republicans will feel safer with firearms more than any other political party
- Students are satisfied with the safety of their campus

Brigham Young University

- Students who live on campus feel safer
- Students will feel less safe knowing there are not legal concealed weapons on campus
- Students will feel BYU is a safe campus

Students who attend Utah Valley University feel safer on campus than students attending Brigham Young University.

Project Modification

- This project was intended to be a dual school study with one campus allowing concealed carry firearms and one campus not allowing concealed carry firearms. Utah Valley University and Brigham Young University are ideal campuses because they are in the same area and have similar enrollments. Unfortunately, gaining access to Brigham Young's IRB proved difficult and we only managed approval from Utah Valley.

Research Method

- Email survey from Qualtrics
- Sent to 350 randomly selected Utah Valley University students
- 76 Questions (include yes/no, open ended, close ended, etc.)

Response Rates

Our survey was sent to 350 random Utah Valley University.

Aware of Firearms Policy

Summary

- Most respondents were traditional students of the LDS faith and associated with the Republican Party.
- The majority of students felt safe while on campus knowing that it was a concealed carry campus.
- Though students felt safe, most did not know the policy about concealed weapons.

Changes and Improvements

- Making students more aware of firearms policies
- Using data to provide officers with an understand of student perception
- Cross institutional study
