CONTEXT & MISSION

The Center for the Study of Ethics (CSE) is pleased to report on its activities from 2020 through 2024. We remain committed to the strong tradition of ethics education at UVU and to serving our campus through quality programming for students and faculty.

The center was established in 1992 and has been an active participant in the academic culture of UVU and in the broader development of ethics education.

CSE is a non-partisan, non-advocacy organization committed to the inclusion of diverse perspectives and practices. Its programs are designed to leverage the strengths of our campus and serve the needs of our region.

We welcome input and conversation in our ongoing effort to 1) prepare students for professional and civic life and 2) provide a forum for dialogue on the ethical dimensions of the human experience.

Brian D. Birch
Director

"We prepare students for professional and civic life and provide a forum for dialogue on the ethical dimensions of the human experience."

Key Developments

Despite the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, the center successfully adapted to online programming and continued to provide content to students, faculty, and the general public. This prompted the center to shift its focus toward permanent online access and storage. With the easing of pandemic restrictions, we now offer fully integrated events with both in-person and live-stream options. This provides broad access and longevity through recordings that can be viewed anytime on our YouTube channel.

AREAS OF EMPHASIS

The Center for the Study of Ethics orients its programming around existing strengths on our campus. This includes a focus on four Areas of Emphasis: Ethics Across the Curriculum, Ethics in Public Life, Environmental Sustainability, and Religious Diversity. Each area includes engagement with UVU faculty and community partners who assist in developing opportunities for students. Though our primary focus remains supporting students and faculty across campus, our areas of emphasis help us prioritize resources and advance these important areas of inquiry.

“Our primary focus lies in supporting students and faculty from a variety of disciplines and perspectives.”

ETHICS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

CSE supports annual events to engage students and faculty from across campus. We work closely with our Faculty Advisory Board to extend our reach to all areas of campus. Each of our seven colleges and schools is represented on the board along with the Honors Program and other centers and institutes. Below is a brief description of our recurring ethics across the curriculum programs.

Ethics Awareness Week

Held annually during the last week of September, Ethics Awareness Week orients around a common theme designed to include all UVU students. The week contains a keynote address, panel discussions, film screenings, workshops, and the presentation of our annual Excellence in Ethics Award.

Ethics Center Student Fellow

The CSE supports student fellows to provide consultation, input, and leadership among students in ethics education projects. Fellows assist in the development of student-led projects, event preparation and publicity, undergraduate research, and the UVU Ethics Bowl Program.

Faculty Summer Seminar

Each June, faculty from across campus participate in a multi-day seminar designed to explore an interdisciplinary topic with a renowned visiting scholar. Participants may apply for funding to connect seminar content with one or more of their courses.

Faculty Fellows

The CSE supports three faculty fellows to provide leadership and support for our programs. At present, we have fellows to support student engagement, environmental ethics, and ethics across the curriculum.

President Astrid Tuminez presents the 2020 Kirk Englehardt Business Ethics Award to Scott Smith, Co-Founder of Qualtrics.

Kirk Englehardt Business Ethics Award

With support from the Englehardt Family Foundation, we are honored to present the annual Kirk Englehardt Business Ethics Award to individuals who “display exemplary ethics in their professional and personal lives.” These individuals demonstrate a sustained commitment to integrity and humanity in business and other related pursuits.

Student Ethics Symposium

The Student Ethics Symposium is convened each spring to showcase undergraduate research in ethics-related scholarship. Papers are selected on a competitive basis from students across campus and they present their work to each other in an atmosphere designed to promote dialogue and critical feedback.

ETHICS IN PUBLIC LIFE

The CSE is committed to the enhancement of our democratic culture and civic life. From 2017-22, we organized The Appomattox Project, an effort designed to focus on the ethical dimensions of civil discourse, public policy, and the sustainability of public institutions. The project aimed to engage critical issues in our public life and to explore how ethical principles and practices shape civil society. The project closed after hosting 70+ events, and we continue to work in this area under the Ethics in Public Life designation.

ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY

The Center for the Study of Ethics has a longstanding tradition of supporting environmental ethics and related issues. For the past twenty-five years, we have hosted an annual Environmental Ethics Symposium to explore the complex relations between human beings and the natural world. We also partner with programs across campus in support of Sustainability Week, the UVU Environmental Studies Program, and the David R. Keller Prize in Sustainability.

David R. Keller Prize in Sustainability

In memory of our colleague, the center supports the David R. Keller Prize in Sustainability given to organizations in our region to support of exceptional innovation and leadership on sustainability issues.

Environmental Ethics for U/VU

This symposium took the form of podcasts for students and the public. Topics ranged from environmental justice to outdoor recreation.

2021

Women, Gender, and the Environment

This symposium focused on women working in environmental activism, policy, and research. Topics included youth activism, water science, and indigenous rights.

This symposium explored the ethical dimensions of ecological restoration and human obligations to sustain and improve ecosystems.

2023

Environmentalisms: Perspectives on Nature

This event showcased how the natural environment presents itself differently to diverse individuals and cultures.

RELIGIOUS DIVERSITY

For the past thirty years, UVU has supported the academic exploration of religious diversity and intercultural dialogue. Our location and mission provide a unique opportunity to engage religious communities and provide a forum for scholarship and community engagement. Our work is closely connected to the campus-wide Interreligious Engagement Initiative designed to support academic research, student activities, and community outreach.

UVU Interfaith Student Council at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York City where they met with Rabbi Burton Visotzky and other scholars working on interreligious studies.

Annual Symposium on Religion, Culture & Diversity

The Annual Symposium on Religion, Culture & Diversity is designed to address the intersections of religious studies, ethics, and civic engagement. These events aim to cultivate deeper understanding of the varieties of religious devotion and the impact of diversity in community, national, and global contexts. Topics include Christian Nationalism, Interreligious Dialogue, and the role of race in religious identity.

Interreligious Engagement Initiative

The CSE works in close partnership with the Religious Studies Program and the Dean of Students to support the Interreligious Engagement Initiative. This includes a variety of activities in connection with the UVU Interfaith Student Council, the Reflection Center, and a variety of community partners.

“[UVU’s Interreligious Engagement Initiative] is jewel in the crown around the country. So I come here in a spirit of humility and gratitude for you guys, for what you have pulled off and what you have shown is possible.” - Eboo Patel
