WHAT TYPE OF HOUSING CAN YOU LIVE IN?

Near-Campus Apartment Complexes

Since UVU doesn't have on-campus housing many students turn to off-Campus Apartment Complexes. These complexes often cater specifically to students, offering amenities like study rooms, fitness centers, and social events. The UVU Housing Program partners with off-campus complexes to host events at least twice a month per complex that are free to all. Living in these complexes can provide a sense of freedom while still maintaining a connection to campus life and fellow students. Look for our logo on Find My Place listings for our partner complexes, or visit our website.

Off-Campus Houses, Apartments, or Basement Apartments

Renting a house or apartment off-campus with friends is another popular choice, especially for juniors & seniors. This option offers the most independence and can often be more cost-effective when shared among multiple students. However, this option also comes with increased responsibilities, such as paying utilities, managing landlord relationships, and potentially longer commutes to campus.

Factors Influencing Housing Decisions:

When choosing housing, students should consider several factors:

- Budget: Often plays a primary role in decision-making. Students need to factor in not just rent, but also utilities, food, and transportation costs.
- Location: Proximity to campus, public transportation, and amenities like grocery stores and laundromats is crucial.
- Personal Preferences: Some students thrive in social environments, while others prefer quieter, more private spaces.
- Academic Goals: Living situations can impact study habits and academic performance.
- Safety: The security of the housing and surrounding neighborhood should be a top priority.
- Length of Commitment: Some options may require year-long leases, while others offer more flexibility.
- Future Plans: Students should consider how their housing needs might change as they progress through college.

The ideal housing situation varies greatly from student to student. While some may flourish in the bustling environment of a near-campus apartment complex, others might prefer the independence of a shared house or the affordability of a basement apartment. The key is for students to honestly assess their needs, preferences, and financial situation to find a living arrangement that supports their academic goals and enhances their college experience.

HOW TO FIND A ROOMMATE

MOVE IN WITH FRIENDS

Already have a friend or two you'd like to live with? Great! When you apply for an apartment, make sure you list each others' names on your applications.

ROOMMATE MATCHING

Don't have someone in mind? No problem. Most student housing complexes offer a roommate matching system to pair you with roommates who are similar to you. Just fill out the get to know you questions on your application so they can help you find a good match.

BE A FRIEND

It is true that we can't always choose who we live with, but with an open mind, and good communication, you can have a great semester. Try your best to be a friend to those you live with and check out our roommate tips for how you can be a good roommate.

BUDGET FOR HOUSING

KNOW YOUR BUDGET AND NEEDS

Before you begin your housing search, ensure you have a good idea of your budget and the potential needs.

Things to consider:

- Transportation: Will you have a car, use public transportation, bike, or walk?
- Roommate situation: Do you want roommates, or to live on your own?
- Amenities: Do you want a dishwasher, in-unit laundry, pool, or gym?
- Community: Do you want to live in a complex where other students may live?

KNOW YOUR INCOME

What are your plans when it comes to paying for housing? This is important to know before signing a lease. Most complexes also require you to pay a deposit, for parking, and utilities.

- Family: Will your family be assisting you in your housing?
- Work: Do you plan to work and attend school?
- Scholarships: Have you applied for scholarships?

Move into your apartment with confidence! Whether you are moving out for the first time or changing apartment complexes UVU offers a vibrant and welcoming atmosphere designed to ease your move. As part of your moving experience, the UVU Housing team is dedicated to making you feel at home right from the start.

The student Community Leaders play a pivotal role in this process, welcoming new residents with open arms. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Getting involved as a student leader is one of the most powerful ways to shape your college experience. Not only does it support your professional growth, but it also gives you the opportunity to build lifelong friendships, find community, and gain a deeper sense of belonging on campus. With so many opportunities to get involved at UVU, it can be hard to know which path is right for you. How do you highlight your strengths in a way that stands out? What are programs looking for? And how can you confidently showcase the skills that make you a strong applicant?

Since most student leadership programs at UVU understand that applicants may not have extensive leadership experience, they focus on identifying students who are passionate about learning and eager to grow. Programs look for individuals who take initiative, demonstrate a positive attitude, and aren't afraid to help others feel welcome and included.

After speaking with several student leadership programs across UVU, one message stood out: the best way to shine during the application process is to be authentically yourself. Programs emphasized the importance of providing clear examples of the skills you mention and carefully reading all application instructions before submitting. One of the most valuable pieces of advice is to fully understand the role you're applying for and make sure it's something you're genuinely excited about, and confident you can commit to.

Getting involved is more than just adding something to your resume, it's a chance to grow, connect, and shape your experience at UVU. As you explore different opportunities, take time to reflect on what excites you and what kind of leader you want to become. Look through UVU's involvement page to discover programs, clubs, and leadership roles where you can find the place for you. Talk to current student leaders, ask questions, and learn more about the roles that spark your interest. No matter where you start, there is a place for you to contribute, make an impact, and build a community where you feel you belong.

FINDING HOUSING AS AN INTERNATIONAL OR UNDOCUMENTED STUDENT

Different housing complexes require different paperwork depending on your citizenship and the documentation you have. Always ask the apartment manager early so you have time to get the necessary paperwork together.

If you DO NOT have a Social Security # you may need:

- Your I-20 (certificate of eligibility for Nonimmigrant Student Status)
- F-1 and M-1 Visa
- Passport

If you DO have a Social Security # you may need:

- To be prepared to qualify for an apartment with your own credit or have a *guarantor/co-signer

Other Options

- Provide a I-9 (work visa)
- If you are here on scholarship provide the manager with that information.

* Guarantor: Typically someone with a strong financial background and excellent credit history who is willing to take on the responsibility of your lease. Some of the common choices for a guarantor include parents, family members, close friends, or even an employer.

AVOIDING SCAMS

Unfortunately, rental listing scams on housing search websites are common in the US. However, learning how to spot these scams can protect you from becoming the victim of a scammer. Using the tips below, you can learn how to tell if you can trust a housing ad!

TIPS FOR AVOIDING SCAMS:

NEVER send money for an apartment, house, or room rental without viewing the property first. Many scammers know that international or out of state students are looking for housing before they arrive in Utah; however, no legitimate landlord will ask you for your financial information (like your bank account number) or ask you to wire money (e.g., through Western Union or online through Paypal or Venmo) before you view the apartment. You should only pay a deposit and/or first month's rent after you have viewed the apartment and signed the lease.

If you go in person to view an apartment and the landlord says they have “forgotten the keys” or claims you cannot go inside before paying an application or ‘viewing’ fee, this is a SCAM. You should never have to pay in advance to view an apartment, room, or house for rent.

ALWAYS meet the landlord in person. You should always avoid situations that require you to provide personal or financial information or sign a lease electronically (via email, a website, etc.) before meeting the landlord in person. If the landlord tells you they are “out of the country” and can't meet with you in person to show you the rental property, this is most likely a scam.

AVOID ads with no pictures or blurry pictures. Sometimes scammers will post vague ads with low prices that provide few details and/or do not include pictures. These scam ads are designed to encourage people to make contact with the scammer via email - then, they will start asking for money or financial information. Avoid ads that have an “MLS” watermark. Sometimes scammers will illegally take photos from ads for houses that have been listed as “for sale” by a real estate agency and use them in their scam rental ad. These photos may have a watermark that says “MLS” (or, the “Multiple Listing Service”).

If it sounds “too good to be true”, it probably is!

Make sure you research common prices for housing in the neighborhood you are searching in. A large house with amazing features (swimming pool, gym, etc.) that is renting for a much lower price than similar houses in the area is probably a scam!
