

Thinking About A Political Science Degree?

Learn about career opportunities and the suggested educational strategies to achieve your goal

One of the most common questions that prospective students have is “what can I do with a degree in political science?” Most individuals know that they can go to law school or work in politics, but they are not sure what other careers are available. This document will tell you what areas of employment are available to those with a political science degree, the suggested concentration to take, and your educational strategies. Studying politics develops your leadership skills, refines your oral and written communication skills, teaches you how to research issues and solve problems, improves your interpersonal skills, and produces a greater understanding of the world in which you live.

AREAS OF EMPLOYMENT	EMPLOYERS	CONCENTRATION	EDUCATIONAL STRATEGIES
Government & Advocacy Jobs <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Public Policy Research Regional Planning City or Town Management Intelligence Law Enforcement Legislative, Executive or Judicial Services Program Administration Tribal Governance Social Work 	Federal, State and Local Government Opinion Research NGO's	American Government Indian Affairs Administration Peace & Justice Studies Public Administration & Policy	Acquire foreign language competency and travel experience for international positions. Serve in model United Nations. Become involved in student government. Participate in cross-cultural groups and organizations. Write for campus publications focused on national and international affairs. Develop skills in computers, statistics, and data analysis. Complete an internship in government or related area. Supplement curriculum with business courses. Earn a graduate degree in political science or public administration for advancement. Volunteer with the staff of a government official. Participate in local or national campaigns.

AREAS OF EMPLOYMENT	EMPLOYERS	CONCENTRATION	EDUCATIONAL STRATEGIES
Law	Law Firms Corporations Federal, State, and Local Government Private Practice Special Interest Groups Universities	American Government Indian Affairs Administration Public Administration & Policy Public Law & Political Philosophy	Plan to attend law school and earn a law degree Develop excellent research, writing, analysis, and communication skills. Obtain specialized certification for paralegal positions.
Politics Elected or Appointed Leadership Campaign Management, & Staff Interest Advocacy/Lobbyist	Legislative, Executive, or Judicial Officials National, State, or Local Government Political Action Committees Special Interest Groups Political Parties Campaigns (national, state, or local)	American Government Global Politics Indian Affairs Administration Peace & Justice Studies Public Administration & Policy Public Law & Political Philosophy	Become involved in campus political organizations, student government, campus publications, or community service projects. Be prepared to begin a political career as a volunteer before moving to full-time or paid positions Seek leadership roles on the regional or national level. Obtain leadership roles in campus organizations. Gain experience through internships in government. Take courses in statistics, computer science, environmental protection, or public policy. Volunteer for national or local campaigns. Develop a network of personal contacts.
Nonprofit Administration Management Public Relations Fund Raising Humanitarian Relief Consulting	Nonprofit Organizations Foundations Professional Associations Special Interest Groups	American Government Public Administration & Policy Peace & Justice Studies	Gain experience through volunteering or completing an internship. Supplement curriculum with courses in business, psychology, sociology, or social work. Demonstrate knowledge and experience in a specialty area (e.g., public health, environment, urban issues). Develop strong written and oral communication skills.

AREAS OF EMPLOYMENT

EMPLOYERS

CONCENTRATION

EDUCATIONAL STRATEGIES

Business

Sales
Human Resources
Management
Advertising
Public Relations

Product & Service
Organizations
Retail Stores
Hotels
Restaurants
Manufacturers
Financial Companies
Insurance Companies
Print And Electronic Media
Other Business Corporations

American Government
Global Politics
Indian Affairs Administration
Peace & Justice Studies
Public Administration & Policy
Public Law & Political Philosophy

Develop strong analytical, verbal, writing, and computer skills.
Acquire a business minor or add business as a double major.
Gain experience in an area of interest through internships or other employment.
Obtain leadership roles in campus organizations.
Demonstrate excellent interpersonal skills.

Journalism

Editing
Reporting
Circulation
Sales

Newspapers (National,
Local, Or Trade)
Wire Services
Magazines
Internet Sites
Large Corporations
Political Parties
Political Action Committees

American Government
Global Politics
Peace & Justice Studies
Public Administration & Policy
Public Law & Political Philosophy

Obtain summer or part-time work experience with a newspaper or magazine.
Complete an internship in journalism.
Choose writing intensive coursework.
Become proficient in desktop publishing and photography.
Develop excellent verbal and written communication skills.
Join the college newspaper, yearbook, or other publication staff.
Become a student member of professional associations.
Create a portfolio of published writing samples.
Obtain experience in and knowledge of a specialty area of interest.

AREAS OF EMPLOYMENT	EMPLOYERS	CONCENTRATION	EDUCATIONAL STRATEGIES
Broadcasting News Programming Production	Television Stations (network, cable, or public) Radio Stations (regional or national) Independent Syndications	American Government Global Politics Peace & Justice Studies Public Administration & Policy Public Law & Political Philosophy	Experience in government or political affairs are usually required for specialized reporting positions. Become involved in drama (i.e., direct, act, or work with technical crew). Volunteer with public or campus media. Develop strong reporting, writing, and debating skills. Cultivate an attractive and appealing appearance. Volunteer to announce local or campus sporting events. Complete an internship in radio or televisions.
Education Teaching	Public Schools Private Schools Colleges & Universities	American Government Global Politics Indian Affairs Administration Public Administration & Policy Public Law & Political Philosophy Peace & Justice Studies	Obtain appropriate state teacher certification for public school opportunities. Earn a Ph.D. for college teaching or research positions. Gain certification in more than one subject for greater marketability. Volunteer with community or church youth programs to gain experience working with children and adolescents. Become involved in student organizations, debate, publications, government, and athletics.
Mediation	Non-Governmental Organizations Local Governments United Nations & other International & Regional Associations	Peace & Justice Studies	Take mediation courses Seek interships that involve mediation