

Library Instruction Mission Statement

Updated: June 3, 2016

The Utah Valley University Library Instruction Program promotes the information literacy of students, faculty, and staff. Our mission parallels the university's mission to prepare professionally competent people and lifelong learners.

As a result of library instruction, graduates of UVU will be able to integrate information literacy skills into their career and transfer these skills into a lifetime of learning and personal growth. Our program goals include:

- Teaching students the concepts underlying how and why information is created, organized, and accessed, including:
  - Creating research questions;
  - Developing appropriate search strategies;
  - Developing search queries;
  - Evaluating what is found for relevance and quality.
- Supporting faculty by:
  - Providing course-integrated Library instruction to programs, colleges, and departments;
  - Offering classes that increase information literacy and technical competencies;
  - Develop instructional resources in information research and management that satisfy the needs of learners with varying skills and learning styles;
  - Continuously improve and meet the changing expectations of the faculty, students, staff, and the university community.
