Supported by thousands of generous philanthropists, guided by energetic university presidents, and nurtured through the decades by prudent volunteer leadership, the Utah Valley University Foundation serves as an increasingly vital resource for UVU. Utah’s need for a highly educated citizenry and workforce has never been so urgent and the pressures on state funding for higher education never greater.

The Foundation strives to fulfill this important role by focusing on inspiring and celebrating philanthropy to UVU, acquiring and managing gifts and other resources with integrity, and ensuring that gifts and investments all contribute to the success of our students. Ultimately, our mission is to serve students.
Dear Friends,

It is with great pleasure that we present the 2012 Honor Roll of Donors in this issue of Utah Valley University’s Foundation Annual Stewardship Report. As we looked over this list of donors and the amazing accomplishments of the past year, we pause to share our heartfelt gratitude to all who have contributed to UVU.

As you read through the report I trust you will note UVU’s continued momentum. The University is definitely an institution on the move. It is rising to meet the needs of the state and the local community. Your help has played a significant role in these efforts.

Some specific stories have been featured to provide a snapshot of the important role philanthropic support plays for the University. Unfortunately, we could not cover all examples of such generosity. Regardless, we hope you know how valuable your support is to our role in educating the next generation of leaders for our communities.

Last year I wrote of the increased pressures of growth on the University. Growth has placed an immense pressure on the University’s ability to provide appropriate teaching and learning spaces on campus. UVU continues to make efficient use of its space to accommodate its growth. However, these efficiencies alone are not enough. UVU recently received funding for a large classroom building which is necessary for our faculty to deliver a high quality education to UVU students.

New facilities on campus, endowments to recruit and retain great faculty, and special programs to enhance students’ education and career preparation are among the president’s top priorities and initiatives. The most immediate needs continue to be the expansion of the University’s Wee Care Child Care Center. You have probably read about the exciting lead gift and of the recent ground breaking for this project. However, there are still opportunities to help support this much-needed effort.

In closing, I want to thank each of you for the important role you play in UVU’s successes. I also acknowledge the outstanding leadership of President Holland. I am convinced that the combination of your generous support and his outstanding leadership will take UVU and its students to new, never-imagined heights.

Sincerely,

School of the ARTS

“The Sorenson Legacy Foundation recognized the potential and promise of UVU,” said Newell Dayley, dean of the School of the Arts. Recently, the foundation gave a significant gift to help fund UVU’s Arts in Education elementary teacher education program. Educators throughout Utah Valley will have the opportunity to participate in several teacher in-service programs that will better prepare them to include the arts in their everyday instruction. Current UVU students in the Arts in Education cohort will compete for several Beverley Taylor Sorenson scholarships.

The late biotechnology pioneer and billionaire James Levoy Sorenson and his wife, Beverley Taylor Sorenson, founded the Sorenson Legacy Foundation. Beverley is committed to arts education and founded Artworks for Kids, an organization that has worked closely with the Utah legislature to ensure the use of the arts in every elementary classroom throughout the state. UVU’s program is uniquely positioned to helping her realize these hopes.

“UVU is committed to preparing teachers capable of developing sustainable arts programs in elementary schools throughout Utah, and the Sorenson Legacy Foundation has invested $50,000 to help us accomplish that during the 2012-2013 academic year,” —Newell Dayley, dean, School of the Arts

ATHLETICS

The 850 members of the Utah Valley University Wolverine Club contributed more than $300,000 toward the student-athlete scholarship fund in 2012. The club has been supporting UVU athletics through fundraising activities and programs since 1987.

UVU dominated the Great West Conference from its inception in 2009, winning the Commissioner’s Cup all three years and claiming 23 of a possible 42 league titles. This success has led to UVU’s acceptance into the Western Athletic Conference as of July 1, 2013. Membership in the WAC carries an automatic berth into NCAA tournaments.

College of AVIATION & PUBLIC SERVICES

Utah firefighter and former UVU Emergency Services adjunct faculty member Bob Goldhirsch established the Utah Fire & Rescue Academy RFG Endowed Scholarship Fund. The fund supports Emergency Services majors at UVU who are studying to be structural firefighters, wildland firefighters, or emergency medical technicians or paramedics.

UVU’s newly created College of Aviation & Public Services was launched in July 2012 to accommodate growth and diversity within the College of Technology & Computing. The new college houses the departments of aviation science, criminal justice, and emergency services. Wayne Dornan, who was appointed dean of the new college, brings experience including chairing the aerospace department at Middle Tennessee State University.

“I’ve been a firefighter my whole adult life, and it has been a good experience. I created the Utah Fire & Rescue Academy RFG Endowed Scholarship Fund to help out others who are interested in making firefighting a career.”

—Bob Goldhirsch

“Wolverine Club donations assist the student-athlete scholarship fund by providing the much needed financial support necessary to accomplish our goals of graduating student-athletes and winning championships.”

—Jared Sumsion, associate athletics director, external operations
Acclaimed professor J. Bonner Ritchie recently retired as scholar in residence at Utah Valley University after helping establish the Woodbury School of Business. In Ritchie’s honor, a group of former students, led by retired Weber State University President Paul Thompson, is raising funds for the J. Bonner Ritchie Professorship for the Woodbury School of Business, which will help the school attract and retain outstanding professors. The fund has exceeded $100,000 to date, with gifts from more than 50 donors honoring this respected and beloved professor.

Ritchie is professor emeritus of international organizational behavior at the Marriott School of Management at Brigham Young University and is a recognized expert on leadership ethics and development, organizational change, conflict resolution, and organizational philosophy. His resume includes working with Israelis and Palestinians to effect compromise.

“I am delighted to join in the effort to honor Dr. Ritchie. His contributions as a teacher, mentor, and strategic adviser have been impressive. More than 20,000 students have attended his classes and have been confronted with the challenge to become scholars, responsible for their own learning. Following Bonner’s example, the Ritchie professor will continue to challenge and assist students in their educational pursuits.”

—Paul Thompson

Marilyn Kofford is a longtime supporter of Utah Valley University’s “For the Love of Reading” literacy conference (formerly Forum on Children’s Literature), a two-day retreat designed to kindle youngsters’ interest in reading. The conference addresses the compelling need to make reading an attractive choice for young people and provides tools and motivation for teachers, librarians, and parents to help them lead children and teens to the joys of reading.

Kofford is a former Utah State PTA education commissioner and a former board member for the Alpine School District Foundation. She has supported the “For the Love of Reading” conference with $25,500 over three years.

“Utah Valley University’s ‘For the Love of Reading’ conference opens the door for us to explore the exciting world of books and new ideas and to visit with and learn from current authors and illustrators. The conference introduces us to experts in the field and gives us the opportunity to gain expertise in the latest techniques in teaching reading skills.”

—Marilyn Kofford, former Utah State PTA education commissioner
College of HUMANITIES & SOCIAL SCIENCES

Utah struggles with the highest per capita incidence of autism in the nation. With its annual autism conference and other initiatives, Utah Valley University has taken a leadership role in finding ways to help the autism community. To support autism research at UVU, President and CEO of Clear Horizons Academy Brent Wood has made a generous gift to UVU.

Brent Wood’s gift has made it possible for UVU to hire autism expert Teresa Cardon to the faculty. The fund is also helping to establish a partnership between UVU and Clear Horizons Academy, which specializes in the education of children of all ages with autism. The academy practices an individualized, relationship-based approach to education and provides resources to teachers, therapists, and other professionals who interact with autistic individuals.

“Brent’s generosity is significantly helping the university address its commitment to making a difference for the autism community. We are developing a certificate program in autism studies and have established partnerships with a variety of other autism advocacy groups in the state.”

—David P. Yells, dean, College of Humanities and Social Sciences

College of SCIENCE and HEALTH

Math education in Utah will get a boost from the generosity of Rudolph and Edna Reese, who established a charitable remainder trust at Utah Valley University to support UVU’s mathematics program. After the trust had matured for several years, the Reeses’ nephew, Donald, worked with University administrators to establish the Rudolph P. and Edna Reese Family Endowed Scholarship. The scholarship will be awarded to students pursuing a degree in mathematics education, with a preference for junior and senior students completing student teaching.

Rudolph and Edna grew up just half a mile from each other in Provo, Utah. Rudolph graduated from Brigham Young University and taught mathematics at Provo High School for more than 36 years. Rudolph passed away in 1999, and Edna in 2001. The generosity of their gift will carry on their legacy to future math educators and school children.

“The Reese Scholarship will benefit thousands of Utah children over the space of several decades. Supporting mathematics education will strongly impact our state’s engineering, scientific and fiscal competencies, and will improve our ability to reason logically.”
— David Fearnly, chair, Department of Mathematics

Clark and Pam Turner have established a fund that will help prepare UVU students to take their places in Utah’s workforce in the fields of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM). The D. Clark and Pam Turner Endowment for Engaged Learning will be awarded to students pursuing STEM degrees who are actively involved in an undergraduate research project overseen by a faculty member or an industry representative.

Clark Turner was founder and CTO of Aribex, which manufactures portable, battery-powered, X-ray devices for the dental and veterinary industries. Before selling the company, he donated stock to UVU to establish the fund. By avoiding the capital gains tax he would have paid on those shares, he was able to make a larger donation to support STEM students.

“We have found in industry that if somebody comes right out of school and hasn’t had any hands-on practical work experience, it takes us longer to train them than if they’ve had some hands-on experience in their undergraduate training. The fund is intended to help prepare students to be more employable after graduation and to be able to come up to speed quicker in the industrial setting.”
—D. Clark Turner

In MEMORIAM

BEATRICE SPARKS

Beatrice Ruby Mathews Sparks passed on in May 2012. Beatrice began her career writing magazine and newspaper articles and a series of comic books in the 1940s. She later wrote books geared toward youth, including “Go Ask Alice”, which was made into a television movie. Some of her books were published in 13 languages and were best sellers. Beatrice lectured all over the U.S. and in several other countries. She earned a doctorate when she was a grandmother and was an active community leader.

Beatrice and her late husband, LaVorn, had four children. Their gifts to Utah Valley University include a 1979 Rolls Royce, which was sold at auction, to the College of Technology and Computing, and generous support for the Presidential Scholarship.

HAL WING

Harold R. “Hal” Wing passed on in August 2012. His first loyalties in life were to family, God, and country, and his loyalty to country included reaching out and helping others. Hal kept the Charles Swindoll quote “Life is 10 percent what happens to you and 90 percent how you react to it” posted on his office wall, and he strove to live by that motto.

Hal was founder, CEO, and president of Wing Enterprises, a multi-million-dollar manufacturing and marketing corporation that manufactures Little Giant Ladder Systems and other innovative products. He was named 2003 Businessman of the Year by the National Republican Congressional Committee’s Business Advisory Council and received the Business of the Year award from the Utah County Commission for his company’s contributions to the Utah economy. In 2010 he became the fourth person inducted into the Utah Valley Entrepreneurial Forum Hall of Fame. He and his wife, Brigitte Mayer Wing, raised seven children and served several missions for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Hal was a former member of the UVU Foundation Board and was awarded an honorary Doctorate. of Business at commencement in 2011. He was an especially strong supporter of UVU athletics programs, including the naming gift for the Hal Wing Track & Field, and also generously contributed to scholarships, the popular UVU Auto Expo, the Center for Leadership, and other initiatives.

"Hal is one who has meant so much to Wolverine Athletics and to Utah Valley University. He has been a champion, a leader, and a friend to so many in our community. He will be deeply missed," said UVU Director of Athletics Mike Jacobsen.

IMOGENE WOODBURY

Mary Imogene Randall Woodbury passed on in January 2013. Imogene was enormously generous and reached out to those in need with love, emotional support, and gifts.

Imogene worked as a draftsman for the U.W. Army Corps of Engineers and then as a mining draftsman for International Smelting and Refining. She married Orin “Bud” Woodbury in 1945, and the couple raised six children. Imogene was actively involved in service to The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints throughout her life.

Imogene and Orin were passionate about establishing scholarships to make education available for all. They were members of the Gold Level of the President’s Circle for their personal giving to UVU. The Woodbury family has been generous benefactors of UVU for decades. They made the lead gift for the Woodbury Building in 1996, then in 2007 made an astounding $20-million gift for the Woodbury School of Business, the largest single gift the University has ever received. The Woodbury School of Business has since become the largest business school in the Utah System of Higher Education and is one of the top 30 percent of business programs in the U. S. to be accredited by the prestigious AACSB International. The Woodburys also made a gift for the Woodbury Art Museum.

"Imogene, in some ways, lived her life outside of the public sphere in which Orin has been so celebrated. She was, however, every bit his equal in competence, character, and caring about others. Those characteristics shared by this wonderful couple have made a tremendous difference in how we are able to develop the students who choose the Woodbury School of Business. I will miss Imogene and am committed to furthering the work that she and Orin have championed throughout their lives," said Norm Wright, dean of the Woodbury School of Business.

Ways to GIVE

The Utah Valley University Foundation, Inc., is a duly established charitable, tax-exempt 501(c)(3) entity that gratefully accepts gifts, pledges and payments to benefit UVU.

GIFTS OF CASH
An easy way to give is to make a gift online at supportuvu.org. You may also make a gift by check, made payable to Utah Valley University Foundation, and mail it to 800 W. University Parkway, MS 111, Orem, UT 84058-5999. Please feel free to call 801-863-6478 if you need assistance or to make a credit card gift over the phone.

PLEDGES
A pledge is a gift that the donor agrees to pay over a period of time. For your convenience, the Foundation sends you a reminder and return envelope at the times you specify to make your gift. Payments may also be made by periodic credit card charges.

ANNUAL GIVING
Each year alumni, donors and friends generously support the University with their annual gifts. By responding to a phone call from one of our UVU students or a solicitation letter that arrives in your mailbox, you provide scholarships, equipment and other much-needed resources to our students and faculty. Every gift matters and makes a difference. Please consider making a gift online at supportuvu.org.

APPRECIATED SECURITIES
Gifts of appreciated securities make excellent contributions and may offer you capital gains tax incentives. The full market value at the date of the gift usually may be claimed as a charitable deduction.

REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY
Real estate and marketable items of personal property with established values can be given to the University as outright gifts. You may deduct the fair market value of real estate held long-term. To be fully deductible, items of personal property must be related to the University’s purpose and function.

MATCHING GIFTS
Many companies have matching gift programs that match, double, or triple the contributions of their employees. If your employer offers matching gifts, please submit the appropriate form with your donation. If you are unsure whether your company has a matching gift program, please contact your company’s human resources office.

PLANNED GIFTS

Bequests
You may support Utah Valley University through an estate designation in your will. Our gift planning staff can assist you with the simple wording to insert in your estate documents and also encourage you to work with your legal and financial advisors to make this designation. The UVU Foundation deeply appreciates bequest gifts and would like to know of your intentions to make an estate gift so that we may include you in the esteemed Wilson W. Sorensen Society (WSS) that honors gifts of bequests.

Charitable Remainder Trusts
A charitable remainder trust provides income to the beneficiary you specify. The income amount is determined by individual circumstances. For your convenience, our gift planning staff can prepare examples of charitable remainder trusts that may fit your philanthropic and financial planning.

Retained Life Estate
A retained life estate allows you to make a gift of your personal residence or farm to UVU during your lifetime. You may designate the gift to the area of the University you wish to support and enjoy the use of your home or property and the benefits of your philanthropy during your lifetime.
