

Laila Mitchell

Laila Mitchell graduated from Aztec High School in New Mexico where she spent her time participating in piano recitals, attending Student Council Conferences, competing in rodeos and playing sports; which lead to two consecutive State Championships for the track team. Laila Mitchell is now a student at Utah Valley University where she is currently studying National Security. She is a transfer student from Dixie State University where she received her Associates in Science Degree of General Studies. She was an active participant in the Pacific Islanders club and a member of Women's Rugby Club. After playing rugby for DSU for two years, she is now an active member of the UVU Women's Rugby Club and participates in weekly practices and weekend tournaments. She is also a member of the National Security Club and Utah International Mountain Forum (UIMF), which is a coalition of student clubs that engage in the advocacy of the United Nations Sustainable Mountain Development.
