

Wendy Jyang

Wendy Jyang, the President of “UTAH CHINA Friendship Improvement Sharing Hands Development & Cooperation”, a non-governmental organization in special consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council was born in Asia surrounded by multiple cultures. She received her theatre degree from Brigham Young University. and currently lives in Salt Lake City. She works to promote family improvement and youth character training in order to empower low-income groups. Her efforts are put in creating solutions to achieve goals of upcoming generations. She enjoys arts, science, world religions and family history often composing ideas while sleeping on airplanes.