

Caleb Ream

Caleb Ream is a student at Utah Valley University pursuing a bachelor's degree in political science with an emphasis on global politics. Born in Denver Colorado, Caleb has always had a passion for being in nature, especially being so close to the mountains his whole life. Much of the time growing up, he spent outdoors playing sports, doing service projects with his youth group, or camping. Caleb is passionate about running and is currently on both the cross country and track and field teams at UVU and has been since 2019. After serving a mission for his church in both southern Utah and Angola from 2020-2022, Caleb decided to pursue education that would lead him travel around the world and to help those people internationally who need it. He enjoys playing games, reading, and hiking. One time Caleb and his friend walked 30 miles from Orem to Draper to go to IKEA only for the meatballs. Caleb uses his bright attitude and positive mindset to pursue those things he is passionate about and knows that it will help him with his friends, family, and future career.
