

McKay Jones

McKay Jones is currently pursuing an Honors Bachelor of Science in Bioinformatics at Utah Valley University, with minors in Political Science and Music. McKay currently works as a Community Building Fellow at UVU's Center for Social Impact, a Clinical Trials Intern at the Huntsman Cancer Institute, a Reporter for UVUReview, and a Councilmember for Utah's Department of Cultural & Community Engagement. Passionate about equitable public health outcomes and preventive healthcare, McKay dedicates his research and volunteer efforts to Sustainable Mountain Development in Utah. As a Vice President of the Utah International Mountain Forum, McKay helped organize Ambassador Michele J. Sison's visit to UVU.