

Angie Macias

Angie Macias is a Political Science major with a minor in Leadership in Nonprofit Organizations at Utah Valley University. Her academic interests focus on gender justice, democratic development and sustainable development. As she was raised in Honduras, Angie witnessed firsthand the challenges that many women and girls face in rural communities, where geography, gender inequality and limited institutional support can restrict access to education, legal protection and economic opportunities.

These experiences have shaped Angie's commitment to understanding how certain structural barriers affect women and girls in rural communities. Through her studies and service learning Angie has developed a great interest in public service. Angie has participated in community initiatives in Honduras, including supporting the construction of a kindergarten in a rural village to help extend educational opportunities for the younger generation of Honduras.