

Antoine Mwamba

Antoine Mwamba as an international student from the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), pursuing a degree in International Business with a minor in Political Science, driven by a strong commitment to public service and global engagement. His academic journey has been shaped by a desire to understand the economic and political systems that influence nations and communities. During his volunteer service in Ghana, Antoine witnessed firsthand how meaningful service initiatives can transform lives and strengthen communities. That experience deeply inspired him and reinforced his belief that leadership rooted in service can create lasting and measurable impact.

Motivated by these experiences, Antoine plans to attend law school to specialize in constitutional law, equipping himself with the legal expertise necessary to contribute effectively to global governance. He aspires to work in global politics at the United Nations, where he hopes to support policies that promote justice, equity, and sustainable development. Ultimately, his long-term goal is to return to his country (DRC) and continue serving in public leadership, using the knowledge and experience he has gained to advance democratic principles and create opportunities that improve the lives of his fellow citizens.
