

João Vitor Petter Nunes Martins da Silva

Born on October 27, 2000, in Porto Alegre, Brazil, João Petter is an undergraduate student at Utah Valley University pursuing degrees in Political Science with Global Politics emphasis and Applied Communication. He plans to advance his academic career by pursuing graduate studies in the international relations and global affairs fields. João is an enthusiast of soccer, history, geography, and true crime documentaries. Currently, he is fluent in three languages, Portuguese, English, and Spanish but he says he wants to add a couple more to his arsenal. Aside from playing soccer with his friends weekly, he loves spending time with family while balancing his time between a full-time job and a busy school schedule. He has received multiple honors in his academic career, such as induction into the National Society of Leadership and Success, and others. Growing up he has worked in multiple types of jobs and has learned the importance of hard work and dedication. João dreams of working in international organizations in both the private and public sectors.
